HUNGER ARMY WILL SEEK TO ENTER SENATE

Borah Warns That Plan Is Impossible and Will Hurt Cause.

MORE OPPOSITION TO MARCH APPEARS

Police Complete Plans for Reception of Protest Throng Tomorrow.

The "hunger marchers," who are now converging on the Capital from the Northeast and the West, will insist that their committee press their demands for unemployment insurance on the floor of the Senate and will not offer a petition for its enactment, as is usually done.

This was, in substance, the attitude of Herbert Benjamin, field representative of the "national hunger march," in an interview yesterday with Senator William E. Borah, who told Benjamin that the "only way to get admission to the floor of the Senate is to present a certificate of election."

In a statement issued from headquarters of the "hunger march" the committee announced its intention not to present their demands to Vice President Curtis. "We intend that our delegation shall present their demands of the unemployed from the floor of Congress."

Banners Will be Barred.

After a conference with Vice President Curtis, Brig. Gen. Pelham D Glassford announced that permission for the marchers to carry banners on the Capitol Grounds will be refused.

Gen. Glassford announced last night that the local arrangements committee for the 1,200 marchers have accepted the lodging facilities arranged by the Central Union Mission in the Old Presbyterian Church on John Marshall Place and the Salvation Army quarters at 481 C street northwest.

Sleeping and comfort facilities in each of these places have been extended. A food and supply storeroom will be established today by the Police Department at the Old Presbyterian Church, where donations of food, blankets or cots will be received.

The caravan from the West is due to arrive in Hagerstown, Md., tonight. The group from the Northeast will meet in Baltimore tonight. Both are expected here tomorrow.

"Mass Struggle" Urged.

Leaflets are being distributed throughout the District by members of the local committee, most of whom are identified with the Communist movement here, in which an appeal is made for a "mass struggle," and urges attendance at the two-day conference to be held in Washington Auditorium tomorrow and Monday.

Mayor Ruben Musey, of Hagerstown, Md., the committee said last night, has refused to feed the marchers as they pass through that place today.

Opposition to the marchers materialized last night when Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation, called the march "a straight-out Communist movement." Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, has promised to expose the movement as communistic in a radio address at 7:30 tonight over Station WJSV.

Gen. Glassford, said last night he had ascertained that none of the military services has made any preparations to suppress any possible disturbance that might occur during the stay of the marchers in the city. He is confident that the Metropolitan, Park and Capitol Police, with the aid of the Department of Justice and the

Commons Indorses High British Tariff

Vote in the House Is 234 to 37 in Favor of Increases.

London, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Heavy duties affecting numerous articles under the antidumping act, which were established recently by the board of trade, were confirmed by the House of Commons today by a vote of 234 to 37. In the debate on the measure, Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, declared Britain could not afford to ignore tariff barriers set up against British goods by other nations.

"We have found," he said, "that every protest made by us against raising of tariffs abroad was met by exactly the same reply I make now—that the internal interests of the country must be the first consideration of the government. We have found that the method of persuasion is useless. We are making no progress."

Most of the articles affected, he said, came from the United States and Germany.

Hoover Brother-in-Law Acquitted in Rum Case

Santa Monica, Calif., Dec. 4 (A. P.).—Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, was acquitted of a liquor possession charge today by Police Judge C. A. M. Spencer.

After hearing Leavitt's explanation of his arrest on November 9, while carrying a sack containing nineteen pints of liquor out the back door of C. R. Dailey's grocery store, Judge Spencer said:

"I don't think there is a person in the courtroom who would hold Leavitt guilty. He did exactly as any of us would have done under the circumstances. Therefore, I order the acquittal of Leavitt."

The verdict was received with applause by the crowded courtroom.

DRY POWER HINTED AS W.C.T.U. MEETS

Opening of Conference Is Marked by Stormy Sessions.

Stormy sessions marked the opening of the regional conference of the W. C. T. U. yesterday at the Mayflower. The four-day convention, the first of 25 scheduled to organize the women and present a solid front in the 1932 presidential campaign was opened by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, the president.

"Women who think, women who still look upon the home as the center for home life * * * will tell us how to make vocal, prohibition sentiment in the coming presidential election."

The convention was brought to its feet by William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, anti-Smith Democrat and former member of the House, who said: "As the first Democrat to raise the flag of rebellion against the nomination of the former Governor of New York, and as the first Democrat to support Herbert Hoover, I want to thank the Lord that there are still a few dry Democrats. We were Democrats until our party got drunk," Upshaw shouted.

Frank Wells, of Hamburg, Ark., said: "There are hundreds of dry Democrats in my State, and I bid you godspeed in leading the dry Democrats to victory."

The delegates cheered as Mrs. Mary Harris Armor called out, "I am not one of the Democrats who voted for Herbert Hoover and is dissatisfied now."

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, of New York, declared that Roosevelt is for repeal. At this Upshaw rose and said, "If he did or did not come out for repeal, any man who nominated Al Smith for President is too wet for me."

As the debate went on Southern members declared they could again desert the Democratic ranks as they did in 1928 if a wet were nominated.

When the discussion grew heated Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, of Missouri, remarked: "Don't think we are turning this into a Democratic caucus, but there lies the danger."

Speaking of the situation in Georgia, Mrs. Marvin Williams said, "We don't think we will have the influence we had in 1928 over the party nominee and platform, because they say now we are out of the party."

Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, vice president, spoke on "Holding the Front Lines," saying, "This is no time for the Federal Government, the administration or the leaders of either great party to take advice or leadership from the pitiful inefficiency of Cook County (Chicago), or of the gigantic corruption of Tammany Hall."

The delegates called at the White House at noon and presented the President with the pledges of more than a million young people between the ages of 14 and 30, to abstain from alcoholic liquors and to support the eighteenth amendment. Following the presentation of the pledges, the women of the W. C. T. U. were received at the White House by Mrs. Hoover.

Director of Prohibition Amos W. W. Woodcock and Senator Shepard, of Texas, are among those who will speak during the remaining sessions of the conference. Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur will speak Sunday afternoon on "Self-Management, the Basis of Citizenship."

SENATE GROUPS NAME LEADERS; FIGHTS IMPEND

DEMOCRATS SELECT PITTMAN FOR CHAIR

Will Have Progressives' Aid in Battle to Dislodge Moses From Post.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD

In party conferences yesterday, the Republicans and Democrats of the Senate selected their leaders and otherwise made ready for the Seventy-second Congress. Both conferences were described as "harmonious." The events of the day, however, foreshadowed a tumultuous opening session on Monday, the chief figure of which will be Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire.

With their eyes on the Presidency in 1932, the Democrats moved to present a united front with regard to legislation. Minority Leader Joe T. Robinson was authorized to appoint a legislative committee, which, together with one expected to be appointed today by prospective Speaker John Garner, will attempt to secure "unity and concert of action between the two bodies in Congress."

Senator Moses has now been president pro tempore of the Senate for six years. In this position he presides when the Vice President is absent. For the last four years, the Democrats have not even tried to wrest the office from him, knowing well that they did not have the votes.

Pittman to Oppose Moses.

Yesterday, however, the Democrats formally nominated Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, to run against the New Hampshire senator.

With Republican Progressives—"sons of the wild jackasses," he called them—determined to vote against Moses and in favor of some other Republican, a lively fight is in prospect, although nobody on Capitol Hill is laying odds that Moses will be ousted. The consensus is that Moses will remain.

As was expected, the Republicans yesterday again nominated Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, as their floor leader, and the Democrats named Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, as theirs.

Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, was named assistant Republican leader and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as th assistant Democratic leader. Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, was chosen as the Republican whip and Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, as the Democratic whip.

Most Progressives Absent.

The Republicans chose Edwin B. Thayer, of Indiana, for Senate secretary, and David L. Barry, of Rhode Island, for sergeant at arms. Both men now occupy those positions. The Democrats decided to put up Col. Edwin A. Halsey, of Virginia, for the first-named position, and J. L. Dobell for sergeant at arms.

The election of a president pro tempore decides which party shall control the Senate, and, while the Republicans have a majority, the Democrats are prepared for eventualities.

With the exception of Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, and Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, none of the Republican Progressives attended yesterday's Republican conference. They were not expected to attend, having remained aloof since the time the late Senator La Follette, Brookhart and a few others were barred from a conference.

Cooperative Group Named.

Senate and House Democrats always have cooperated on legislative matters. With the situation what it is today, however—with their party in

Fascists Will Control Germany, Says Hitler

Militant Leader of Brown Shirts Predicts Party Will Take Over Government in Few Weeks; Outlines Its International Policy.

Berlin, Dec. 4 (U.P.).—Adolf Hitler, the militant little leader of Germany's Brown Shirts, declared tonight that the Fascist party will come into power "within a few weeks, or a few months at the outside."

"The Fascists will acknowledge Germany's private debts, but payment is not a question of good will; it is a question of capacity to pay," Hitler said, in reference to the vast investments held in Germany by bankers of America, Great Britain and other countries. A total of $1,500,000,000 in such debts is now frozen.

Outlining the Fascist policy toward international problems, Hitler said:

1. A Fascist government would "negotiate" for settlement of foreign obligations (reparations and private debts), but Hitler is convinced the powers are perceiving that reparations payments are not feasible.

2. Germany will fall prey to "bolshevism and chaos" if the French thesis of priority of reparations over private debts is upheld.

3. Germany must "dump" goods abroad to get enough money to pay both reparations and private debts.

4. Reports that the Fascists will seize power by armed force are "ridiculous."

"Why should it be assumed that the Fascists are planning a putsch when legal assumption of power is so close," Hitler said, referring to the many Fascist election victories in Germany in the last few months. Since the last general election, the Fascist party has scored repeated triumphs in virtually every municipal and State election

HUGE FINANCE PLAN DRAFTED BY HOOVER

Congress Will Be Asked to Create Supplement to New Credit Pool.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover plans to spread before Congress the outline of a huge Federal finance organization, simulating in part the structure of the War Finance Corporation with its Government backing of many billions.

Disclosure that the President has such a formula before him came yesterday from a high source. If its various equations can be worked out in time, he hopes to incorporate it in his annual message, due next Tuesday.

Word that he was at work upon it, however, was regarded in some quarters as more of a confirmation than a surprise. Last October 6, in announcing his $500,000,000 credit pool, he served notice such a step would be recommended, if he considered it a "necessity."

Meanwhile, a Senate subcommittee continued its hearings on the feasibility of establishing a national economic council. Testimony before it ranged from requests for congressional aid for the coal miner to statements that an upswing toward prosperity was but a matter of months.

President Hoover's decision in favor of an organization along the lines of the War Finance Corporation, was reached after a study of the effects of his National Credit Corporation plan. He was represented as feeling that its psychological effect had been excellent, and that it had aided many banks and enabled others to remain liquid. He was said to feel, however, that its scope had not met fully the demands of the current credit situation.

No exact details of the President's proposal were available yesterday. In some quarters a possible capitalization of $1,000,000,000 was suggested.

Although he has conferred recently with Bernard Baruch, New York financier; Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; A. W. Shaw, chairman of his committee on recent economic changes, and yesterday with Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Chief Executive was said to have chosen no head for his proposed corporation.

It was Eugene Meyer who helped direct the War Finance Corporation

Bartlett Nominated To Take Hale's Seat

Former New Hampshire Governor Is G. O. P. House Choice.

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—John H. Bartlett, former Governor of New Hampshire, an opponent of prohibition repeal, today was chosen by Republicans of the First New Hampshire Congressional District as their candidate for the House seat of the late Fletcher Hale. Bartlett will be opposed by William N. Rogers, of Wakefield, Democratic advocate of repeal, in a special election, January 5.

Bartlett polled 288 votes on the first ballot in the district convention. His closest opponent was Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller, who received 74 votes. Mayor Fernando W. Hartford, of Portsmouth, who startled the convention by nominating himself with the remark that "these are progressive days," got 30 votes; State Senator Harold H. Hart, of Wolfeboro, was fourth, with 27, and Miss Anne Storey, of Laconia, trailed with 2.

Although Bartlett, who is a member of the International Boundary Commission, a former Assistant Postmaster General, and former chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission, is opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He said in his speech of acceptance that he favored a referendum.

PRESS CAMERAMEN ATTACKED BY POLICE

Photographer Blackjacked; Two More Seized in Teahouse Case.

A newspaper photographer received what witnesses described as "a terrible beating" last night at the hands of a Prince Georges County policeman, who attempted to prevent him from taking pictures, and another policeman confiscated one camera and parts of two others after an inquest held in Bladensburg.

The series of melees occurred when the cameramen attempted to get pictures of witnesses in the roadhouse shooting as they were being taken back to Baltimore. The injured man was Thomas McEvoy, of the News, who was charged with disorderly conduct and assault after a gaping wound in his scalp had been treated.

Witnesses said Constable Howard Slater hit McEvoy at least twice while the photographer's hands were encumbered with his camera and flashlight apparatus. He continued to stand over him after the newspaperman fell, while McEvoy said, "What are you trying to do, murder me?" according to Jerome Raley, of Washington.

County Policeman Ralph Brown took a camera from Louis Johrden, a Post photographer, while Johrden was standing on top of his own automobile parked across the road from the firehouse, where the inquest had been held. Brown also took a plateholder from Herbert White, of the Herald, and took a plate-holder belonging to Robert Perkins, of the Star.

After the inquest, five women and one man were taken from the side door of the firehouse by Federal men. Police circulated through the crowd, shouting "No pictures—no pictures." They also forbade taking of pictures by photographers who were stationed on the porch of a private house beside the firehouse.

J. J. Crowley, chief of the county police, said last night that he "understood that the no-picture order had been given by the United States marshals."

In spite of the shouts of the policemen, one flash bulb was exploded, and the two policemen made a rush for any man with a camera. Slater followed McEvoy about 50 feet from

Poland Hears Plot To Crown Pilsudski

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—All Poland was gossiping today about revelations of Marshal Pilsudski's alleged monarchist plans as set forth in evidence heard at the Brest-Litovsk trial of eleven deputies and former deputies charged with conspiring against the state.

The country was full of rumors that the marshal might proclaim himself king. Commentators pointed out that, since he is a Lithuanian by birth, relations with Lithuania might be improved if he did assume the crown.

There also was talk that Prince Nicholas, of Roumania—now in hot water because he disobeyed King Carol's wishes and married Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, a commoner—would make a suitable husband for Marshal Pilsudski's 14-year-old daughter, Wanda.

Alleged Robber of Irish Soldier Sent to Prison

Dublin, Irish Free State, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The military tribunal functioning under the public safety act today sentenced Thomas Breen to six months' imprisonment after he had been convicted of holding up and robbing a Free State soldier last September. Evidence was Breen was armed at the time of the holdup.

Three other defendants were bound over on a charge of illegal drilling.

FEDERAL UNION QUITS A. F. OF L. BY 4,929 VOTES

Formal Notice of Action Served on Secretary Last Night.

FINAL BREAK COMES ON RECLASSIFICATION

Federation's Refusal to Aid Pay-Revision Plan Brings Quick Referendum.

The National Federation of Federal Employes last night withdrew from the American Federation of Labor by a vote of 16,335 to 11,406 of its membership, a majority of 4,929 for withdrawal.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was officially advised of the decision, following a final tabulation of ballots shortly before midnight.

A check for $521.84 was inclosed in a letter to Mr. Morrison, representing last month's paid up dues of 52,184 members of the National Federation of Federal Employes in good standing.

On this basis, withdrawal of the Federal employes will mean a monetary loss to the American Federation of Labor of approximately $60,000 a year.

Break Over Classification.

The break came as the direct result of the Labor Federation's opposition to classification legislation sponsored by the National Federation of Federal Employes.

Throughout the last session of Congress, Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, and Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer, led a national fight for reclassification.

The legislation proposed, they declared, would eliminate some of the broadest discrepancies, and place classification on a sounder and more exact basis.

At the direction of Congress, the personnel classification board made a survey of the whole Federal field service. The board found that in general the Government pay did not compare with the wages paid for similar work outside of the Government. And as a result the board recommended an entirely new deal in classification.

Congress Failed to Act.

Despite the vigorous fight by the Federation of Federal Employes to bring this about at the last Congress, nothing was done; and the federation meanwhile had been marking time, awaiting convening of Congress to renew the battle.

In convention in Seattle last September the Federal Employes again went on record in favor of a reclassification. Then Mr. Steward and Miss McNally are understood to have served notice on President William Green of the Labor Federation that if his group took adverse action, withdrawal would be recommended by the National Federation of Federal Employes' executives.

Nevertheless opposition was raised to the proposed reclassification legislation at the October Vancouver convention of the American Federation of Labor, and, following an extended fight on the floor, the federation voted to withhold its approval.

Opposition was led by representatives of the machinists, who held that they, as well as all of the other skilled trades, could only lose by reference of their wage problems to the Personnel Classification Board, as proposed in the legislation. Under system now prevailing in navy yards, wages are determined by special wage boards, and the machinists expressed themselves as satisfied with this system.

Held Stand Misinterpreted.

Representatives of the Federation of Federal Employes declared that this was a misinterpretation of their

MOB LYNCHES KILLER, TAKEN ON DEATH BED

(Associated Press.)

Describing working conditions on lower Mississippi levees as "amazing and shocking," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday called for a Government investigation.

Green said he would transmit a copy of a report by federation investigators to Secretary Hurley of the War Department, which has jurisdiction over flood control work. A thorough inquiry should be made, he said, to punish those guilty of "perpetrating the wrongs" and to "relieve the intolerable conditions."

"Evidently exploitation of defenseless workers has been practiced in a most vicious and reprehensible way," Green said in a statement. "One can scarcely comprehend that working people in any section of the United States could be oppressed and exploited in such a shocking way as revealed by the report."

He asserted workers on Government projects near Lake Providence, La.,

Band of Men Enters Rear of Hospital as Police Guard Front.

MARYLAND MERCHANT IS SLAIN BY EMPLOYE

Crowd of 2,000 Shouts as Victim Is Strung Up; Body Burned.

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Less than six hours after he had shot and killed his employer, Mack Williams, 35-year-old Negro, was dragged from his bed in the Peninsula General Hospital tonight, lynched in the Wicomico County courthouse yard, and his body then burned at the edge of the Negro settlement.

Six members of a crowd estimated at 2,000 entered the hospital through a side door after police at the front had turned them back, and took Williams from his bed, his head swathed in bandages as the result of wounds inflicted by both himself and Daniel J. Elliott, jr., 30, son of the man he had slain.

The little advance guard of the mob hustled the man to the street and placed him in the center of a crowd of 300 which started a march of several blocks to the courthouse yard, where the remainder of the lynching throng waited.

Crowd Applauds at Pyre.

One of the mob produced a rope as the crowd approached the courthouse green. One end was tossed over the limb of a tree and the overcast carried it over a lamp post. The other end was fastened to the victim's neck and a score of hands dragged his body 15 feet off the ground.

The rope was secured and the body left dangling grotesquely for more than twenty minutes. Then several men stepped forward, slashed the rope, picked up Williams and started off, shouting to the other members to follow them.

They carried the body to a vacant lot on Poplar Hill avenue, just at the edge of the Negro district, and after drenching it and a quantity of wood with gasoline, set it afire. The crowd gathered about the pyre shouted and applauded, and did not leave until the last flame had flickered out.

Lynch Cry Is Raised.

The lynching spirit rose in Salisbury a half hour before the attempt was started when word came from the hospital that the killer was still alive after having been reported dead from a wound he inflicted on himself and another inflicted by Elliott after he had shot and killed Daniel J. Elliott, 67, his employer for nearly ten years.

Several men standing near the courthouse green, evidently discussing the slaying of Elliott, a lumber dealer and box manufacturer, raised the cry:

"Let's lynch Williams."

As they walked toward the hospital they repeated the cry and scores fell in behind them. Members of the lynch mob appeared from stores, side streets and corners until it had reached nearly 2,000.

Bandages Blind Victim.

The crowd was orderly, and stood by while the six men made their first attempt to enter the hospital, only to be repulsed by Police Chief N. H. Holland and Deputy Sheriff John Parks, guarding the entrance.

When they entered the hospital by a side door and reappeared with the man, a great shout went up. Neither police nor any other person sought to dissuade the mob as it led him away, his head so heavily swathed in bandages that he could not see where he was going.

State's Attorney Levin C. Bailey, who left Salisbury after questioning the Negro following the shooting, returned shortly after 11 o'clock tonight and said he had no plans for any action until he had conferred with the sheriff and other officials.

Third Crime in Two Months.

The lynching was the outgrowth of the third case in recent weeks where Negroes were charged with crimes against whites. Two men, Yuel Lee, charged with the murder of the Green Davis family of four in nearby Worcester County, and George Davis, charged with attempted crim-

BARRETT CONVICTED IN BRUTALITY CASE

Detective Sergt. Robert J. Barrett, suspended member of the homicide squad at Detective Headquarters, was found guilty early last night of having assaulted George M. Baber last April 6.

The jury considered the facts in the case for slightly over three hours before the nine men and three women could arrive at a unanimous decision. Justice James M. Proctor, trial judge, had remained in his chambers awaiting the outcome of the jury's deliberation and the news that the jury had agreed upon a verdict had hardly been started on its way when the panel filed into the court and announced the decision.

Barrett was allowed to continue at liberty on the $1,000 bond on which he has been free since his indictment several weeks ago. There were indications last night that his attorneys would file a motion for a new trial, and that in the event this was denied they would take the case to the Court of Appeals.

The charge against Barrett was that in company with three other detectives he went to Baber's apartment at Thirteenth and Belmont streets to arrest Baber as a suspect in the Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes murder case. The officers found Baber was not at home and they opened his apartment to wait for him.

The jury was told by Baber that as soon as he stepped into his apartment he was felled by Barrett, who, he testified, continued to belabor him until his companion officers stopped him. Barrett denied, when he took the stand in his own defense, that he had struck Baber, although he said that when they were scuffling in the apartment he might have inadvertently struck the man.

Baber's complaint that he was beaten was dormant for five months until the Department of Justice began its investigation into alleged police brutality here. At the inception of the investigation, a report of the Baber case was said to have been sent to the Bureau of Investigation of the department by officers of the company for which Baber worked.

Acting on this information, agents of the bureau interviewed a score or

2 Men in Child's Restaurant Fight Among Ten Prisoners Taken.

Breaking through four barred doors at a cigar store at 433 Eleventh street northwest, vice squad raiders, under leadership of Sergt. George M. Little and Assistant United States Attorney Robert Robb, arrested ten men, including William Deitz and Sam Melincov.

Police said that they uncovered an elaborately equipped bar in the basement and bookmakers' paraphernalia in a room on the second floor.

The officers were unable to determine which of the ten persons were the proprietors of the establishment. All were taken to the First Precinct, where Sergt. Little was questioning them last night.

A large quantity of bottles was destroyed by Dietz and Shellie Rowe, a colored porter, before entry was gained, police said. They found a third of a pint of alleged alcohol and two bottles of beer.

3 Arrested After Pursuit on Suburban Road; Haul Valued at $2,500.

A rich assortment of alleged liquors for holiday use in the Captal was seized by Prince Georges County police late yesterday afternoon, following a 6-mile chase from Beltsville to College Park, Md. The quantity of liquor was the largest ever taken by police of that county from a car of the type seized, a coupe.

Authorities were holding under $1,500 bond Mr. and Mrs. Jeronie Barraia, of Cranford, N. J., on possession and transportation charges. Additional charges of speeding and reckless driving were placed against Barraia and John Raymond, also of Cranford, who was driving another coupe.

The coupe was equipped with truck tires and truck springs. All available

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Dec. 4.—Groping through a maze of conflicting proposals regarding establishment of a neutral zone in the Chinchow area of Manchuria the twelve neutral members of the League of Nations council decided tonight to ask the Tokyo representatives of the United States, Great Britain and France to assist in clearing up the Japanese attitude toward this proposal.

Officials who attended tonight's long private meeting admitted that the council had gotten nowhere in its efforts to harmonize the attitudes of the governments at Nanking and Tokyo.

No new instructions from either were presented today, although they have been awaited for some time.

So far as could be learned from those in a position to know, Japan still insists that it can not recognize the authority of any third party in the neutral zone, and demands that

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Soviet Russia will maintain its attitude of neutrality toward China and Japan in their Manchurian struggle, Boris E. Mr. Skvirsky was formerly representative in this country for the Far Eastern Soviet republics and has been the unofficial "Ambassador" of the Moscow government in this country. The United States does not recognize Mr. Skvirsky as ambassador, since it does not recognize Soviet Russia.

The greatest concern has been current in all nations, including Japan and China, over the probable attitude which the Moscow government would take toward the situation in Manchuria. At various times Stalin has been reported as favoring the Chinese Nationalists and just as frequently he was reported in league

WABASH SUBSIDIARY JOINS RECEIVERSHIP

Creditors of Ann Arbor Railroad Obtain Order in Federal Court.

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The Ann Arbor Railroad, a subsidiary of the Wabash, was placed in the hands of a receiver in Federal court here today on application of the Jennison-Wright Co., of Toledo, which presented an unpaid material claim for $17,169.48.

Federal Judge George P. Hahn named as receivers William S. Franklin, president of the Wabash, and Frank C. Nicodemus, jr., vice president, who Monday were named as receivers of the Wabash.

In its application Jennison-Wright alleged that the railroad, 295 miles long, running from Toledo to Frankfort, Mich., and operating car ferries from Sturgeon Bay, Menominee, Manistique, Mich., and Manitowoc, Wis., owes $11,090,800 in mortgages on which it can not meet interest payments.

The petition said that holders of securities had threatened foreclosure and that interest payments due from the road October 31 last amounted to more than $436,000 and that surplus net revenues were not sufficient to meet these.

Gross earnings of the road for the ten months ended October 31 were less by $869,000 than for the corresponding period last year. Outstanding floating indebtedness of the road was set at $1,066,604.47. The applicant also set up that the road is not able to meet its bills and creditors are pressing for payment, and that there is no means to float a loan to meet payments due, since there is no collateral available to secure such a loan.

Newcomb Public Library Will Be Open Tuesday

The Newcomb Club Public Library, Wisconsin avenue and Edgemoor lane, Bethesda, Md., will be open for the first time on Tuesday. In the future it will be available on Tuesdays and Saturdays from 11 o'clock in the morning until 4:30 in the afternoon.

The library contains 600 books, including the latest fiction. It is sponsored by the Newcomb Club of Bethesda and is open to all members of the community.

Former Policeman Asks Jury Trial in Rum Case

A jury trial was demanded in Police Court yesterday by Joseph De Palma, former police vice squad member, when he was arraigned for the second time within a month on a charge of possession of liquor. This time he was allegedly trapped by former fellow vice squad members, who called him to make a delivery to an informer at Eighteenth street and Belmont road northwest.

The man gave De Palma a marked bill in payment, police said. De Palma was acquitted in Police Court last week by a jury which found him not guilty of possessing liquor found in the janitor's quarters of an apartment house on Connecitcut avenue northwest.

Chevy Chase Woman Hits Wet Groups at Session

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, Chevy Chase, Md., president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, tonight assailed what she called "wet" groups in an address delivered under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Constitution.

She said the next Congress would be asked to investigate the activities of the association against the prohibition amendment, and said the Navy League attacked President Hoover because he was dry. Other speakers at the meeting included Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, St. Louis.

stand, that the various trades groups that did not care to be embraced in the legislation could be excluded.

Immediately following the American Federation of Labor action, President Steward, Miss McNally, and members of the executive committee of the National Federation of Federal Employes met in special session.

On October 27, they sent out a referendum to all member locals, setting forth the federation's position and advising withdrawal.

Locals were allowed 30 days in which to vote on the issue and submit the results of their ballot to national headquarters. That time having expired last night, President Steward made known the results of the vote.

In the interval preceding the final count, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and a number of his associates, have made every effort to effect a compromise.

Largely as a result of their efforts, four local unions voted against withdrawal, although even here there was a wide difference within their ranks.

Washington locals opposing withdrawals included the men's local in the Bureau of Engraving, the Bureau of Standards, the War Department locals, and Local No. 2. The women's local in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the six other Washington locals, voted for withdrawal.

Officials said that approximately 235 locals registered their vote. Some of the remainder had been disqualified because of failure to pay their dues, and still others, owing to their distance from headquarters and other causes, did not forward their ballot within the allotted 30 days.

President Steward said that several hundred more new applications than are usual at this time of year have been received at national headquarters during the period of the dispute from Federal workers favoring a break with the American Federation of Labor.

Rex Bell Denies Marrying Clara Bow; Officials Tell

Two Witnesses Say "It" Girl and Film Cowboy Wed Secretly and Returned to Ranch Where They Have Spent Months.

Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Clara Bow, after months of seclusion in the desert, came back to her public today, presumably in the dress of a bride, but Rex Bell, whom two witnesses said they saw wed last night, denied he had become her husband.

A situation, typically reminiscent of the turbulent career of Clara Bow, was brought into public relief with the unexpected disclosure by the witnesses that the couple had appeared here last night, obtained a marriage license and was wed secretly by District Judge William E. Orr.

To questioners, the cowboy actor denied he and Miss Bow had married. He intimated that for her to marry would endanger certain contracts. An inquiry brought a statement from Frank Dunlap, Miss Bow's agent in Hollywood, that he knew of no contract she possessed that would be violated by marriage.

The witnesses, Harley Harmon, district attorney here, and William Schuyler, deputy county clerk, who issued the license, described the brief ceremony, even to telling of the dress of the principals. They said Miss Bow wore a wine-colored gown, fur coat and Empress Eugenie hat. Bell, they said, was dressed in a brown business suit.

On the license, their ages were given as 26 for the actress and 28 for Bell.

Dunlap, who expressed surprise at the marriage, said Bell had advised him he would return to Hollywood early next week from his ranch near Searchlight, Nev., where the couple has been living since Miss Bow left Hollywood several months ago after a nervous breakdown.

Judge Orr, who has married many famous couples of Hollywood, said he did not wish to discuss the matter.

The witnesses said the couple was married about 8 o'clock and left immediately by automobile for the ranch, located about 60 miles from here and difficult to reach by communication. Schuyler said the couple called him from his home and asked him to issue the license, necessitating a reopening of his offices.

Other than the denial, Bell had nothing to say about his plans or those of Miss Bow, whose affairs he has handled for some time.

The couple has lived on the ranch since early last summer, when Miss Bow temporarily retired from films to recuperate from a nervous breakdown, attributed partly to the trial of her former secretary, Daisy DeBoe, on chages of theft.

It remained for Bell, whom she met in pictures, to win her hand for the first time. Likewise it was his first marriage.

Bell is a strapping young man with dark hair, which he parts in the middle, and has a ready smile. He is almost the antithesis of his bride, who is at once temperamental and good natured.

Since they met, he has handled her affairs, and when her health failed he insisted she go to his ranch for rest. Hollywood has seen them but little since they went to the wide open spaces of Nevada.

It was as the "It" girl of Hollywood that Miss Bow first came to fame in pictures, and with fame came her suitors.

Savage journed to Hollywood to meet her. One morning they attempted to obtain a license, but it was a holiday. The following day Savage was found in his apartment, his wrists slashed by a razor. The actress had accepted the failure to obtain a license as a bad omen.

While in a hospital here, Miss Bow met Dr. Pearson. Later she went to Dallas, Tex., where he lived, but she denied she had gone to see him and continued on to New York, where she and Richman were seen often together. She had met Richman while he was in Hollywood making a picture.

Friends believed they would be married, but the romance faded and she returned to Hollywood. Shortly before the Deboe case developed, she met Bell.

After the trial, at which Miss Deboe was convicted, Clara left pictures. Many rumors swept the film colony that she had left because her studio had objected to her tempestuous life, but these were denied and the parting apparently was friendly.

Arrangements have been completed recently whereby the first Bow "comeback" picture made by Sam Rork, the independent producer, will be released through the Columbia Pictures Corporation. It is planned to start the picture around the first of the year.

When Rork signed a contract with Miss Bow several weeks ago, it was understood that she was to get $50,000 for one picture. At that time, plans were that the picture should be started soon after December 1.

At the Deboe trial it was brought out she has a trust fund exceeding $200,000, saved out of a salary which at one time was estimated at more than $240,000 a year.

Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A suit directed against Clara Bow, film actress, and Rex Bell, cowboy actor, whom she reputedly married here last night, for an alleged gambling debt was settled out of court today.

The amount of the settlement was not known, but it was indicated that it was less than the sum of $1,100, which had been asked. The settlement was effected by Bell.

The suit was brought by Louis Cornero, coowner of a gambling casino, who claimed he was given a demand note September 26, but had been unable to collect.

It was the second time that Miss Bow's ventures with games of chance have brought demands for payment. A resort near Reno announced the actress had stopped payment on checks for $13,900, given for alleged gambling debts.

COMMISSION RESTS IN UTILITIES INQUIRY

(United Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission yesterday inspected the books of the Middle West Utilities Co., an Insull holding company, and recessed its investigation of public utilities until Tuesday.

Asel R. Colbert, former commission accountant, concluded reading a voluminous report on the financial activities of the Middle West Co. and its subsidiaries.

He revealed an "unexplained" item of $44,100 listed on the books under "subscriptions to associations and donations." It consisted of vouchers made payable to Martin J. Insull for "special expense."

Purpose Not Shown.

"The presumption is," Colbert said, "that the cash was paid over to Mr. Insull and was used by him for the purpose intended. What that purpose may have been was not shown by the records."

The examiner said the accounts of the company had been examined previously under a Senate resolution to determine whether any funds had been used in political campaigns. He said no evidence of political expenditures was found and added that "with the exception of the amount of cash expenditure authorized by Martin J. Insull, the nature of expenditures were set forth in the accounts."

From May, 1912, the time of its organization, to September 30, 1930, Colbert said Middle West realized $112,824,101 in gross income. Profits on sales to subsidiaries amounted to $17,710,867.53.

Records Are Scrutinized.

"In a number of cases," he testified, "such so-called profits have been nothing more in effect than a write-up of investment security values and represent no realized earnings of the Middle West Utilities Co."

The commission inspected the balance sheets and income and expense accounts of the company.

On Tuesday it will take into consideration the important subsidiaries of Middle West. Among them are: Northwest Utilities Co., United Public Service Co., United Public Utilities Co., Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Co., and the L. E. Meyers Construction Co.

One Killed, Four Hurt In Clash of Filipinos

Salinas, Calif., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—One Filipino, Joe Abarquez, was fatally beaten, four others were in hospitals seriously injured, and four were under arrest here today while another faced a possible murder charge as a result of a clash last night between two tribal groups of the islanders.

All pool halls frequented by Orientals were ordered closed. For weeks trouble has been brewing between the Filipinos from the Visayan group of the islands and the Ilocanos from northern Luzon. Last night's clash was in a pool hall and concerned ten Visayans and 30 Ilocanos.

and Greenville, Miss., are paid wages far below a subsistence level.

"The amount given them," he added, "was as low as $1.25 for a 12-hour work day. Added to this was the fact that they were compelled to spend these small earnings in Government commissaries where they paid for goods at high prices and where they found their incomes totally inadequate to buy even the bare necessities of life.

"The inhuman treatment accorded many workers is revealed in the fact that when they were injured and thus became incapacitated they were neglected and treated in a most shameful way."

Already the War Department is awaiting information on charges by Holt Ross, a representative of the Labor federation, that the lash and pistol butt are wielded frequently on flood control projects around Vicksburg, Miss.

The Army chief of engineers had promised an investigation before the charges were made. Green has not received a report on conditions near Vicksburg, but expects one soon.

A blanker denial of these charges has been issued by R. G. Church, secretary and manager of the Mississippi Valley Flood Control Branch of the Associated General Contractors. He termed them "another gesture of the Labor group to discredit all classes and kinds of employers of labor in their program to unionize the South."

Employers at Lake Providence mentioned in the report made public by Green are Contractors Sternberg, Forrest Williams, Charles Whitaker and a Mr. Wiley, a sub-contractor for Sternberg.

Those mentioned in the Greenville area are West Gray, near Valley Park; Roach's Camp, near Greenville, and E. C. Dye, Bolivar County.

"According to our information from the men themselves," the report said, "the Government is now working men twelve hours per day and longer in the first contract work north of Greenville. This is a Government job."

Representative Whittington, of Mississippi, yesterday said that he had asked for information on the charges of American Federation of Labor officials that Negro levee workers on the Mississippi River were being enslaved by contractors.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, plans to confer with Mr. Whittington on the charges.

Civitan Club Plans Party For Boys' Garden Club

Plans for the annual Christmas party the Civitan Club gives to members of the Civitan Boys Garden Club, were made last night at a meeting of the board of directors. The board members were guests of William E. Humphreys, club president, at dinner. The annual election of officers of the club will be held Tuesday.

At the luncheon meeting yesterday, the club was host to feminine friends. The Rev. Mark Depp, of Calvary Methodist Church, was principal speaker, and Fred East and Phil Raymond presented a program of entertainment.

the firehouse, and struck him as he stood on the sidewalk, witnesses said.

According to M. E. Joyce, another witness of the fray, McEvoy was struck from behind while he held his camera in the air. The policeman swung his blackjack down on the helpless man's head twice, Mr. Joyce said.

McEvoy then attempted to hold Slater's arms to protect himself, and was thrown down. It was reported that a kick, aimed at the prostrate man by a friend of the officer, broke the News' man's camera, but this could not be verified.

McEvoy was taken into the firehouse and treated by members of the Bladensburg Rescue Squad. Warrants charging him with disorderly conduct and assault on Slater were then sworn out.

Retains Attorney.

Later he retained Attorney Robert J. McCullough to defend him and to decide what steps would be taken against the policeman, who is appointed for the Berwyn district. The assault on the newspaperman took place in Bladensburg district. McEvoy obtained his freedom on bond of $150 and was taken to a hospital.

After the bulb flashed, Brown rushed to where White was standing with his camera and demanded his plateholder. It was given up and Brown broke it with his foot. The policeman next went to Perkins and took his plateholder.

Johrden was standing on the top of his own maghine, parked across the road, with his camera on the tripod. Brown seized the leg of this and hauled down the camera, although Johrden had not taken any pictures. Through the rest of the evening, the policeman walked about with the camera and tripod under his arm.

Johrden was also one of those ordered off the porch of the nearby house, although the owner had given him permission to use it to take pictures. McEvoy was on the sidewalk when struck by Slater, Perkins and White were also on the sidewalk, and Johrden was across the road but still on the right-of-way when Brown took their equipment.

Who exploded the flash bulb could not be learned, but those in McEvoy's flashgun had not been used after he had been taken to have his wounds treated. Neither had The Post photographer taken any pictures when his camera was seized.

Wire of Protest Sent.

The managing editor of The Post last night sent the following telegram of protest to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland:

"The Washington Post respectfully lodges a most emphatic protest against the conduct of Prince Georges County police officers and their treatment of our staff photographer at an inquest held at Bladensburg tonight.

"A camera, the property of The Washington Post, was confiscated by a county policeman, and has not been returned. A justice of the peace was appealed to in vain. A photographer from another newspaper was badly beaten and then arrested.

"Other newspapermen, legitimately about their business, have been interfered with and molested. I respectfully call this matter to your excellency's attention because it is impossible to treat with county officials."

The inquest into death of Grover Amick, killed in the Bladensburg roadhouse holdup, was abruptly continued last night after Federal warrants had been served on a man and woman attending the hearing. Those arrested were Samuel Kushner and Marie Wilson.

Only seven witnesses had testified when Judge Robert Altemus halted the proceedings to announce that the rest of the witnesses would be heard later, after police have a chance to finish their investigation.

Most of those heard last night were persons who rushed to the house after the shooting in the early morning of November 23. George Osborn was the only one to testify who was actually in the house when the battle started.

Osborne Tells His Story.

Osborn, who lives at 13 Madison street northwest, said that he went to the house with the dead man and Miss Anna Lechlider, of Washington, whom they left outside in their car. They had been inside only a few minutes when they were ordered into the kitchen, he said. He then heard the shot which wounded Charles Leavitt, the manager of the place.

About five seconds after this, he estimated, the man beside him in the line against the wall turned around with a gun in his hand, and the general battle started. He was positive that the man beside him shot at least once.

The two persons arrested just before the inquest started were both in the house at the time of the holdup. Kushner was arrested for violation of the Mann act while the woman is held as a witness. She was free on bail on a county witness warrant when rearrested. Four other girls who were on bail as county witnesses were arrested several days ago by Federal men.

Constable Andrew Gasch, who has been one of the investigators of the case, testified as to the position of the wounded when he arrived. The women were all in the yard of the house, he said, while Felix Bocchicchio was in a car and Thomas Simone was lying behind a car occupied by Miss Anna Lechlider. Leavitt was walking around.

Miss Lechlider Testifies.

Miss Lechlider also testified, but was unable to say how long her two companions had been in the house when the shooting started. "It seemed like two or three hours," she said. She left Washington about 1 o'clock in the morning.

Constable Charles W. Wilson said he found a .45 caliber automatic pistol in the parlor and picked it out of a collection of guns displayed. Two other pistols were identified by Officer H. L. McCormick as thrown away by two men who fled from the house after he arrived on the scene.

Horace K. Fuller, a Riverdale electrician who went to the house with police, told of receiving the phone call from Philadelphia which led to arrest of two men there. The man calling would not give his full name. Mr. Fuller said, asking that Leavitt be told that "Willie" was on the phone. Mr. Fuller obtained the number and notified Philadelphia police who made the arrests.

The inquest will be resumed December 18 at 6:30 at the Bladensburg firehouse, where it was held last night.

DOCTORS ANNOUNCE NOVEL ANESTHETIC

Quicker, Longer Lasting and Free of Objectionable Effects Is Claim.

San Francisco, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Development of a new general anesthetic through the purification of divinyl oxide was announced today as the work of members of the staff of the University of California Medical School.

The new anesthetic is declared to be quicker acting than the older anesthetics such as chloroform, ether, and other gases. Its effect is longer lasting and its use is freer from the objectionable pathological effects.

It is the discovery of Dr. C. D. Leake, professor of pharmacology and a number of a ociates including a Chinese woman, Mrs. Mei-Yu Chen Mai, now in Peiping, China; Dr. P. K. Knoefel, fellow of the national research council, and Dr. A. E. Guedel, anesthetist, of Los Angeles.

Important Discovery.

Although clinical evaluation of the new anesthetic is still proceeding at the University of California Hospital, its ascertained merits have already shown the discovery is one of the most important of the year, in the opinion of Dean Langley Porter.

Additional scientific interest attaches to the discovery, Dean Porter says, because its action was predicted by Prof. Leake before it was put to trial, and because it is a result of the cooperative work of chemists, pharmacologists and physicians from both coasts of the United States.

Can Be Made From Leek.

Although divinyl oxide, which is related chemically to the older anesthetic, can be obtained from the common garden variety of leek, it is more practicable to obtain it otherwise. The labor of making divinyl oxide in a chemically pure form was done at Dr. Leake's request by Dr. R. T. Major, and Dr. W. L. Ruigh, of Princeton University, and the Merck Laboratory for Pure Research, Rahway, N. J.

Dr. H. C. Naffziger, professor of surgery, and Dr. D. Wood are supervising the continued clinical experimentation.

This discovery, like that of the new drug, "carbarsone," a product of the same school recently announced for the treatment of amoebic infection of the intestinal tract, was made possible by research funds provided through the Christine Breon research fund, and public-spirited citizens.

Virginia Wyllis' Mate To Marry Again Soon

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Marjorie W. Finger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M Skinner, of New Orleans, returned on the Deutschland from France tonight to announce she would be married to Luis Marcenin de Aguirre as soon as their divorce decrees are made valid.

Mr. Aguirre is being divorced in Paris by his wife, the former Virginia Willys, daughter of John N. Willys, American minister to Poland, and Mrs. Willys.

inal assault on a white woman, are in the Baltimore City Jail, where they were taken after mob threats against them.

Williams shot and killed Elliott as the latter sat in his office talking to a friend on the telephone. Elliott, 67-year-old lumber dealer and box manufacturer, was alone when the Negro entered and opened fire without any exchange of words, police said. He then turned the pistol on himself, inflicting a wound in the chest.

The manufacturer's son, Daniel, jr., 30, attracted by the shooting, ran to the office to find his father slumped in his chair and the Negro lying on the floor. He carried his father to an automobile and sent him to a hospital.

Returning to the office, young Elliott saw the Negro staggering through a lumber yard which adjoined the office. Picking up the pistol from the floor where the Negro left it, Elliott gave chase and fired once, the bullet striking him in the head.

The colored man was taken to the same hospital where the elder Elliott had died a few minutes before. State's Attorney Bailey, who talked to Williams in the hospital, said the Negro declared Elliott had been "robbing him" through payment of but 15 cents per hour for his labor. Williams had been employed by Elliott nearly ten years.

Elliott, at the time he was shot, was talking to Thomas Chatham. Chatham, hearing the shot and having the phone conversation cut short, called police who arrived at the scene just as the colored man was shot by young Elliott.

Elliott had been prominent in Salisbury and Eastern Shore business circles for many years.

OUSTED HEAD DEFIES REBELS IN SALVADOR

U. S. Says New Government's Recognition Depends on Legal Procedure.

(Associated Press.)

Recognition of the new El Salvadorean government was said yesterday by high State Department officials to be dependent upon constitutional reorganization of the country and election of a president who was not a leader in the revolution.

They referred to a speech made last February by Secretary Stimson before the council on foreign relations in New York City. He said this country was adhering to the policy laid down by Secretary Hughes, who negotiated the five-power treaty of 1923 providing that no government forcing itself into office by other than constitutional means shall be recognized.

The El Salvadorean Legation here was advised yesterday that President Araujo has established his own government in Santa Ana, the second city of the republic, and that the general opinion of the country repudiates the military revolt at San Salvador.

Minister Leiva said: "It is not thought possible that the military junta which initiated the revolt will succeed in forming even a de facto government."

San Salvador, Dec. 4 (U.P.).—The military government which seized power after a rebellion yesterday lifted press censorship tonight, and issued a manifesto saying it would "create a new regime designed to facilitate the progress of the Republic El Salvador."

The manifesto said:

"The younger military leaders, aroused by the innumerable errors committed by the government of the engineer President Arturo Araujo, uprose against the regime on the night of December 2.

"They took this action under article 130 of the constitution and article 11 of the law for a state of siege, which provides that the army with the support of popular opinion may act when a state of siege has been unduly prolonged."

The state of siege referred to had been enforced by the Araujo government.

"Officials and students of the military school participated in the action, and feel satisfied with their work in promoting a new regime which will work for the progress of the republic."

New Plane Route Links U. S. Cities to Yucatan

Miami, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A new aerial route inaugurated today by Pan-American Airways linked the United States with commercial centers of Yucatan.

A plane that left here at 8 a. m., will spend the night at Merida, chief city of Yucatan, after fueling stops at Havana and San Julian, Cuba. The route from Merida to Guatemala City will include stops at Payo Obispo, Mexico; Belize, British Honduras, and Puerto Barrios, Guatemala.

Passenger service twice a week will be maintained, planes leaving Miami Tuesday and Friday mornings and landing here Wednesday and Sunday afternoons.

The new route will close the last gap of the famous "Lindbergh Circle," which was blazed by Col. Lindbergh two years ago. It will provide a two-way mail service between Yucatan and New York by way of Miami.

Juan Esteban Montero Is Inaugurated by Chile

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Juan Esteban Montero was inaugurated President of Chile today at georgeous ceremonials and amid great popular enthusiasm. The president and members of his cabinet rode in four-horse coaches through lines of troops from Moneda Palace to the Congress building, where the oath was administered in the Hall of Honor.

The full diplomatic corps, members of the Senate and of the Chamber and high government officials were present. Cheering crowds surrounded the palace during the reception and there were no untoward incidents. President Montero took office for the full six-year term. He is the first constitutional ruler since the ousting last July of Carlos Ibanez.

Reichers Sets Record In Long Cuban Flight

Havana, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Lou Reichers, American speed flier, flew more than 1,000 miles from Havana to Santiago and back again in 4 hours and 52 minutes today, and called it "a nice little trip."

In his monoplane Gold Eagle, he made the trip to Santiago in 2 hours and 34 minutes, and came back in 2 hours and 18 minutes, despite the fact that it was necessary for him to get off his course to dodge thundershowers in Santa Clara Province. Rafael Valiente, of Havana, made the trip with him. They paused at Santiago for lunch.

Dr. De la Torriente Out Of Revolt, Cubans Told

Havana, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Numerous Cubans have been informed recently by mimeographed letters that Dr. Cosme De la Torriente, former president of the League of Nations and former ambassador at Washington, no longer is identified with the revolutionary movement.

The origin of the letters has not been definitely established, but they are signed with the name of Domingo Mendes Capote, distinguished lawyer, and supposedly come from the opponents of the government.

Peruvian Duel Canceled.

Lima, Peru, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Gen. Pedro P. Martinez, who came all the way from Santiago, Chile, to challenge President-elect Sanchez Cerro to a duel, is not going to have the privilege of meeting his man. The general charged that Col. Sanchez Cerro insulted him last February, but both men agreed today that he had waited beyond 24 hours and therefore had lost his right to challenge.

Brazil Makes Fuel of Coffee.

Rio de Janeiro, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The Brazilian coffee council today asked for suggestions for turning the surplus stock of coffee into combustibles, hoping to derive a revenue from the 12,000,000 sacks now awaiting disposition. A brewery here has been mixing coffee with creosote, raw tar and pitch and has reported that the product is comparable to second-grade coal.

Big Happy Family in Cuba Will Mean Better Smokes

By JOHN J. DALY

CIGAR smokers will be glad to learn that the opposition forces of Cuba are patching up their differences.

President Machado is getting ready to resign the office, pardon all political prisoners, see that certain changes are effected in the constitution, and that the country is blessed with a vice president.

Here is where the cigar smokers have cause to rejoice:

Ever since the little Isle of Cuba won its freedom from Spain, in 1898, when the boys in blue went down that way on an excursion, and later, when Cuba became a republic, 29 years ago, the place has been without a vice president.

Now, a republic without a vice president is like a home without a father. After all, there is nothing like a man around the house, to drop ashes on the rugs, strew Sunday papers on the floor and keep the boys in tow. Mother can get along all right, in a pinch, but ask Dad. He knows. So it is with Cuba.

* * * *

ALL the American Vice Presidents have added immeasurably to the joy of national existence. The result is this republic has never had a revolution—after the first one.

'Twas one of the outstanding sages of the Vice Presidency, Tom Marshall, who said that what the country needed most of all was a good 5-cent cigar.

Well, there is Cuba, with the best 5-and-10-cent cigars in the world—and no vice president.

Far from being happy, Cuba has suffered; like the friar who preached against smoking and had, all the time, a pipe up his sleeve.

Now that Cuba is going to have a vice president, and, presumably, one who smokes good cigars, lovers of the weed all over the universe will have cause to rejoice, for there is a camaraderie amongst smokers that does not exist between other people.

* * * *

THE President of Cuba may be a cigar smoker, too, but in line with his official duties, he is too busy to bother about seeing to the cigars. A vice president, sitting on the dais, looking over the Senate and listening to the long-drawn-out debates, has ample time to meditate, to cogitate, to think—about good tobacco, the surcease from sorrow that comes in the coil of the smoke, the amenities of life, and the cordial relations that my be affected with other nations when clear Havanas are sent forth from Cuba, as ambassadors of good will.

The Cuban government outrode the recent storm, winning a victory against the revolutionists, but it was a narrow escape—like the battle Pyrrhus won over the Romans at Asculum, y'ars and y'ars ago, in which the flower of his army perished. Sadly, he exclaimed, "One more — victory and we are lost."

The little republic is in bad straits, with government salaries cut 60 per cent. So long as they intend establishing the office of vice president, the situation looms in the light of salvation. It means one man set aside to reflect on the glories of Cuba, its tobacco, and to see to it that only the best grade Havanas are sent to the customers. Even Yuba may play better rhumbas on his tuba down in Cuba.

Boy, bring a box of clear Havanas,
And ask the Vice President, in your best manners,
To join us in a smoke.

B.P.O.E. Will Hold Memorial Meeting

Capital Elks Will Honor Memory of Dead Members.

A memorial meeting of the B. P. O. Elks will be held tomorrow at the Elks Home, 919 H street, to honor the memory of their dead, including the recently elected and installed Grand Tiler of the national fraternity, Daniel L. Nihion, who died suddenly after delivering the 11 o'clock toast "To Our Absent Brothers" at the charity ball on Thanksgiving Eve.

Past Grand Exalted Ruler Laurence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., will deliver the memorial address at the service which is held yearly on the first Sunday in December. The services will consist of vocal and instrumental music, the roll of the dead, the memorial address, officers' tribute and the closing ceremony.

The committee in charge is composed of George Strong, chairman; Joseph Leary, vice chairman, and William S. Shelby, secretary.

Montevideo Explains Default.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The municipal council announced today that it has not complied with the services due December 1 on its loan negotiated through Dillon, Read & Co., because of a local "dollar famine," and because of the unsettled exchange market. The council added that the amount of the coverage has been placed in the Banca Republica at 40 cents per peso.

CROWLEY'S BOASTS FAIL TO SAVE YOUTH

O'Brien Again Convicted of Robbing Store, to Which Gunman Confessed.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Despite the testimony of Francis "Two-Gun" Crowley, condemned slayer of a policeman, that he committed the hold-up in question, Patrick O'Brien, 20-year-old self-styled "good boy," tonight was convicted by a jury for the second time of first-degree robbery.

O'Brien, who bears a resemblance to Crowley, was convicted of robbing the drug store of Harry Obstgarten last January 10. He first was convicted of the robbery last March 18 and sentenced to 20 to 40 years' imprisonment. The jury today recommended mercy.

Crowley, after being committed to the Sing Sing deathhouse, made a statement asserting that O'Brien was a victim of mistaken identity.

Brought from prison, Crowley boastfully said he robbed the Obstgarten drug store as well as numerous other establishments.

O'Brien's mother had testified her son was ill at his home the night of the Obstgarten robbery. Her neighbors corroborated her statements, but Obstgarten and two other witnesses of the holdup refused to alter their first identification. Three other witnesses of the robbery, however, including a clerk in the store, testified Crowley, not O'Brien, was the actual robber.

O'Brien also testified he was ill the night of the robbery. He said he was a good boy, loved his mother and attended Sunday school regularly. His mistake, he said, was in entering a courtroom as a spectator while Obstgarten was also in attendance. The druggist identified O'Brien in a courtroom and he was arrested and convicted.

Edwin B. McGuire, assistant district attorney, in his summation, asserted Crowley "would be willing to testify for all the inmates of Sing Sing if he had the opportunity."

Former Head Says Company Insolvent

Suit Asks Receivership for Insurance Firm Once Owned Here.

Suit for receivership of the Great National Insurance Co., formerly headed by Washington men but now having its headquarters at Newark, N. J., was filed in District Supreme Court yesterday by Joseph A. Burkart, 6311 Connecticut avenue northwest.

The company, according to the suit, once maintained an office here and Mr. Burkart was for several years president and general counsel.

Defendants named are Raymond and Henry Sinskey and Howard C. Bregel, all of Baltimore, and the company, which, according to the allegations, is insolvent.

The suit asks an injunction to prevent securities of the company from being disposed of, an accounting from defendants of the manner in which they have invested funds of the company and a dissolution of the company.

The petition claims that there are thousands of dollars in unpaid claims and that most of the securities it once held were sold to the Standard Founders, Inc., of Baltimore, a chattel loan company.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 126

SCHOOL days, school days, dear old golden rule days at the Jefferson Elementary School will be brought to the minds of those who were young when this picture was taken.

It shows the teachers of the Jefferson School, now a junior high school, together with some of the members of the Board of Education. Standing on the extreme right is Isaac Fairbrother, supervising principal of the fourth division, in which the Jefferson School was then included. Seated on the extreme left is Joseph G. Falck, principal of the school, and later secretary of the Board of Education.

The gentleman next to Mr. Falck is Benjamin F. Lloyd, a former member of the Board of Education. Standing just above Mr. Lloyd is George White, a member of the board at that time. The gentleman standing in the center is John E. Thompson, a supervising principal.

The teachers in the picture are Annie Van Horn, S. A. Langley, S. E. Wise, E. J. Riley M. P. Wilson, Bessie Burns, S. C. Dulin, A. B. Neumeyer, F. M. Moore, P. S. Lesh, L. H. Cohen and S. E. Halley. First names of the women teachers are not obtainable because school records of that time listed only initials. The photograph was taken in 1890.

HUNGER MARCH HELD 'STRAIGHT-OUT RED'

Civic Federation's Official Calls It Attempt to Exploit Jobless.

Charges that the hunger march is a "straight-out Communist movement," organized and directed by Moscow agents in this country, were made last night by Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation.

"It does not take any deep study to ascertain that fact," he said, "as the Daily Worker, the English-speaking official organ of Moscow, and all the foreign language press have for months been shrieking about the great 'Communist drive.' Therefore it is rather absurd for any one to talk about the movement as a sincere attempt to aid the unemployed.

"The 'hunger march,' is designed only to exploit the unemployed and to use them to befog the people into believing that the Communists represent the wage-earners in their absurd demand that they will make in Congress if they get a hearing. Their great 'propaganda slogan' is unemployment insurance which they themselves state in the resolutions of the Communist party has the 'greatest revolutionary significance at the present time.'"

Coast Guard Cutter At Crippled Ship's Side

Boston, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard Cutter Acushnet reported by radio to coast guard headquarters here tonight that she had reached the disabled schooner Anna Sophia in the vicinity of Pollock Rip, south of Cape Cod, and was standing by.

The Acushnet was ordered to the schooner's assistance from Woods Hole after receipt of a message from an unidentified vessel reporting the Anna Sophia was in distress and the crew had been two days without water.

HUNGER ARMY AIMS TO MAKE DEMANDS ON SENATE FLOOR

Borah's Advice.

After the interview with Benjamin yesterday, Senator Borah said he had told Benjamin the following:

"I should like to offer a suggestion to you and to those who are coming here on the hunger march. You, of course, have a perfect right to come to the Capital and peaceably assemble and peaceably petition your Government.

"No one should interfere, or has any right to interfere, with the exercise of this right. I do not presume they will undertake to interfere. And if you are very careful to act in a peaceful manner, your coming may be helpful to your cause.

Relief Work Promised.

"But if there should be a resort to threats or denunciation or an attack upon authorities, it will be calculated to injure the cause in which you are interested. We all, regardless of parties or place, recognize the seriousness of the economic situation, and there will be a determined effort here in Washington to help those in distress.

"The man or woman who wants work and who is unable to find it must enlist the sympathy and consideration of every one. Keep your heads and do not forget that Washington is the Capital of the United States and that the people of the United States watch closely what you do here and, in accordance with what you do, you will either help or hurt the cause of those who are suffering throughout the country."

Final plans for the handling of the marchers, were announced last by Gen. Glassford, who will personally direct all police activities from a "message center" at police headquarters to which reports of all activities of police and the marchers will be steadily transmitted.

In a series of orders issued yesterday, Gen. Glassford said the marchers, expected Sunday, will appear at the Capitol on Monday, and will be segregated from spectators at the Capitol grounds. "The prohibition of the Capitol police regulations against processions and assemblages has been suspended for this occasion," the order said.

Consideration Pledged.

"The marchers will be treated with the same consideration as spectators." If force is necessary, it is to be applied under the direction of a superior officer, except in an "extreme emergency."

"The mission or objective of the Metropolitan Police Force is to maintain the hunger marchers under surveillance, individually and collectively, during the entire period of their visit to Washington; to afford them full protection against curiosity and trouble seekers, to prevent overt violations of law and disturbances by mild action, but should force become necessary to apply only such force as may be essential to restore and maintain order."

The following details were ordered by Gen. Glassford: Inspector T. R. Bean will handle arrangements for the parade; Inspector O. T. Davis will be in charge of police at the Capitol Grounds; Inspector E. W. Brown will provide the truck caravans with a police escort and parking facilities, and Inspector Beckett will be in charge of the police detail at a meeting of the marchers to be held in Constitution Hall on Sunday. The Capitol police will handle arrangements inside of the Capitol Building.

Defends Marchers.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, said yesterday the rights of the marchers should be protected.

"They have a right to come to Washington the same as any one," he said. He said similar views were held by Senators Wheeler, Costigan and Black, who have discussed the matter at length.

Food for the marchers will be handled by the Salvation Army and the Central Union Mission.

A demand for a reply from President Hoover to the marchers' plea for aid was made at a meeting of the marchers' committee last night at 421 G street northwest. Benjamin accused the press of creating hostility toward the marchers.

The group appointed several committees, one of which is to meet the motorcades of trucks on the road from Baltimore to Washington. Local sympathizers of the marchers have been asked to provide accommodations in their homes for the marchers.

Philadelphia Bans March.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Philadelphia police were under orders today to halt any march through the city of unemployed men en route to Washington.

Frank Fischer, secretary of the Unemployed Council, which is sponsoring the march, declared the men would go through with their plans to parade to a boxing arena for a mass meeting, despite the fact no permit for the parade or the mass meeting had been issued.

"If these persons wish to pass through Philadelphia or stop here they will have to use the motor trucks they use between cities," Mayor Mackey said last night.

Earlier in the day he had telegraphed Gov. Pinchot that he would not give city official assistance to the men who he termed "politically inspired and financed to embarrass the President and lawmakers."

Ride Through Jersey City.

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The unemployed marchers from New York "marched" right through Jersey City in trucks today on their way to Washington despite their previous announcement they would defy an order against speeches here.

Mayor Frank Hague had placed the ban on the speeches and in pursuance of his orders police kept the trucks moving.

390 Leave From New York.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Fifteen covered motor trucks, carrying 390 persons from New York State and New England who plan participation next week in an unemployment protest in Washington, left Union Square today. They were escorted as far as the Holland Tunnel by several automobiles containing detectives. There was no disorder.

The marchers sang Communist songs and some Army songs as the party left. There was slight cheering and booing at the mention of the names of President Hoover, Mayor Walker and Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney.

Although warned by Mayor Frank Hague that they would not be permitted to stop in Jersey City, leaders of the delegation said they would stop there and make speeches.

Ohio Prevents Speeches.

Martins Ferry, Ohio, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The march of unemployed from Wheeling, W. Va., to Pittsburgh struck a snag today when police refused to permit participants to stop their trucks here for speeches. The officers escorted the trucks out of town.

Last night the paraders were refused permission to remain overnight at Wheeling and they went to Lansing, Ohio, from whence they started their parade today.

Marchers Meet in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Two groups of unemployed marchers, traveling in trucks, converged on Pittsburgh today on their way to Washington.

One delegation, including two women, was en route from Wheeling, W. Va., the other from Youngstown, Ohio. The crowd from Wheeling is composed of marchers from Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City and points West, while the others banded together at Detroit and Cleveland.

Sheriff Attacks Marcher.

Weirton, W. Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—One of a group of jobless marchers, en route to Pittsburgh, was reported struck on the head with a blackjack by Sheriff J. D. Mercer of Hancock today.

Police met the paraders at the West Virginia State line, outside of Steubenville, Ohio, and declined to let them pass through this town, escorting them toward the Pennsylvania State line.

Former British Official Dead.

London, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Dr. T. J. MacNamara, 70, former minister of labor in the coalition government of 1920-22, died today at his home here after an illness of several weeks. He was a prominent figure in politics during the World War when he served as secretary to the admiralty.

CLASH STIRS PARLEY OF HOOVER BUILDERS

Associations Attack Proposal to Finance Homes on Second Mortgages.

(Associated Press.)

A clash of opinion over methods of financing home construction injected a note of discord yesterday into President Hoover's conference on home building and ownership.

Representatives of building and loan associations threw the meeting of the finance committee into an uproar with an attack on the committee's recommendation for development of second mortgaging financing at lower interest rates.

This committee was regarded as the key group of the conference, which closes today following presentation of the last of 31 committee reports on how American homes might be improved and brought within reach of those of moderate means.

Best Shouts Opposition.

William E. Best, president of the United Building and Loan Associations, shouted his opposition to second mortgages in home financing. He said the associations now are providing the type of financing contemplated by President Hoover's system of home loan discount banks.

Indorsements of these banks was given yesterday by the finance committee in its report, saying "the committee recognizes the existing emergency, and is in sympathy with the view of the President that it must be met. Further, the committee unanimously records its support of the President in any remedial measures he proposes."

A word of warning was issued, however, against a rush of unwise building to renew activity in the home construction field.

Easy Credit Suggested.

"Numerous suggestions," the committee said, "have been received for encouraging easy credit through new first mortgage financing methods. While undoubtedly they would for a time provide employment, there can be little question that the price would be further deflation of values of existing homes."

The committee did not advance methods of financing mass production of homes proposed Thursday by the committee on large scale operations as the modern method of housing.

Alfred K. Stern, of Chicago, chairman of the latter committee, protested yesterday against the failure to follow up his committee's suggestion.

Wilbur Calls Homes Key.

Summarizing the conference's findings, Secretary Wilbur, cochairman, last night held proper housing to be the key to the success of American democracy.

The 3,000 delegates, meeting for their second general session, were told by the Secretary of Interior that "health, happiness and good citizenship are furthered by proper housing. Unhappiness, delinquency and crime are furthered by bad housing."

Wilbur presented seventeen conclusions of the conference, including the need for adequate financing of home building and ownership, elimination of slums, fostering of large scale building, improved construction and equipment, city planning and zoning, and easing of taxation.

HITLER SEES FASCIST REGIME IN GERMANY

his lapel. His heels clicked in the fashion of the old imperial army leaders when he shook hands with correspondents, but later he slumped down in a big chair and spoke in a low, measured voice. Only once did he straighten up, clench his hands and raise his voice to shout:

"The Fascist government will refuse to sign on the dotted line of any document if it is convinced it is impossible to fulfill it."

He was questioned about the Fascist attitude toward the payment of reparations and private debts, a subject of great importance to the world's financial markets. In some ways his statements showed a definite modification of policies expressed a year ago when he was more of a firebrand, leading a crusade against the power of the Socialist government.

Plans Different Methods.

"We are aware that international policy will require negotiations," he said. "However, we shall employ methods which widely differ from those of the present government.

"We would first submit an unadulterated picture of German conditions, which has never been done for the benefit of foreigners."

Hitler said that a similar stand by the government ten years ago would have benefited foreign holders of German bonds.

"The bondholders would not have to worry now about their money," he declared. "I am convinced the powers are beginning to perceive that reparations payments are not feasible, except to France.

"France always will remain intransigeant. If the powers adhere to the French thesis of priority of reparations payments over private debts, then Germany will fall prey to bolshevism and chaos is inevitable."

He said that, in order to pay both reparations and private debts, Germany must export 50,000,000,000 to 60,000,000,000 marks (about $15,000,000,000) worth of goods annually, which would mean, "dumping" of products abroad. This, he said, would have bad effects on world trade which would overbalance any gains which foreign countries could derive from reparations payments.

Repudiates Recent Manifesto.

Hitler flatly denied that a drastically worded "Facist" manifesto issued recently by Hessian Fascists was the work of the German party.

"It was issued by a private individual, who drafted it with the aid of a stool pigeon, who revealed him to the police," Hitler said. "The party's policy is shaped only in headquarters. That manifesto was an attempt to discredit the Fascists, but it failed."

Referring to the Fascist brown shirt "storm detachments," Hitler said they would be retained in their present role under a Fascist government merely to safeguard the party. He denied that they would be incorporated in the army or maintained as official militia.

"They are necessary for use against any possible Socialist or Communist uprising," he said. "They are more reliable than either the army or the police."

STREET REASSURED ON GERMAN STATUS

Reichsbank Says Cabinet Has No Plan to Leave Gold Standard.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—International bankers with headquarters in Wall Street said after the close of today's markets, in which German securities had been freely sold, that answers to their inquiries about German finance and German politics were reassuring.

By cable and radio they dispatched messages to their German correspondents to learn if there were any modicum of truth in rumors that Germany planned to abandon the gold standard. Officials of the German Reichsbank and a member of Chancellor Bruening's cabinet informed them that Germany had no intention of making such a change, nor had its leaders any intention of deviating from previously announced policy of paying off its private debt as quickly as conditions would permit.

American financiers, who said they had been in frequent communication with Berlin by telephone, said that uneasiness over the possibility of the ascension to power of Adolph Hitler, German Nazi chieftan, appeared to be based largely on erroneous interpretations of the Nazi program. Hitler's statement to the Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, in which he clearly set forth the Nazi determination to respect private debts was regarded as reassuring, although it was said their determination to abolish reparations might make an international accord difficult.

Wild Rumors Stir Markets.

Earlier in the day a variety of reports, which were branded on high authority as wildly baseless, quickly spread throughout the financial markets of this country. They influenced hurried selling of German bonds. The German reichsmarks, although transactions have been closely restricted to actual necessities by the Reichsbank, gave way nearly one-half of 1 cent to a closing price of 23¼ cents for cable transactions.

The new German government 5½ per cent bonds, which were sold here last year reacted to a new low price of $250 for each $1,000 face amount of bonds. Late in the trading day, when it began to appear that the spreading rumors were in many cases fantastic and in other cases were emphatically denied, these bonds rallied. They closed at $252.50 when fairly large buying orders appeared which arrested their decline. They were down $26.50 net for the day.

Other German bonds reacted proportionately. The German General Electric 6 per cent bonds of 1960 lost $50 during the day and the same company's 7 per cent bonds of 1945 reacted $55.

German Efforts Stressed.

Banking leaders stressed the following points in connection with Germany's efforts to stabilize her present finances:

1. They believe that Germany has met its obligations under the agreement entered into with outside creditors with good success.

2. The amount of short-term credits advanced by American and European banks to Germany are not considered excessive.

3. When Germany succeeds in clearing the way for a more normal flow of money, they believe her creditors will be ready to advance needed funds without hesitation.

4. They feel that an international agreement on both German reparations and Germany's private debt is essential to world financial recovery.

5. They are confident that France will recognize the necessity of maintaining a strong credit position for Germany and consequently will cooperate with other creditors in establishing Germany's private debt on a sound foundation.

The entire world-wide business and financial condition of stagnation, in the opinion of these spokesmen of American financial policy, is so closely wrapped up with Germany's welfare that a high degree of cooperation is expected at the financial experts' meeting in Basel starting Sunday.

GermanyRenewing Pleas of Poverty

Envoys Approach Basel Laden With Proof of Inability to Pay Debts.

Basel, Switzerland, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Germany will begin another battle tomorrow to convince the world that she can no longer pay World War reparations.

The German members of the Young Plan advisory committee, which is to begin an examination of Germany's financial situation on Monday, are due tomorrow, laden with documents supporting their contention that the former Allies should not ask for more war damages.

It was said tonight that Dr. Carl Melchior, head of the German delegation, is bringing a monumental collection of papers and statistics which may necessitate an adjournment for two or three days while the committee studies them.

Madrid, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The President of Spain will draw 2,250,000 pesetas (about $187,000) a year, the National Assembly decided tonight.

Niceto Alcala Zamora, first provisional President of the Republic, announced today he was giving his last month's salary as a deputy to ushers of the assembly chamber as a Christmas present. The salary amounts to 1,000 pesetas, which means about 83 cents for each usher.

BANKHEAD WELCOME IN SENATE IN DOUBT

Republicans Undecided on Course; Democrats Will Support Him.

(Associated Press.)

An uncertain welcome at the Senate door awaits Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, but he is assured of support by his Democratic colleagues.

Senate Republicans failed to decide at a party conference yesterday whether to challenge Bankhead's right to take the oath of office. The Democrats agreed to stand by him if such a move is made.

The movement to close the Senate doors to the Southerner was based upon a report by Chairman Hastings Thursday to an elections subcommittee. It questioned the legality of the 1930 Alabama election and asserted Bankhead reported campaign expenditures in excess of the lawful State limit.

Supported by Robinson.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, following a conference of his party colleagues, said they were agreed there was no justification for delaying the seating of Bankhead.

After the party conferences, the Hastings subcommittee, which has been investigating the contest brought by former Senator Heflin against Bankhead's election, heard arguments from opposing counsel.

The picturesque former senator leaned forward in his chair with an eager smile on his face as his counsel contended Bankhead's name was on the ballots illegally and therefore, he, Heflin, was entitled to the seat. Bankhead, in the next chair, conferred frequently with his attorney.

Frank A. Hampton, Heflin's attorney, argued that Bankhead had reported expenditures of $11,571 during his campaign, which was sufficient to disqualify him under a State law fixing the maximum at $10,000.

Bankhead's Reply Today.

Heflin was banned from his party primary in Alabama for not supporting Gov. Smith in 1928 and ran against Bankhead as an independent Democrat.

Horace Wilkinson, another Heflin lawyer, said that in addition to the funds reported by Bankhead, the Democratic State campaign committee had spent $29,000 to elect him and the organization candidates for governor and lieutenant governor.

Wilkinson also charged that only two counties complied with a State law requiring that in towns of more than 3,000 population voting booths must be provided. He said this destroyed the "secrecy of the ballot."

The committee recessed until today after three hours and a half of testimony by Heflin's counsel. R. B. Evins, Bankhead's attorney, will reply today.

Woman Workers' Protection Sought

Voters League to Ask Congress to Guard Rights in Proposed Laws.

Since women constitute 22 per cent of the gainfully employed persons in the United States, the National League of Women Voters will demand that the forthcoming Congress make "adequate provisions" for the interests of women in any proposal to establish a coordinated system of Federal and State employment services, it was announced last night.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the league, declared that "the principle of Federal aid to the States and the merit system of appointment are indispensable to the effective operation and coordination of a Nation-wide employment service."

Pointing out that women workers still are a minority group in industry and "in danger of exploitation by employers," Miss Sherwin declared that the United States Employment Service is in "a strategic position to aid women in securing their rightful opportunities and to guard them against industrial dangers." She declared further that "the league regrets that at the present time there is a marked tendency toward dismissal of the married woman from her job."

FIRST PICTURE OF TUNNEY'S SON

This is the first picture of Gene Tunney's 17-day-old son, who will bear the name of Gene Lauder Tunney. The retired heavyweight champion disclosed the name of his first-born yesterday as he handed out photographs of the youngster. He will be allowed to select what occupation he chooses when he grows up, his father said.

Notes on Congress Session

(Associated Press.)

A choking, eye-smarting gas seeped through the corridors in the Senate side of the Capitol yesterday, almost breaking up the Republican and Democratic conferences. It came from a leak in the Democratic cloakroom and had legislators pulling out their handkerhiefs and rubbing their eyes.

Landlubbers Rule Navy.

Landlubbers will guide naval legislation through the House this session.

The probable Democratic chairman of the naval affairs committee, Representative Carl Vinson, lives at Willedgeville, Ga., and his entire district is inland.

On the appropriations subcommittee that handles Navy money, the Democrat who probably will be boss is Ayres, of Kansas. The Republican who headed the group last session and would again if his party controlled, is French, of Idaho.

New Senator a "Whale."

The huge bulk of the new Republican senator from New Jersey, who used to be a top notch heavyweight boxer, made a profound impression on the floor leader of his party in the Senate when he appeared at the Capitol yesterday.

"Say, isn't he a whale?" commented Senator Watson, after seeing Senator W. Warren Barbour at the Republican conference.

Mr. Watson, himself one of the physically big men there, remarked that if he got into a fight he would like to have "the prize fighter from New Jersey" and stalwart Senator Oddie, of Nevada, on his side.

Bean Soup Will Remain.

Politics come and go, but Boston bean soup is eternal in the House restaurant.

Regardless of which party organizes the House, this favorite dish will be served up to hungry lawmakers every day, as it has been for more years than most can remember.

If the Democrats win, a North Carolinian, Representative Lindsey Warren, will succeed a New Englander, Representative Charles Underhill, as chairman of the committee which runs the restaurant.

Representative Warren, opposed to radical revision of 13-year-old Republican menus, does not let his Southern origin prejudice him against boiled New England dinner, bean soup, or any other good country dish.

Women Evenly Divided.

Women should play a well-balanced role in the House of Representatives this session, for they are divided three and three on the Republican and Democratic sides of the aisle.

But the balance likely will swing the edge to the Democrats, reversing their last session roles. The expected Democratic reorganization will bring Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey; Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, and Effiegene Mingo, of Arkansas, up a notch or two on committee lists, and perhaps take a shade from the political preferment of the Republican trio—Florence P. Kahn, of California; Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, and Ruth Baker Pratt, from New York.

But, as women, all can rejoice that this very circumstances may yield Mrs. Norton the chairmanship of the important District of Columbia committee. She is the first woman ever in line for such a job.

Mrs. Caraway Given Seat.

Mrs. Caraway, the new senator from Arkansas, was assigned a seat on the back row of the Democratic side of the chamber yesterday with other new members of that party.

For the first time, a brass name plate bearing a woman's name was put on a Senate seat—it read, simply, Mrs. Caraway.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson hopes that she can find time this winter to view from the House gallery an assembly preponderantly Democratic for the first time since the war President left the White House.

One of the founders of the Women's National Democratic Club, Mrs. Wilson was the honor guest at its presession gathering at tea yesterday.

Democratic women's gatherings have most often attracted Mrs. Wilson from the secluded life she has lived since her husband's death. Beside her yesterday, chatting politics in the brief lulls between hand shaking, were Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Florida, and Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming.

(United Press.)

The Tammany Democratic House delegation met in solemn conference yesterday and decided to forego New York week-ends as much as possible this winter. Their votes may be needed.

In the past the New Yorkers have spent much of their time, on Fridays, Saturdays and Mondays, in New York and in traveling there and back.

The delegation decided to try to put one of their leaders, Representative Patrick J. Sullivan, on the powerful ways and means committee. The New Yorkers expect to get chairmanships of five committees, post-office, immigration, patents, claims and coinage, weights and measures.

PARTY LEADERS SELECTED BY CAUCUSES OF SENATORS

control of the House and almost in control of the Senate, and with a presidential campaign coming next year—it is felt that an even greater measure of cooperation is desirable.

Hence the decision to appoint a committee to cooperate with a similar committee in the House.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who suggested appointment of the legislative committee, said that tariff revision and taxation are two of the most important problems confronting the Democrats.

Challenged Men to Sit.

The prospect last night was that the two Democratic senators, whose seats have been challenged—John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, and Josiah H. Bailey, of North Carolina—would take their seats Monday.

Bankhead's election was challenged by the man he defeated, Thomas Heflin, and an elections committee, headed by Senator Hastings, of Delaware, has reported that there is merit in Heflin's charges of fraud.

In their conference yesterday, the Democrats decided to make a fight to seat Bankhead and Bailey if any attempt is made to force them to step aside.

Majority Leader Watson said that no one up to the present time has indicated that Bankhead would be asked to step aside, and he was fairly certain that no one would challenge Bailey.

Moses Likely To Stay.

The prospect is that Senator Moses will continue as president pro tempore. If the Republican Progressives voted for a Democrat, of course, the New Hampshire senator would be out—that is, assuming that the Democrats wanted control.

However, most of the Progressives—Borah, Norris, La Follette, and Couzens, for example—are chairmen of committees, which not only gives them a certain distinction, but a great deal more office space and patronage. Hence, they have no intention of bolting the party. Their plan is to vote for some other Republican.

Inasmuch as a candidate for the office of president pro tem must get a majority of the votes, and not merely a plurality, there can only be one result—a deadlock. Obviously, this will have to end some time, and unless they want to bring the wrath of the country down on their heads, the Progressives will have joined in ending it.

Inasmuch as the rules say that the President pro tempore shall remain in office "until his successor is elected," it appears that the deadlock will leave George Moses just where he is.

The other plan of the Progressives—to move to declare the office vacant—has been spiked in advance. In order for such a motion to carry, it would have to have some Democratic support. And Minority Leader Robinson said yesterday that he would not countenance such a scheme.

Senator Metcalf Explains Stand on Vote for Moses

Providence, R. I., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Reports published in Washington that Senator Jesse M. Metcalf would not vote for Senator George H. Moses for reelection as president pro tem of the Senate were today described as unfounded by Senator Metcalf.

"I have sent word to Washington," Senator Metcalf said, "to find out if it is true that Senator Moses has threatened to deprive some of the Progressives of their committee chairmanships if they do not vote for him for president pro tem. I can not believe that such threats have been made.

"I have not as yet received answer to my inquiry and so have not made up my mind whether I will vote for Senator Moses. If it proves to be true that the threats have been made, I should seriously consider not voting for him."

The report published in Washington followed statements by Senators Norris and Borah that they had been threatened with loss of their committee chairmanships if they did not vote for Senator Moses. They announced that they would not vote for him.

RUM VOTE FAVORED BY NEW YORK BLOC

LaGuardia Presides When 19 Progressives Vote for Rule Changes.

(Associated Press.)

The collective wisdom of Senate and House Democratic leaders will be marshaled in a series of conferences called to devise a strong legislative program for the coming Congress. By a coordinated party policy, they hope to be able to force through both closely divided branches constructive legislation that will improve business conditions. In this way they hope also to indicate to the people what legislation they may expect if Democrats take over the Government in next year's elections.

A senate committee, headed by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, and including Senators Walsh, of Montana, and Harrison, of Mississippi, will meet with a House Democratic group, to formulate the program. A number of other senators will be selected by Mr. Robinson.

Representative Garner, who probably will be Speaker; Representative Rainey, of Illinois, unopposed candidate in his party for floor leader; McDuffie, of Alabama; Collier, of Mississippi; Rayburn, of Texas; Byrns, of Tennessee, and Cullen, of New York, are probable members of the House committee.

Democrat Caucus Today.

Already a number of conferences have been held between Senate and House Democratic leaders on revenue raising legislation, tariff, Muscle Shoals, prohibition, unemployment relief and the naval situation. Senator Harrison, ranking Democrat on the Senate finance committee, predicts tariff revision will be included in the program.

These plans were disclosed on the eve of the House Democratic caucus. Today Mr. Garner will be nominated Speaker and Mr. Rainey floor leader almost unanimously.

With many Democrats favoring a liberalization of the rules to permit a vote on prohibition at the coming session, it appeared certain rule changes would be adopted.

The 23 members of the New York delegation went on record yesterday favoring an early vote on prohibition and a revision of the rules to permit it. Representative Cullen, chairman, said the Tammanyites favored the Snell rule adopted by the Republican conference to extract a bill from a committee for a direct House vote on petition of 145 members.

Nineteen Progressives Meet.

A proposal to create a steering committee is to be made by Representative Byrns and supported by Representative Crisp, of Georgia, and Representative Ayres, of Kansas.

However, the New York delegation announced it was opposed to a change in the present organization and this forecast defeat for such a move.

A House progressive bloc of nineteen, formally organized yesterday, agreed to support the most liberal changes in the rules obtainable and discussed a legislative program.

The meeting was presided over by Representative LaGuardia, a New York Republican, and attended by fifteen others of that party; Representative Kvale, the lone Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota, and two Nebraska Democrats, Howard and Norton.

LaGuardia said a definite legislative program will be taken up later. Howard emphasized his attendance had no relation to his support of Representative Garner, of Texas, for Speaker.

Republicans were Christgau and Selvig, of Minnesota; Amlie, Nelson, Boileau, Schneider, Frear, Withrow and Peavy, of Wisconsin; Lambertson and McGugin, of Kansas; Sinclair, of North Dakota; Hartley, of New Jersey, and Gilchrist and Campbell, of Iowa.

Treaty Navy Held Ten Years Away

Vinson, Prospective Head of House Committee, Drafts Program.

(Associated Press.)

The man who is due to be chairman of the House naval committee thinks it may take ten years to make the United States Navy as big as treaties permit.

Representative Vinson (Democrat), Georgia, who is in line for the committee leadership, said yesterday he was unwilling to agree to the treaty Navy bill advanced by Chairman Hale, of the Senate naval committee, and was drafting a program of his own. He said he objected to Hale's plan because it would authorize sufficient ships to reach treaty limits, without specifying what kind of vessels should be built or when.

Vinson will suggest a program involving about $760,000,000 worth of construction. He thinks the building should be spread over "possibly ten years, since we couldn't finish the work in much less time than that." He added, "we intend to have real parity not paper parity."

11 Strikers Jailed After Police Clash

Defense Fund for Alleged Reds Seized as Night-sticks Are Wielded.

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Eleven persons, three of them women, were in jail tonight and police had in their possession a large amount of Communist literature and records as a result of a clash today between officers and striking cigar workers. Ten were arrested this morning as two mobs stormed the Ybor City and West Tampa cigar factories of E. Regensburg & Sons.

Jose Sandalio Ferras was arrested this afternoon in a raid on headquarters of the Tampa Tobacco Workers Industrial Union. There police seized a Soviet flag, a roster of members, a quantity of Communist literature and $741 in cash, said to have been raised for the defense of seventeen alleged Communists jailed in a disturbance here November 7.

In the demonstrations today about 500 gathered at the West Tampa factory where ten were arrested. A smaller crowd gathered at the Ybor City factory. Every available officer was called out in the two disturbances and night sticks were swung freely, but without casualty. Several policemen's uniforms were torn.

Liquor Car Caught In Another Chase

Policeman Was Pursuing Taxi When Runner Struck Tree.

There is an old saying that "one thing leads to another," but there is no one more convinced of it than Policeman T. E. Coyle of the Traffic Bureau.

Policeman Coyle was stationed at the intersection of Fourteenth and U streets northwest, last night, when a taxicab suddenly ran onto the sidewalk while attempting to make a left hand turn. Coyle blew his whistle, but the cab failed to stop. He hailed another machine and gave chase. At a pace of 60 miles an hour, the pursued car led the policeman through a maze of traffic for several miles.

During the chase another machine turned in front of the taxicab on which Policeman Coyle was riding. It suddenly swerved onto the sidewalk and crashed into a tree. The driver fled. At Tenth and Otis streets northwest, the pursued taxi disappeared down a side street. Coyle returned to where the second machine had struck the tree. The car was found to contain 132 half-gallons of alleged liquor. A search for the operators of both machines was futile at an early hour this morning.

RKO-KEITH'S

"ARE THESE OUR CHILDREN?" Radio Pictures filmization of an original story by Wesley Ruggles, adapted to the screen by Howard Estabrook, featuring Eric Linden, Ben Alexander, Arline Judge, Beryl Mercer, Mary Kornman and Rochelle Hudson, supported by Robert Quirk, William Orlamond, Robert MacKenzie and Ralf Harolde. Directed by Wesley Ruggles. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Although dipping back into that remote era of the cinema in which the "flaming youth" motif dominated the screen, this solid preachment against the profligacy of modern youngsters may be relied upon to exert a powerful appeal to those with a penchant for jazz and night life so gay that it leads eventually to murder and the electric chair.

The plurality of the title is a bit misleading. The picture concerns itself chiefly with the exaggerated ego of a single youth who sets up a defense mechanism against the humiliation of having failed to win first honors in a high school oratorical contest. He becomes a "big shot" in the eyes of the immature sirens frequenting an all-night chop suey joint and to perpetuate his reputation as a guy who will not take "no" for an answer enters the delicatessen establishment of his grandmother's best friend and in an altercation over booteh shoots the proprietor dead. His trial constitutes the play's major claim to climacteric interest.

This all sounds ridiculously trite—and it is—but the story is largely redeemed from a conspicuously prominent place in the catalog of outmoded themes by the freshness and skill of the performances offered by a shrewdly chosen roster of adolescent principals.

Eric Linden, in the role of Eddie Brand, the egotistical young fellow, whose nefarious enterprises constitute the basis of the story, devised by Wesley Ruggles and Howard Estabrook, the makers of "Cimarron," does an impressive bit of work. He is another Glenn Hunter in the ingenuous and disarming depiction of adloescence. This young man will bear a lot of watching.

In the less exacting, but possibly no less important, parts are found Ben Alexander, a juvenile prodigy whose later work is proving his right to a place among the screen's leading juveniles no less distinguished than he enjoyed as a child marvel; Mary Kornman, graduated from the "Our Gang" comedies to more substantial tasks; Arline Judge, a youthful beauty who assumes considerable stature as a budding "vamp;" Beryl Mercer, most reliable of the actresses lending their talents to roles of matronly maturity, and William Orlamond, nicely cast as the delicatessen owner who falls victim to the drunken bullet of his young friend.

Wesley Ruggles, in the direction of his own story, has disclosed further evidence of his unfailing sense of what an audience will enjoy. He has tricked his play out with musical embellishment and a clever photographic treatment that adds much to the intrinsic value of his drama. He has not by any means achieved another "Cimarron," but he has, at least, done a picture that will excite comment and foster discussion

The supplementary bill is led by Clark and McCullough in a not too able comedy called "A Melon-Drama," in which gangster plots are launched against a judge whose case is placed in the hands of a newly established detective agency. Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough are the detectives, which should be index enough to the laughability of this one.

A Tom and Jerry cartoon comedy—and why need these be made?—a new issue of the Pathe News and a trailer indicating the early accession of vaudeville as a house feature, complete a bill that will arrest the amusement seeker and assuage the lust for reform raging in the breasts of those who deem this generation in dire need of salvation.

COLUMBIA

"THE CHAMP." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Frances Marion, starring Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper, supported by Hale Hamilton, Irene Rich, Roscoe Ates, Edward Brophy and Jesse Scott. Directed by King Vidor.

This picture, which is less an epic of the prize ring than it is a record of filial devotion, deserves the second week that it has been accorded at Loew's Columbia.

There is a vast amount of hokum in the story of the youngster who attempts to drag his dad, a fallen heavyweight champion of the ring, back to the heights, but it is deft and telling hokum that warms the heart and excites the sympathy of the onlooker.

Jackie Cooper here demonstrates his right to be known as the greatest juvenile actor of his generation. While much of the burden of "The Champ" is placed upon his youthful shoulders, Wallace Beery comes in for acclaim in recognition of one of the finest portrayals he has ever contributed to the distinction of the celluloids. The part he plays is a trifle reminiscent of his role of "Butch" in "The Big House," but softened by the overwhelming love of the man for his small son.

Irene Rich, Hale Hamilton and others of a long cast are completely dwarfed by the excellence of the performances offered by Master Cooper and his more mature costar, Mr. Beery.

The bill is completed by a comedy of abbreviated length, newsreel and the customary house features.

N. B. B.

RIALTO

"FRANKENSTEIN." Universal picturization of the story by Mary W. Shelley, featuring Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles and Boris Karloff. Directed by James Whale.

There is precious little that remains to be said about this fabulous symposium of thrills, chills, fever and shudders. It is one of the most sensational successes of modern times not only in the theaters of the National Capital, but of every other community in which it has been shown.

Based on the fantastic story of a young scientist who created a living being out of scraps of bodies accumulated from graves, clinics and other questionable sources, "Frankenstein" follows no familiar dramatic formula but launches itself at once into a field day of morbid, sordid and blood-chilling episodes that have their culmination in the incineration of the monster that moves through the story with devastating ruthlessness.

Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles, Frederick Kerr and others of note appear in the pivotal roles of a film play unique in the annals of the cinema.

The supporting bill is composed of variegated short subjects that serve as a welcome relief from the tense movement of the major feature.

FOX

"X MARKS THE SPOT." Tiffany production of the story by Warren B. Duff and Gordon Kahn, featuring Wallace Ford, Lew Cody, Sally Blane, Mary Nolan, Fred Kohler and Richard Tucker. Directed by Eric C. Kenton. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

A whole row of x's obliterating much that is cumbersome and more that is improbable, might well have added to the not inconsiderable interest of "X Marks the Spot." As it is, that interest is almost entirely innate, and is hindered rather than helped by the story's production treatment.

It relates an adventure of one Ted Lloyd, Broadway's tattling columnist, who might well be Mrs. Winchell's bad little boy, Walter, so clearly cut to his pattern is the character and so closely is he resembled by Wallace Ford, who plays Ted. Not to mention the fact that Ted's little sister, for whom he takes all his risks, is named Gloria, as is Winchell's daughter—all of which has nothing to do with the show, but does make it more fun.

Ted starts a scandal in his column which he finds hard to finish without causing a libel suit against his paper. One of the principals in his scandal is murdered. Ted is implicated and arrested. Out on bail, in an effort to solve the crime, he finds the only way to save himself is to expose a man who befriended him and his little sister years before. He refused to do this, but other agencies step in and before it is over we have courtroom scenes and tear gas bombs.

The early sequences of the picture seem amateurishly put together, and though the picture gains authority and poise as it progresses, it is never too sure of itself. The exciting episodes of the finale, with courtroom escapes, revolver duels in smoke-filled rooms and suspense outside closed doors, are highly improbable.

Wallace Ford does very nicely, indeed, in his slangy, smart-alecky scenes, but fails rather lamentably in the serious moments. Old friend Lew Cody plays another of these vigorous, ruthless newspaper editors to a crisp. There is no uncertainty about him.

Sally Blane, Fred Kohler and Mary Nolan handle their parts well, but it is the colored elevator man—such an important character in practically all murder plays—who chalks up the hit of the performance. Little Helen Parrish as the young Gloria is dear.

The newspaper scenes are interesting, particularly the disclosure of the identity of the Advice-to-the-Lovelorn editor, and, as Walt would say, whatever became of that old saw, "Have you quit beating your wife yet?" It's in the courtroom scene.

That cute little blonde comedienne, Marjorie White, prances about the stage singing (particularly recommended is "Don't Swat a Fly"), clowns a bit a la "Just Imagine," and exits merrily, assisted by Eddie Tierney. She could be funnier than she is. She shows us that and we knew it anyhow from "Sunnyside Up" and her other pictures, but her material doesn't let her this time.

Fanchon and Marco's "Five Races Idea" is all about the white, yellow, brown, red and black races (maybe I'm all wrong about the hues, but then, I never studied anthropology, or is it geography after all, as Master of Ceremonies Jenks insists?) The whole affair is so appropriate and impartial, allowing each race a chance of its own. For instance, the Indian chief sings jazz songs to represent the red race; the Adams sisters do a fan dance for the brown, while the orchestra plays "Aloha," and Barr and Davis, of the darkest race, harmonize over a piano dressed in silks and sequins as a demonstration of Africa's culture.

We liked the Kanazawa troupe of Oriental tumblers very, very much. In fact, they did the yellow race up brown and came out ahead by six pairs of unbelievably quick feet. We liked Jimmy Hadreas' dancing, too.

There is a newsreel to complete the bill.

PALACE

"RICH MAN'S FOLLY." Paramount production, starring George Bancroft, supported by Frances Dee, Robert Ames and David Durand. Directed by John Cromwell. Story by Grover Jones and Edward Paramore, jr. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

It's a boy, as the picture opens.

It's the girl, as the picture closes.

And in between is as powerful and scathing a denunciation of the age-old theory that there must be a son and heir to maintain family traditions as has been portrayed on the screen since it became articulate. "Rich Man's Folly" is drama first and motion picture afterward. It can not fail to leave its imprint on the minds of all who see it.

While George Bancroft has been favored with some mighty sweet roles in the past, it is doubtful whether he has ever had one so made to order as this. His is the part of Brock Trumbull V, a shipbuilder as anxious to continue the reign of "Trumbull & Son" as he is to build good ships. As the story opens, his wife delivers to him a son, and dies because she knows there will no longer be a place for her in Trumbull's heart.

In his overzealous desire to get the boy into the business, Brock Trumbull 6th is called upon by his father to christen a boat at the tender age of 8. He does, but the storm in which he does it is his death warrant. Broken by this tragedy, Trumbull neglects his business and his daughter, 18 years old, until she turns to his rival in the ship business for the love he has denied her because she was not a boy.

Coming back from a trip to Europe to forget, with a wife, Trumbull finds his daughter informing her stepmother of his true, selfish character. The daughter, Anne, then leaves him to marry Joe Warren, the rival. The two shipbuilders stage a race on a pair of liners, the winner to receive a contract for four more. Trumbull is three weeks ahead, when he needs ready cash. He asks his second wife to return $250,000 given her as a wedding present. All he gets is a dirty laugh and the "air." Disillusioned, he begins to realize his mistake. And in one final blow, which sends his ship down the ways to disaster, he partially rights the wrongs he has committed and earns the right to an ever-faithful daughter.

The fourth edition of Loew's Vaudeville Revue is presented on the stage, augmented by a handsomely clad chorus of Chester Hale Girls. Buster Shaver and his "Tiny Town Revue," composed of six midgets, won first honors, followed by Red Donahue and his trick mule, an animal wise and far-seeing in its comedy. The Three Brown Buddies did a number of intricate tap and soft-shoe numbers which pleased.

A novelty prelude offered by the Palace Orchestra, Harry Borjes conducting, revived "Singing in the Rain" from "Hollywood Revue," with a screen finale reintroducing those who made that picture famous. It was well received.

CHINCHOW DEFENDED BY 25,000 CHINESE

By FREDERICK KUH.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Chinchow, Manchuria, Dec. 4 (U.P.).

A Chinese army of 25,000 men, scattered from the Great Wall of China to a crude front line trench 60 miles north of Chinchow, tonight defended the last area of Chinese control in Manchuria.

Described by the Japanese government as a menacing concentration at Chinchow, the army was said by neutral military and diplomatic observers to be utterly incapable of offering serious opposition to Japanese troops.

The foreign observers, after eleven days' inspection, said they were convinced that the Chinese army is not concentrating, or receiving reinforcements, but is merely resting in billets. The Chinese professed to be determined to avoid all offensive action against the Japanese.

Center of Latest Threat.

The Chinchow area and the route from Mukden to Chinchow, through which I traveled today, is the center of the latest threat of warfare in Manchuria, yet the Japanese troops have withdrawn far northward toward Mukden and the front lines of the Chinese defense are no farther north than Tahoshan.

There have been efforts in Paris, in Nanking and in Peiping to create a neutral zone in the Chinchow area to keep the troops apart, but the Chinese charge that the negotiations, which were broken off today, were frustrated by the Japanese demands.

The neutral observers, whom I found quartered in the university dormitory, said the Chinese army was comprised of three brigades of infantry, one brigade of cavalry, several artillery units and, in general, is only moderately well-equipped. The Chinese were said to be aware that the Japanese could easily crush them.

Semimartial Law.

The neutral observers were instructed to prepare the neutral zone, but they have not been able to get in contact with the Japanese.

Chinchow is in a state of semimartial law. As the first newspaper correspondent to arrive since the Japanese offensive of November 27 was halted and withdrawn, I was forced to take a lonely ride through the streets. My rickshaw bounced along past shops which were tightly closed and boarded up, beneath deserted arches and through little tunnels where military guards shouted challenges at short intervals.

The streets were almost empty and the silence was oppressive. The military guards were tense and advanced with guns in hand until my military escort gave the password. The population obviously was alarmed and fearful of a state of siege.

We clattered past a dingy Chinese hotel, through a huge iron gate which barred the way to the inner court and thence to the headquarters of the neutral observers.

Continue Investigations.

I found Col. Nelson Margetts, Lieut. H. S. Aldrich, both of the United States Army; Col. Badham Thornhill, Capt. F. W. A. Stables and Consul Moss, of Britain; Capt. Fieschi and Counselor Le Pice, of France, and George Kuehlborn, secretary of the German Legation. All of the observers were from Peiping.

Aldrich, Thornhill and Kuehlborn, after a short talk, departed for Shanhaikwan, beside the Great Wall of China, to continue their investigations.

They said Japanese airplanes flying over Chinchow every day had alarmed the population. The planes were merely scouts. They were not molested by the Chinese.

Gen. Yung-Chen, chief of staff for Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, nominal ruler of Manchuria, is in charge of all Chinese troops in the area. The Chinese were frankly fearful of another Japanese offensive toward Chinchow to drive out the last vestige of Chang's power in Manchuria.

DETECTIVE IS FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULT

more of persons who had knowledge of the affair, and these persons were asked to appear before the grand jury and tell their story. The charge against Barrett was simple assault.

Baber testified that he sustained a cut lip, bloody nose, black eye, hurt ear, and a bruised back at the hands of Barrett. He said that he had hardly opened the door of his apartment before he was struck a surprise blow that knocked him down. Baber was kept under arrest for "investigation" for three days and then released.

Third Policeman Convicted.

Barrett was prosecuted by Julian Richards, Assistant United States Attorney. In his argument to the jury Richards said that he was prosecuting Barrett as a duty and that he had known Barrett for some time.

The Barrett case makes the third member of the Police Department who has been found guilty of assaulting prisoners. Detective James Mostyn and Policeman W. R. Laflin, of the First precinct, were convicted a week ago of simple assault.

One of the interested spectators at the trial was the husband of Mrs. Jaynes, whose murder in a holdup set up the investigation on which Barrett was launched when he arrested Baber.

TO TRY AGAIN FOR SPEED MARK

Lowell R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., flier, made preparations in Detroit for a fourth attempt to better the world's land plane speed record. In a previous attempt he flew 281.9 miles an hour. To claim a new record he must better by 4.97 miles an hour the old record of 278.4 made by a Frenchman in 1924.

SOVIET HOLDS ALOOF ON MANCHURIAN ROW

with Japan over the partition of Chinese territory. The northern and western neighbor of the Manchurian war lord, Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, is the sovietized republic of Mongolia. These factors all contributed to make the attitude of the Soviet government in the Manchurian crisis one of great importance to the United States and every country interested in the preservation of peace in Asia.

Mr. Skvirsky spent some five or six months in his own country, and during that time talked with Stalin, Litvinov and other leaders of the country. He also traveled extensively, some 6,000 miles, on all forms of conveyances.

Mr. Skvirsky declared that the Soviet government intends to adhere to its policy of peace. Refuting charges that had been made of Soviet ententes with one or the other of the conflicting nations, he said:

"The Soviet Union certainly has no understanding with any other government at the expense of China. The basic policy of the Soviet Union is respect for the integrity of other countries, whether large or small, strong or weak."

Soviet preoccupations with the internal conditions of Soviet Russia just now are so all absorbing that the political role which the Moscow government would like to play in Manchuria is subordinated to the more pressing concern of finding enough food for the starved Russian peasant. Recent statements from authoritative Soviet publications compiled by the Department of Commerce have been so fraught with pessimism for the outcome of the present winter, that Russian orders for American goods have dropped more than 52 per cent in the last nine months. For the first nine months of this year only $49,000,000 of orders were placed in the United States, as compared with the sum of $103,000,000 last year.

The final test of the much-heralded five-year plan has not resulted in any improvement whatsoever of the standard of living, according to reports from unbiased business men and the necessity of another five-year plan has been admitted by Stalin himself when he announced from Moscow two days ago the convocation of a party conference to frame a new quinquennial period of experimentation.

The unfavorable Soviet trade balance of $100,000,000, which has automatically reduced all American credits to Soviet agencies in the United States, was discounted by Mr. Skvirsky, who asserted that in spite of everything, the Soviet balance of international payments for this year "will be favorable."

He said of his Government's solvency:

"All payments contracted for in all countries will continue to be made in full and on time. All foreign purchases for Soviet accounts are made under a careful system of economic planning under which adequate reserves are assured for all contingencies."

It was learned from experts at the Department of Commerce that recent opinions given by them in response to inquiries from American business have naturally included the figures on the Soviet unfavorable balance of trade. In many cases this has resulted in cancellation of all American credit conditions to the Soviet agencies although where the credits have been accorded the rates have been considerably higher than the usual market quotations for such commercial paper.

The Soviet unofficial representative was sanguine of the results of the present economic system in Russia. He said:

"There is a feeling that the most difficult years of the transition period are past and easier living conditions are at hand. Already there have been great advances in improving the housing situation in large industrial centers and civic improvements in parks, paving and public utilities are beginning to transform many cities. The advance is very marked as compared with conditions two years ago and people are looking ahead cheerfully."

Resolutions to place an all-inclusive embargo on every Russian Soviet commodity will be placed in motion during the forthcoming session of Congress, although it has not yet been determined whether any action will be able to be taken on them at this session. Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, will, however, continue his efforts on behalf of the recognition of Soviet Russia and the extension of larger Soviet-American trade relations.

Dawes Hits '32 Reports As "Absolute Nonsense"

Paris, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes today described as "absolute nonsense" reports from New York that a group of Republicans had decided to designate him as the party's presidential candidate in 1932.

He refused to discuss the matter further.

Lloyd George Visits Bombay.

Bombay, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, veteran British statesman, and his party arrived here today and were greeted by the secretary to the governor and an aid. The former premier said his health was considerably improved by his voyage from England. The party sailed for Colombo, Ceylon, this afternoon.

LEAGUE IS BLOCKED BY JAPAN'S STAND

the Chinese military get out of Manchuria. It is reported that the Japanese require that the neutral zone be policed by Chinese civilians, subject to intervention by the Japanese army when circumstances make it advisable.

The Chinese are still asking for neutral control and neutral guarantees in the evacuated area before withdrawing their troops behind the Great Wall.

Meanwhile news received here that the Japanese were reporting menacing activities by the Chinese armies conflicted with reports to the council from neutral observers who said the Chinese army was entirely inactive and making no preparations even for defense

As a result of tonight's council session the drafting committee drew up certain questions which were dispatched to the Tokyo government.

It was understood that Japan was asked to elucidate its attitude on two matters: First, the scope of police operations the Japanese wish to exercise in Manchuria against bandits, and second, the exact location and extent of the proposed neutral zone.

The second point was looked upon as the more important of the two.

Presumably the American, British and French diplomatic representatives at Tokyo will be asked to assist in clarifying these two issues.

Tokyo, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A firm stand against foreign supervision in the proposed neutral zone of Manchuria was adopted by the Japanese government today.

A spokesman for the foreign office said Japan would not accept "any third party intervention" in the Chinchow area from which China has agreed to withdraw her troops on the condition that Japan evacuate as far north as Mukden.

"That's positive," he said.

Chang Influence Fought.

Ambassador Keikichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate to the league council in Paris, has been instructed not to listen to the suggestion of the Chinese representative, Dr. Alfred Sze, that neutral observers assist in Sino-Japanese negotiations to define the zone's limits and provide for policing.

"The council appears to have taken up the question of a neutral zone without our knowledge," the spokesman said. "All of Marshal Chang's influence must be removed.

"According to evidence in our hands the local Chinese at Chinchow are sympathetic to Marshal Chang and we now insist that the administration at Chinchow and in the neutral area come under the jurisdiction of the new local government at Mukden headed by Yuan Chin-Kai.

"This is main'y a question between the Japanese and Marshal Chang, who during his regime to all intents and purposes was absolutely independent of Nanking."

Total Casualties Announced.

Coincidental with reports of new trouble, the war office ordered a detachment from the railway regiment of the imperial guards division to proceed to Manchuria, professedly to aid in repairing trackage and bridges damaged by Chinese bandits.

Japanese press dispatches described the situation in South Manchuria as increasingly serious in view of the fact that Chinese troops were occupying territory as quickly as the Japanese withdrew, interpreting their evacuation as a sign of weakness.

The third cavalry brigade of Marshal Chang's army was said to be advancing along the Tahushan-Tunglao Railway from Chinchow toward Hsinmintun, recently taken over by the Japanese. Other Chinese bodies were said to be moving up in the direction of Mukden.

The total Japanese casualties in the Manchurian conflict thus far were listed by the war office as 213 killed, of which 12 were officers, and 473 wounded, of which 27 were officers.

Munitions Found in Harbin.

Moscow, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Peiping dispatches published here today said that twenty cases of war munitions had been accidentally discovered at the Chinese Eastern Railway freight station at Harbin.

The cases were labeled "Mukden Arsenal" and were skillfully disguised as bales of cotton, the dispatches said.

Published versions of the alleged discovery declared the incident proved the Japanese were supplying arms to white Russian detachments in northern Manchuria. It was said that lately there have been many cotton shipments from the South via the Chinese Eastern Railway, but until recently no suspicions were aroused by them.

German Girl Starts Mystery Flight.

Berlin, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Fraulein Elli Beinhorn, who attempted a flight across West Africa last March and was forced down in the desert near Timbuctoo, took off alone today at Staaken Airport for an unannounced destination. It was believed that she would try to fly to Japan by way of India, but flying conditions were unfavorable.

Mail Pilot Forced Down.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Forced to circle fifteen minutes through heavy fog before he could get his bearings, Air Mail Pilot Harvey Taylor, bound from Pittsburgh to Columbus, Ohio, today made a forced landing on Scott Field, near here. The mail was dispatched to Columbus by train.

Queen Mary Is Ill; Wales Recovering

First Lady of England Has Cold; Prince Leaves Sick Bed.

London, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Queen Mary nursed a cold at Sandringham Palace today as the Prince of Wales left a sick bed at York House.

The queen developed a cold in the head early this week at Sandringham and was ordered to remain in her room until she had completely thrown off its effects. Dr. Frederick Willans, surgeon-apothecary to the royal household, attended her and emphasized her condition was in no way serious. She has virtually recovered but will stay indoors until Dr. Willans gives the word that her recovery is definite.

The prince went to Fort Belvedere, his country home near Windsor, after several days treatment for a chill with malarial symptoms. His illness was taking its regular course, Dr. Stanley Hewett said, and no alarm is felt.

Epidemic of Cholera Subsiding.

Woman Watching Actor Dies of Heart Attack

Los Angeles, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—In the midst of hearty laughter over the antics of Joe E. Brown, film comedian, who was making a personal appearance in a theater here last night, Mrs. Mary D. Armstead, 53, fainted from a heart attack and died before aid could reach her.

The house was in an uproar of laughter when Mrs. Armstead was seen to slump forward in her seat. She was rushed to the theater lobby, and an ambulance was called. Before physicians could reach her, she had succumbed.

Woman's Trial Monday In Postmaster's Slaying

Kingwood, W. Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The trial of Mrs. Evelyn Harader, Clifton Mills, indicted for the murder of Cecil Michael, postmaster of that village, July 25 last, was set for next Monday by Judge A. G. Hughes today.

Mrs. Harader was found sane by a jury yesterday. Judge Hughes gave defense counsel until Monday to show any reason why the verdict of the jury should be set aside.

Community Group Reviving Planned

Loudoun County Association Reorganization Debated at Meeting.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Dec. 4.—A meeting looking to reorganization of the Loudoun County Community Association was held in the Purcellville National Bank yesterday. The property of the association, consisting of fourteen acres of land, a large auditorium, stables and other buildings, was sold for debt at public auction by the trust holders, November 14. C. M. Warner purchased the property for $5,500 in the interest of the directors.

Dr. G. Franklin Simpson was made temporary chairman of the meeting yesterday, and F. H. James secretary. A number of the old stockholders were present who felt the association should reorganize.

A resolution was adopted in which the chairman was authorized to appoint a committee to formulate plans for the reorganization under a new charter, with capital stock not to exceed $10,000, which will cover the indebtedness. This committee consists of F. H. James, W. T. Brown, C. M. Warner, J. B. Nichols and C. L. Robey.

A BROAD TAX BASIS.

Reports that the revenue act of 1924 is under consideration by President Hoover and officials of the Treasury suggest the form which the inevitable new tax legislation probably will take. Much can be said in favor of reviving the essential features of the 1924 law. Fairly accurate estimates can be made of the revenue it will produce. The levies used in that year are known to be practical, and it should not be so difficult for Congress to agree upon revival of an old tax law as to embark upon an entirely new theory.

If the insurgents and a few other radical members of Congress had their way the new tax would be levied almost entirely upon higher incomes and corporations. It is obvious, however, that regardless of how much the levies are increased against the wealthy, they will not supply the Treasury's need. Incomes in the higher brackets have been reduced by half, in many cases two-thirds and even more, in a single year. Corporation earnings during 1930 fell off about 40 per cent. Aside from the fact that exorbitant taxes upon business and capital discourage industry and thereby defeat their own purpose, Congress must face the fact that increases in the higher brackets will not suffice.

The 1924 revenue act contained higher rates than those now levied upon both individuals and corporations, but the burden was distributed over a large field of incomes. That act included a considerable number of excise taxes on automobiles and other luxuries. Stock market transactions were taxed in various ways. Other levies affected theater tickets, and estate taxes were higher. From this broad tax basis the Government collected enormous sums without seriously affecting the recovery of business from the aftermath of the World War.

President Hoover is especially anxious that nothing be done to retard business. Since more revenue must be raised moderate taxes ought to be levied on all classes that are able to bear them. Congress can not hope to avoid a deficit through taxation. But if slight increases are made all along the line on the income tax and additional taxes are levied where they will be least felt, enough revenue will be forthcoming to hold the deficit within reasonable bounds and to assure a comfortable surplus when conditions return to normal.

There is no question of Congress imposing a tax burden on individuals who are unable to pay. A person with average means now pays nothing directly toward maintenance of the Government. Even if Congress increases the tax on lower incomes, or reduces the personal exemption, only those in comfortable circumstances will contribute.

For several years Secretary Mellon has been complaining about the narrow basis of the existing tax laws. The present inadequacy of revenue proves his point. Congress ought to enact a new law that will take full cognizance of the ability of the rich to pay, yet at the same time distributing the burden upon all incomes above the minimum required to maintain the American standard of living. If miscellaneous taxes that are paid without notice by people who indulge in luxuries are added to this program the prospective revenue legislation ought not to work a hardship on either business or the taxpayers themselves.

UNREST IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Manila is the scene of wild demonstrations, almost as excited as those which characterized the visit of Senator Hawes to the Philippines. The passion for independence, which the Missouri senator fanned into a flame, has not been extinguished by the sensible plan of Manuel Quezon to negotiate with Congress for a larger measure of autonomy so that the islands may develop a stable government and economic independence. The Radical party is diligently cultivating the seeds of unrest sown by the American senator.

At a rowdy mass meeting the Radicals adopted as their slogan, "Death to Quezon," and laid plans to harass the independence mission when it leaves for the United States this week. A huge torchlight procession will parade through the streets in an effort to convince the people that the conservative leaders have betrayed the Filipino cause. Nothing short of immediate independence would satisfy this clique of agitators.

One can not help feeling a wave of sympathy for these fanatical idealists who were deluded by no less a dignitary than Senator Hawes. In spite of his knowledge of their economic dependence upon the United States, the Missourian advised the Filipinos to press for immediate independence. Now the more responsible Filipino leaders themselves have concluded that a hasty separation would be disastrous to the islands and their people. But the radical and irresponsible elements continue to base their demands upon emotion and sentiment, after the manner of Senator Hawes. Is the senator proud of his handiwork?

REVOLT IN SALVADOR.

The younger military officers of El Salvador, pigmy of the Central American republics, smaller in size and population than the State of Maryland, decided that the president was "dizzily leading the country to ruination," so they forced him to abandon his office and flee to Guatemala after they had killed the minister of finance and a number of loyal police and citizens.

Thus rudely is Central American peace shattered after several years of comparative stability. The Salvadorean coup was another example of the unbridled seriousness with which the younger elements of Latin America are taking themselves. This time it was young militarists instead of students who took the initiative.

President Arturo Araujo was inaugurated last March after an election that was declared to be the fairest ever held in Salvador. Economic disturbances affected the little republic, as all the rest of the world, but comparatively few were so narrow-minded as to charge the executive with responsibility for the low price of coffee, which is the country's sole export crop of importance.

The military junta in power in the capital at San Salvador announces that "unanimous support" is being given the new regime throughout the nation. On top of such a palpably unwarranted assumption comes word that elections will be held for a new president "within 48 hours." Any pretense at holding an election in such a precipitate manner, after a revolt that would not become known in the remote mountainous sections of the country in that time, would be a travesty on popular government. Apparently the junta intends to overwhelm the electorate by this sudden action and, if possible, to circumvent the international agreements under which a Central American government coming into power through violence can not be recognized.

CAUSES OF MISBEHAVIOR.

Child delinquency and misbehavior have become subjects of increasing scientific investigation. An important contribution to knowledge of the underlying factors of misbehavior and delinquency has come from the recent studies at the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia. Experiments have established the fact that "badness" in many cases is the result of an impairment in the brain which usually passes undetected. The spread of encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain, popularly called "sleeping sickness," was either started or greatly increased by the World War. Mild cases are not infrequent in children, causing behavior problems such as those mentioned in the Wickersham report dealing with juvenile delinquency.

Brain injuries often result in symptoms which would be of significance to a neurologist, but pass unnoticed by parents or the family physician. Such injuries may cause convulsions, slight paralysis or disturbances in breathing and sleep. When these pass there remain disturbances in behavior which persist regardless of the former symptoms. Oversentimentality, fearless lying, stealing and disregard for all authority and punishment have been found as subsequent developments at the Pennsylvania Hospital.

In dealing with such cases the psychiatric staff of the hospital has established a school which cares for about 22 children at a time. They are placed under the care of a teacher and trained nurse supervised by psychiatrists. Much patience and effort is required to gain the confidence of the children and every effort is made to relieve the feeling of inferiority which is almost universal. The children are given whatever kind of work they are best fitted to do where progress will be visible; that helps to build up interest and self-respect in the child's mind. The experiments have proved, according to the exponents, that in prevention of delinquency much can be gained by a change of attitude even when organic disorders are the original cause. This study of juvenile misbehavior from a common sense as well as scientific basis may go far toward solving the crime tendency in the youth of the world.

FALSE CHARGES EXPOSED.

The findings of a committee representing the American Economic Association, which investigated charges by Dr. Ray O. Hall against the Department of Commerce, were given less attention than they deserve. A few weeks ago Dr. Hall made reckless charges that figures in the report on the balance of international payments had been falsified and vital facts suppressed. His accusations were broadcast throughout the country. Now an impartial investigating committee has found that his accusations were wholly unwarranted and that Dr. Hall himself was in error.

Dr. Hall attempted to reduce a discrepancy of $374,000,000 between debit and credit items by adjusting figures on commodity imports. The committee found that "the particular method employed by Dr. Hall was of doubtful validity." Apparently he was piqued because the department excluded his own propaganda from its official report.

The committee also concluded that the deletion of Dr. Hall's theory that "gold follows the loan" did not constitute "suppression of vital truth," since the essential points were covered in other parts of the report and Dr. Hall's theory is not firmly established by expert thinking. Dr. Hall attempted to deceive the public by quoting articles that he had written under an assumed name in support of his own views. The committee is charitable when it merely pronounces him "guilty of serious impropriety."

Apparently this so-called economic expert was seeking notoriety in the only way he knew how. But his improvised charges have made him ridiculous and cost him his job. This fiasco was similar to the recent attempt of Mr. Kelly to scandalize the Interior Department. Secretary Lamont is to be congratulated on the elimination of a fanatic from his staff.

One other item in the committee's report is worthy of attention. The investigators express regret at the undue timidity of the department in giving full publicity to factual material that will shed light on national policies such as the tariff. The department leans backward to be impartial in the dissemination of data bearing on the tariff. As a result the country is flooded with misleading and utterly false propaganda intended to discredit the Government's protective policy. Facts regarding the tariff are urgently needed. Actual data in the hands of the department show that import trade is flourishing far more than domestic industry. But this is not the information that reaches the public. The regular reports of the department are based on valuation figures that are not comparable with previous years because of drastic price declines. Such reports furnish powder for the propaganda battery that is trying to deceive the public as to the effects of the Smoot-Hawley act. It would be highly improper for the department to engage in arguments for or against the tariff, but by all means it should furnish the public with data on which intelligent conclusions may be based.

There will be a shortage of gallery seats for the House organization fight, but those getting seats will be assured of a show appealing to the galleries.

CONGRESS IN DILEMMA

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Twelve months ago, when the depression was beginning to bite into the vitals of this country, a political truce was more or less formally declared. It was not kept. It was broken by both sides, in and out of Congress, with a gay and sometimes reckless partisan abandon.

The national situation was threatening then. It is even more threatening now.

The railways are in trouble. The Nation faces a deficit of $2,000,000,000 or more. Demands for billions of dollars in appropriations are being shaped. Tax revision impends. The foreign debt moratorium and its probable extension must come immediately before Congress.

Within a few days the tides of congressional oratory will be at their flood. And, while the everdyday citizens of this country are wrestling with the job of seeing that nobody starves or freezes, the stuffed shirts of alleged statesmanship will be fattening the Congressional Record with wild and whirling words.

If political advantage is to be placed above the national interest, then on or about December 7 the floodgates of talk will be opened. If partisanship rules, attacks of unprecedented ferocity will be launched upon the administration. The Seventy-first Congress died on last March 4. The storm has been gathering through the spring and the summer and the autumn. It has promised to be savage and continuous, to run on and on through the session, wasting the time of Congress and the Nation and of the world outside of America that must wait upon the decisions of America.

This prospect has been hailed with a kind of unholy joy by our so-called liberalism and miscalled progressivism. It has been encouraged by sick-minded intellectuals. Loose-lipped radicalism has aided it. It has been abetted by panic-spreaders and gloom-peddlers and by the head-shakers and breast-beaters who, everywhere, are abroad in the land.

In these last months of 1931 vast and complex problems are pressing upon the country and upon a Congress many of whose members seem more concerned about the campaign of 1932 than about the state of the Nation and its future well-being. They are facing an appalling deficit. At the same time the familiar sources of revenue are failing. Yet, as revenues fail and deficits grow, they are making enormous demands upon the national Treasury. They seem unable to think in terms less than billions. They feel, apparently, that the national revenues are endless and inexhaustible.

The people are unspeakably weary of partisan intrigue and maneuvering. They are tired of ghost dancers, witch doctors and medicine men. They want less sectionalism and more nationalism, less oratory and more statesmanship.

They know that constructive forces are struggling toward a way out of the world depression. They can see that these forces in this country can be checked by a week's political warfare on Capitol Hill. They understand it is far more important that 120,000,000 people shall be served than it is that some group or party shall have an advantage in the elections of 1932.

They are wondering if a Congress chosen in the dark days of the second year of the depression will meet what is in fact a national emergency with honesty and courage. They know that a winter devoted to calm and passionless consideration of the country's problems would be a priceless service to the Nation.

The first 30 days of the Seventy-second Congress will tell the story. By mid-January an anxious and worried country will know what it may expect.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HUMAN NATURE.

I am as good as I can be
When from temptations I am free,
When my particular delight
Is absent I defend the right
And very properly frown
On sins which drag my neighbor down.

Against the stronger I am meek
And often turn the other cheek,
But when I have the upper hand
I am not then so olly bland,
Assured of safety, wrong or right,
I'm always brave enough to fight.

I would immediately destroy
All forms of sport I don't enjoy.
Without the sins at which I scoff
I'm sure the world were better off,
But asked to put my comfort by
Into a furious rage I fly.

I pay those who cheat and steal,
For murderers pity oft I feel,
But when I'm wronged I seem to find
It difficult to be so kind.
Denied the privilege of bail
I want the rascal thrown in jail.

Another Letter From a Bald-headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE—If horrible examples help to point a moral, now is the best time in your life to learn one of the most important of lessons.

Our National Government has a tremendous deficit; most of our States are hopelessly in debt; in countless districts the school teachers are working without pay; and every square foot of our country is so heavily mortgaged as a result of reckless bond issues that your children's children will be born in debt.

Do you know why? Because our trusted officials—our public servants—took advantage of public ignorance and indifference to buy luxuries we couldn't afford.

Because credit was easy to get, each little division of government has been living far beyond its means—building and improving and making a great show of progress. And now we are in debt up to our eyebrows and taxes are so heavy that nobody has heart or hope left.

We are suffering for our sins. We made a great splash on credit and now we face the day of reckoning.

That's the horrible example.

And the point is that individuals who practice the same folly must suffer the same penalty.

You never have learned to say: "Charge it to Dad"—except in rare emergency—and it may be that you need no warning. But I want you to understand the right and the wrong of this credit business.

It is no sin to charge things. Most of the world's business is done on credit. But it is one thing to make a debt you can pay and quite another to use credit as a polite means of stealing.

"Living beyond your means" isn't a mere indiscretion. It means buying things you can't pay for—taking goods from a merchant under pretense of honest intention, when you know in your heart that you won't be able to pay him. It is stealing.

A thief who steals openly and risks punishment is more respectable than one who takes advantage of a merchant's confidence to "buy" things for which he never expects to pay.

People of that kind may kid themselves and pretend to believe they intend to pay, but in their secret hearts they know they are rogues.

Keep out of that class. If you earn one dollar a day, live on one dollar a day. It isn't worth while to make a good impression at the cost of your self-resspect and your honor.

I hope life will be kind to you. But in any case, I'd rather see you in honest rags than in swell clothes got by defrauding a merchant who trusted you. Love, DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

How Will They Use It?
Bismarck (N. Dak.) Tribune.
That the new political line-up to Congress places a huge responsibility on the Democratic party goes without saying. The way in which the responsibility is met may well play a large part in determining the issue of the next presidential election. One thing seems obvious. There is an imperative need for a logical, definite program by the party which now holds a majority in the House of Representatives. A policy of drifting and of sniping at administration measures, simply for the sake of raising a row, will not do the country any good—nor, in case it interests any one, is it apt to do the party that adopts it any good. The coming session promises to be one of the most interesting in many years. The Nation will wait eagerly to see what the Democrats will do with their newly found power.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Correspondent Defends Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. Says Its Form of Solicitation Is Not "Coercion."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Marshall, in his letter to The Post, laments the method adopted by the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and refers to the courteous form-letter sent out by that organization along with the Christmas seals as a "flagrant attempt at coercion." I think it is safe to say that very few, if any, others take that attitude of the appeal.

The form of the appeal adopted by this organization is advantageous for a number of reasons, among which are these: This plan is by far the most economical for the association. Were it to send solicitors out for the purpose of making the sales the expenses of such a campaign would be prohibitive—at least its cost would materially reduce the collections made, which are, under the present plan, available for relief of suffering.

I cannot conceive of any one who would not prefer solicitation by a courteous letter rather than by an individual. Certainly the former method takes less of the recipient's time. Nor is it understood how the receipt of one of these courteous letters could by any stretch of the imagination be considered as "coercion." If the recipient is unable to contribute, or for other reasons is opposed to contributing to this worthy object, all he has to do is to return the seals in the stamped envelope inclosed with the appeal. He is not subjected to any embarrassment by the free action he takes.

For a number of years this organization has followed the same plan. It has always been a source of great pleasure for me to send it whatever amount I felt able to contribute. I am dong the same this year, and feel grateful to the association for the plan it has adopted, knowing that by such method the unfortunate ones will receive a much greater portion of my contribution than would be possible under some other and more expensive form of collection.

Tammany Is Called a Corrupting Influence in Politics—Tiger Has Stranglehold on Democratic Party.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The first of two interesting letters appearing recently in The Post referred to the machinations of Tammany in New York, and the second claimed it was matched by the Republican machine in Philadelphia. The writer contends that they were discussing the same thing.

The real Tammany consists of a closely affiliated group of organizations having a common origin or parent, some educational, others social, fraternal, charitable, eleemosynary or religious, but all political, as any organization so affiliated must be. This group, which may as well be called Tammany, or the Tiger, was not so well organized in Cleveland's time, and he was nominated and elected in spite of it. "Murphy's Wax Figures," as Bryan called its delegates, although opposing Wilson's nomination, finally acquiesced, but it appears that they did some sharp trading with the Wilson adherents, and that similar trading has since been going on, which accounts for the Tiger's stranglehold on the Democratic party, whose leaders have apparently exchanged its birthright for a mess of Tammany pottage.

The Tiger's activities are not confined to the Democratic party. It is often expedient for it to play along with the Republicans in certain localities, or at least use their party name. Once it gains control of the party organization it will be a typical Tammany machine, whether in Philadelphia or any other locality, and regardless of the party name. Or, in case of party division, where, for instance, one section has been misled by political bunk, such as Government ownership and operation, Tammany may control the balance of power and thus be in a position not only to pay debts of gratitude, but to inflict serious damage on the party by electing disloyal renegades bearing the party name.

Thus does Tammany, like a cuttle fish, muddy the political waters, and keep them in that state. Its purpose is served when politicians and others parade ghosts of issues that died with the Civil War, or struggle to find differences between the parties where none exist. Another bad feature is that any well-organized minority, assisted by demagogues, may cast monkey wrenches into our industrial and economic machinery with the full assurance that the ignorant, thoughtless or dishonest will place the blame upon the party in power. Low Greek Architecture of Federal Buildings Makes Them Look Dwarfed in This Skyscraper Age.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your correspondent, "Urban," is certainly correct in his assertion that "to suit modern conditions the buildings of the Federal Triangle should be several stories higher."

When they are completed they will have a grand effect, but it will not be as great as that of the Parthenon, elevated on the Athenian Acropolis. The Greek builders considered an eminence, with plenty of space, the right kind of setting for their style of architecture.

The classic structures of the National Capital will, in my opinion, be somewhat dwarfed in comparison with even the ordinary office buildings of this skyscraping age. Limiting the height of such buildings as may finally decorate the privately owned section of the north side of the Avenue may help some, but I think the effect would be very greatly improved if some time in the future the Triangle buildings should be modernized to the extent of, say, anywhere from two or three to five or six stories. RESCINDING PAY CUT AVOIDS FILM STRIKE

Warner Brothers End Dispute With Studio Employes in Hollywood.

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A threatened strike of 200 employes in mechanical and technical departments of the Warner Brothers-First National movie studios was called off tonight after announced salary cuts ranging from 25 to 40 per cent had been ordered rescinded.

Lew Blix, local union president, announced following a conference of union and studio officials, that "differences have been settled satisfactorily and there will be no strike."

The walkout had been scheduled for 6 o'clock tonight. It would have paralyzed production, at least temporarily. Employes affected included virtually all the important personnel, except the actors, writers and administrative office workers.

The walkout notice was served on the studio late yesterday by the Hollywood local of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes and Motion Picture Projectionists. As a result, the studio agreed to a conference this afternoon.

Court Supports Erlanger "Widow"

Estate Lawyers Must Prove Her Not Common Law Wife of Producer.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Overruling a motion to dismiss the claims of Miss Charlotte M. Fixel that she was the common law wife of the late theatrical producer, Surrogate John P. O'Brien today placed upon counsel for the estate of Abraham L. Erlanger the responsibility of disproving the former chorus girl's assertion.

Surrogate O'Brien's decision came at the close of seven hours of argument extending over two days' sessions during which Isidor J. Kresel, estate attorney, charged that Miss Fixel began her union with the producer "meretriciously and illicitly."

Mr. Kresel called George W. Conklin, deputy chief clerk of the board of elections, as his first witness. Conklin produced the registration books for the district in which Mr. Erlanger lived from 1919 to 1929. They showed the producer signed his name following a notation that he was single.

The trial was adjourned until Monday.

$23,500 Bond Is Fixed on Assault to Murder Charges.

Chicago, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Daniel L. Gilday, liquor and vice crusader, who shot 17-year-old Herman Knol, was held on $23,500 bond today by a judge who said "this defendant has laid down hard and fast rules for the conduct of others and now he has run afoul those rules."

The charges placed against the 65-year-old reformer were assault to murder, carrying a concealed weapon and possession and transportation of liquor. Over the objection of the defense, his arraignment was continued to December 11.

The prosecution waited to file charges against Gilday until young Knol's recovery from his bullet wound in the abdomen was virtually assured. His physician said today, "everything is favorable." Gilday has admitted shooting the boy but has denied being intoxicated. He said the boys were trying to hold him up and that the bottle of liquor taken from his pocket had been "planted" there.

WOMAN GIVEN YEAR FOR SPURIOUS BILLS

Capital Resident Says She Tried to Pass Money as Mercy Act.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 4.—Asserting that counterfeiting is a "grave offense," Judge William C. Coleman yesterday sentenced Frank Russell White, an architect, to two years at Atlanta when the latter pleaded guilty to raising twenty-one $1 bills to $100 notes.

Mrs. Carolyn I. Wildman, of Washington, who pleaded guilty to an attempt to pass one of the raised bills, was sentenced to serve a year and a day at the United States Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va.

White, who lives near Bowie, was said to be in destitute circumstances and Mrs. Wildman, who said she had known White and his mother for five years, told the court that she agreed to pass the bills "almost as an act of mercy," as the Whites "had no coal in their house and hardly knew where their next meal was coming from."

A number of character witnesses for both defendants testified that the two people had always been honorable in all their dealings. Mrs. Wildman had held a position with the Treasury Department in Washington for a number of years.

Judge Coleman said that their positions in society only aggravated the offense, as people in their positions should set an example to others. He said he could see no extenuating circumstances.

Mrs. Wildman was arrested last October when she attempted to pass a raised bill in a jewelry store on Baltimore street. White surrendered to secret service operatives in Washington several days later.

smashed two heavy doors to get inside. Among the six was Melincov, who, with Deitz, was arrested early Wednesday after a fight in Child's restaurant in New York avenue.

The room was equipped with what police described as a dice table. There was also a blackboard and a telephone booth.

"We could hear Dietz and Rowe smashing bottles while we pounded at the door," Sergt. Little said. "We broke a hole over the door and Deitz finally let us in by opening the door when he thought that all the bottles had been destroyed."

Five prohibition officers were with the police.

U. S. Lines Merger Approval Is Given

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday approved the offer of the United States Lines Co. for the ships formerly owned by the United States Lines. The new company, composed of a combine formed by the Roosevelt, Dawson and Dollar interests, took over the management of the lines immediately, and as the ships reach port they will be redocumented in the name of the United States Lines Co.

Approval of the Shipping Board was the final step toward formation of the largest shipping combine in the world. Under the new arrangement the United States Lines Co. will operate 181 passenger and freight boats with a total tonnage of 1,192,227. The investment value is approximately $110,000,000.

Today the newly created concern will launch the largest passenger vessel ever built in this country at the Camden, N. J., yards of the New York Shipbuilding Co. The vessel is the steamer Manhattan, of 30,000 gross tons.

space was taken up by the closely packed containers, according to Prince Georges County police. No liquor was found in Raymond's coupe.

Constables Howard Slater and Ralph Brown took up the chase at Beltsville, when their suspicions were aroused by the speed of the two cars and the behavior of the occupants. Six miles and about as many minutes later, the cars were overhauled, a short distance from the District line.

Both men and the woman were haled before Judge John Downing, of Hyattsville, who fixed the Barraia bond at $1,500, and held Barraia, and Raymond as well, on speeding and reckless driving charges.

He denied the alleged liquor loaded coupe was his own. While crossing the Delaware River on a ferry boat, a man turned the car over to him and asked him to drive it South for him, police said Barraia told them.

Valued at approximately $2,500, authorities said it was the most valuable haul of alleged liquor ever made in Prince Georges County.

HEATING GROUP ENDS SESSIONS IN CAPITAL

Jones Reelected President and Columbus, Ohio, Chosen for 1932 Meeting.

Other officers reelected included William McGrath, of Cincinnati, Ohio, first vice president; H. T. Richardson, of New York, second vice president, and Allen W. Williams, of Columbus, Ohio, managing director and treasurer. The new board of directors includes Ralph Blanchard, New Britain, Conn.; C. A. Glenn, Elyria, Ohio; A. W. Wrieden, Holland, Mich.; H. P. Mueller, Milwaukee, and F. E. Mohrings, Peoria, Ill.

Dr. L. R. Thompson, assistant surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, was the principal speaker on the closing program. His topic was "Good Air and Health." He emphasized the importance of exhaustive research work as a means of making the air in American homes ideal for the protection of health.

Reviewing the difficulties of maintaining stable temperatures, air circulation and humidity, which he declared has resulted in decreased humidity which promotes colds and other pulmonary afflictions, Dr. Thompson asserted that "man is capable of adapting himself to a wide variation of temperatures, but artificial winter heating has caused unnatural conditions."

The association voted to hold its 1932 convention at Columbus, Ohio.

A technical talk on "merchandising furnaces and developing the repair trade" was delivered by W. H. Kratzer, of Detroit. Onzi P. Hood, chief engineer of the technological branch of the Department of Commerce, outlined the relation of the Bureau of Mines to the warm-air heating industry.

"Credit Granting" was the topic of a talk by Dr. Stephen I. Mills, chief economist of R. G. Dun & Co., New York, in which he stressed the need for knowing all of the factors entering into the merchandising of heating devised and emphasized the relation of overhead and fixed capital to dwindling profits. Latest developments in research in the industry were reviewed by A. P. Kratz, research professor, and S. Konzo, special research assistant, of the University of Illinois.

Oklahoma College To Assist Mexican

State A. & M. School Plans Scholarship Named for Slain Student.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The State board of agriculture agreed today to step up a four-year scholarship at Oklahoma A. and M. College for a Mexican student to be selected by the President of Mexico.

Tuition and living expenses will be provided by the scholarship, which will be known as the Emilio Cortes Rubio scholarship, in memory of the kinsman of Mexico's president slain by a deputy sheriff at Ardmore last June. University of Oklahoma regents are expected to take similar action at the university, the scholarship to bear the name of Manuel Garcia Gomez, killed with young Cortes Rubio.

Mexico City, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The Students Federation voted today to decline the proposal of Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma that two Mexican scholarships be established at State institutions in honor of the Mexican students killed last June at Ardmore. The newspaper El Universal Grafico said editorially Mexicans no longer should send their children to United States schools.

Gable Ends Strike; Returns to Studio

Ace Leading Man Resumes Work in Picture After Salary Complaint.

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Things were running more smoothly at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio today because Clark Gable, the company's ace leading man, was back in harness.

Gable, whose phenomenal rise in popularity in the last year has put him among the first ranking stars, failed to appear at the studio yesterday. Emissaries hastily dispatched to his home brought back word to executives and Marion Davies, who was waiting on the set for him, that he felt he was not receiving a big enough salary.

It is reported that Gable gets $350 a week and a bonus of $500 a week. Today he was back at work and the studio would say no more than "everything's O. K."

Reception Given Home Building Delegates at White House; Club Honors Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER held a reception yesterday afternoon for the delegates here at the conference on Home Building and Home Ownership held in Constitution Hall this week, and which will close today. The delegates, numbering several thousand, are from all over the United States. Mrs. Hoover attended their session on Tuesday evening with the President.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, will be the guest of honor at the dinner to be given by the Commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. William D. Connor on December 29, preceding the United Services Holiday Ball.

Dinner Given Honors New Tariff Chairman.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, was the ranking guest at dinner last evening of Representative Allen T. Treadway, of Massachusetts, who entertained in his home in Tracy place in honor of Mr. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, the new chairman of the U. S. Tariff Commission, succeeding former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher.

The company included men connected with affairs and business of Massachusetts in Washington, and associated from early days with Mr. O'Brien. The others were former Senator Frederick H. Gillett, Representative Charles L. Underhill, Representative Frederick W. Dallinger, Representative Robert Luce, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mr. James B. Reynolds and Mr. Charles H. Groves.

Small, Miss Eleanor Connolly, Mrs. Louis D. Greene, Mrs. Moncure Berg and Mrs. Charles B. Moore. Mrs. Berg and Mrs. Moore made the introductions.

Mrs. Wilson looked handsome in a gown of black velvet made with a vast and revers of gold brocade. She wore a black hat, the brim of which was turned up sharply on the left side. A silver fox scarf and a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley completed her costume. Mrs. Herrick's gown was of black lace made with a deep yoke of white lace. She wore a medium-sized black hat trimmed with black satin ribbon and a small black and white breast; also a corsage bouquet of small cream roses.

Mrs. Harriman's costume was of bright green silk crepe made on tailored lines with a narrow black belt. Her hat was a small brimmed model of the same shade of green felt with a green quill wrapped tightly around one-half of the crown. Mrs. Hamlin's gown was of black chiffon trimmed with a wide collar and cuffs of white chiffon. Gov. Ross' gown was of black satin with a draped bodice of white satin. Her hat was a small model of black felt trimmed in the back with one white ostrich plume. A silver fox fur was about her shoulders.

Mrs. Dougherty's gown was of brown and gold, the skirt being of brown silk crepe, and the bodice, a tunic model of gold brocade on a white background. Her hat was a small toque of velvet with a bandeau of gold brocade. Mrs. Owen was in a modish suit of fur cloth, the coat being three-quarter length and trimmed about the collar, sleeves and bottom with a wide band of fox. Her hat was a felt model with a rather wide, dipping brim adorned on the left side with large black cocque feathers.

Some of the guests were Mrs. A. Garrison McClintock, Miss Bertha Bolling, Mrs. William Preston Wootten, Mrs. Theodore Tiller and her house guest, Mrs. Walter Gassaway, of Greenville, S. C., Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams and many others.

Mrs. Baker Gives Recital on Piano

Stage Solid Bank of Flowers Sent Up by Admirers After Each Number.

A piano recital by Mrs. Delphine Dodge Baker was presented last night by Felian Garzia, in the Arts Club auditorium, 2017 I street northwest.

Covering a broad repertoire, ranging from Scarlatti's "Pastorale" to Grieg's "Concerto, A minor," the recital was executed entirely from memory by Mrs. Baker. It was well received, and the stage at the last was a solid bank of flowers, formed of bouquets sent forward at the close of each number.

Numbers included Bach's "Chromatic Fantasy," Chopin's "Prelude in F," "Prelude in C," and "Polonaise, A flat," Debussy's "Minstrels" and "Clair de Lune" and Grieg's "Concerto, A minor." The last was presented with piano accompaniment.

A. U. Classes Will Hold 4 Contests on Field Day

Freshmen will fight for release from their green caps, green ties, green berets and other penalties laid upon them by the sophomore class at American University this afternoon, at the annual field day.

There will be four contests, starting at 2 o'clock—a girls' hockey game, soccer game, an interclass relay race for men and a tug-of-war, with the freshmen on one side and sophomores on the other side of a stream of cold water.

Shop Early Drive Will Aim at Men

Capital Merchants Think Women Already Have Been Won Over.

The campaign by Washington merchants for early Christmas shopping will be directed at men from now on, it was announced yesterday by Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Mr. Shaw said that a survey in large cities has revealed that the bulk of the last-minute Christmas shopping is done by men. Women have been educated to the importance of early shopping by the educational campaign waged by women's organizations, the association secretary said.

Volume of after-Christmas exchanges is expected to be materially reduced this year as a result of the movement started last November to launch the early Christmas shopping campaign. Through putting their complete Christmas stocks on display earlier than ever before, shoppers have been enabled to make more careful selections of gifts, it was pointed out.

G. W. U. Filipinos Will Attend Dance

Football Team and Foreign Students to Be Guests at Party Tonight.

The Philippinesian Club of George Washington University, composed of Filipino students attending the university, will hold its annual dance tonight at Corcoran Hall, 725 Twenty-first street northwest.

The club will have as its guests the university football team, all the foreign students representing 41 countries of the world who are now attending classes in the university, and the presidents of the various clubs and organizations on the campus, including the university Hatchet staff.

Diosdado M. Yap, president of the organization, announces that there will be two orchestras to furnish the music for the evening's entertainment. One is a typical nine-piece Filipino string orchestra and the other is a regular jazz band orchestra. The committee in charge is composed of Juan Soller, chairman; Felix Piniera, Manuel Argel, Phillip Irreeverre, G. A. Fonacier, Eugenio Porferio, Quismondo Saguil, Juan Silva, John Barbers and Alipio Diaz.

COLORFUL THRONGS JAM MEXICO CITY

100,000 Expected to Visit Shrine of Virgin of Guadalupe Soon.

Mexico City, Dec. 4 (U.P.).—Catholic pilgrims from many nations crowded the streets of the capital tonight for the fourth centenary celebration of the Virgin of Guadalupe.

Beginning a month of ceremony, there are at least 50,000 pilgrims in the city and more than 100,000 are expected to visit the shrine at Guadalupe in the next few weeks.

They came in rags and in expensive costumes, on foot and by limousine; they represented every class of native Mexican with the exception of government officials, and they swarmed along the road to the shrine with a display of religious fervor that gave no indication of Mexico's troubled church history.

Thousands of poor pilgrims camped in parks and open spaces by the roadside, especially near the Guadalupe Basilica, cooking frijoles and tortillas over open fires. The housing problem for those demanding less primitive accommodations, however, was becoming serious. All lodging places were overtaxed.

Five thousand persons crowded the basilica and environs for the preliminary ceremonies in which the apostolic delegate, Mgr. Ruiz y Flores, officiated at the consecration of the principal altar over which hangs the original miraculous painting of the virgin.

The secretary of interior, Manuel Telleg, said the government would give pilgrims "all facilities and guarantees, subject to the provisions in the constitution, but it will apply strictly the penalties for any violation of the religious laws."

William L. King Will Head Club

Cosmopolitans Nominate Officers for Next Year at Meeting.

William L. King will be the next president of the Cosmopolitan Club. This was decided at a nominating meeting held Thursday at the Carlton Hotel, at which time Mr. King was placed in nomination and the nominations unanimously declared closed.

Other officers nominated, all without opposition, were as follows: Vice president Robert W. McChesney; treasurer, E. E. Downhan; secretary, Michael D. Schaefer; members of the executive committee to fill two vacancies, Arthur W. Defenderfer and Edmund O. Carl; delegate to the national convention Gordon Bonnettee, retiring president; alternate, George E. Wyne. The elections will take place next Thursday.

Plans for the ladies' luncheon, which will be held at the Carlton next Thursday, were outlined by Fred J. Rice, chairman of the committee in charge.

Employes of District Warned of Parking Ban

With the convening of Congress just a few days ahead, the District Commissioners yesterday sent a mimeographed warning to the heads of all departments that neither they nor any District employe are to park cars in the space adjacent to the District Building set aside for members of Congress and Federal officials.

The notice said that this parking space has been used to some extent by District officials and employes "without authority."

Bird Sanctuaries Will Be Increased

(Associated Press.)

Acquisition of 42,227 acres of land for migratory game-bird refuges has been authorized by the migratory bird conservation commission.

The Agricultural Department will make the purchases in nine States at an average cost of $5.74 an acre. The additions will bring to 220,713 acres the land devoted to bird sanctuaries.

Included in the new purchases are: New York: 2,274 acres adjacent to Hewlett, Long Island; Maryland: 10,000 acres 10 miles from Cambridge; Nebraska: 1,688 acres for Crescent Lake refuge; North Dakota: 4,269 acres in Kidder and Bruliegh Counforth Lake and Hutton Lake, near ties; Wyoming: 3,465 acres at Bam-Laramie, and Nevada: Additions to 17,902 acres of Fallon Refuge set aside by executive order last February.

3 PAIRS ARE AT TOP IN BRIDGE TOURNEY

Play Ends at Philadelphia With Winners in Doubt Pending Count.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The national contract bridge tournament for pairs ended tonight after three days of play with indications that one of three duets which held a substantial lead at the close of the second session would be adjudged the winner.

Cumulative standings as of the second session yesterday, announced late today, showed S. B. Fink and E. J. Banin, of Cleveland, and W. J. Huske and Curt Reisinger, of New York, tied for the top at 102 points. Close behind were David Burnstine and Richard L. Frey, of New York, with 98½ points.

The official scorers said they would be unable to determine the winner until shortly before the ceremony at which the massive silver Cavendish Club trophy will be presented tomorrow.

No official scores were available for the teams-of-four, which completed their third session tonight and headed for the final tomorrow. However, the officials listed three teams which they believed were in the van.

These three are: E. W. Humphries, W. Roberts, E. D. Schafer and R. W. Calloway, of Philadelphia; S. L. Guggenheim, O. E. Mueller, E. C. Wolfe and H. P. Jaeger, of Cleveland, and R. R. Richards and Russell Roosen, of Detroit; Sir Derrick J. Wernher, of Deal, N. J., and C. J. Hepburn, of New York.

In addition to the final session of the team competition tomorrow there also will be special games for the winners of various events of the tournament. Open games for pins and trophies have been scheduled daily throughout the week, but there have been no such entrants since Tuesday.

The Chicago trophy presented by the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago, for which the teams are striving, is held now by a quartet, which includes Ely Culbertson and John Rau, of New York; William Barett, of Augusta, Ga., and W. James Carpenter, of Cleveland, Culbertson, well-known author and teacher, did not defend his title here.

P. S. Germaine and Mrs. F. E. W. Bright, of Detroit, hold the Cavendish trophy for pairs.

Capital Student at G. U. Honored by Law Club

A Washington student at the Georgetown Law School, William J. Rowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rowan, 3530 S street, has been elected chief justice of the Edward Douglass White Club. He is a senior.

Rowan is a graduate of Gonzaga High School in this city and entered the law school from Georgetown College where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1929. At the law school he has represented his club in a prize debate, served as vice president of the freshman class, secretary of the Butler Law Club and chief counsellor of the Law Students' Sodality.

District Man Saves Time In Swim From Steamer

Hyannis, Mass., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Henry J. Mainwaring, 40, whose address is Hotel Burlington, Washington, D. C., arrived for a visit with friends here today somewhat earlier than expected. Steamers do not stop while passing through the Cape Cod Canal, but Mainwaring did. He leaped overboard from the steamer Alleghany and swam ashore, making it unnecessary for him to travel back to Hyannis by rail from Boston, where the steamer bound from Baltimore and Norfolk, docked some hours later.

Steamship officials and friends who found his stateroom empty had caused a search to be started for Mainwaring's body before they learned of his arrival at Hyannis. Mainwaring, however, was ordered to bed by a physician, who said he was suffering from a nervous breakdown.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE third Philadelphia Orchestra concert will find Leopold Stokowski turning his attention to the romantic composers of the early nineteenth century. The broadcast will be heard over Station WMAL from 8:15 to 10 o'clock tonight.

The concert will originate in the Philadelphia Academy of Music, and descriptions of the music and the scene in the academy will be furnished by Pitts Sanborn and Linton Martin, music critics.

Having traversed the period from Monteverdi to Beethoven in the first two concerts, Stokowski this time will devote his attention to the "Romantics"—Weber, Schubert, Berlioz, Mendelssohn and Schumann—thus completing the first half of his historical survey of music.

Following is the program:

Overture, "Roman Carnival" (Berlioz).

Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn).

Symphony in D Minor (Schumann).

CHILE'S new president, Senor Don Juan Esteban Montero, will speak to the people of the United States shortly after his inauguration in an international broadcast from Santiago, Chile, tonight over a countrywide network (including WRC, 8 p. m.). Don Miguel Cruchaga, Chilean Ambassador to the United States, will speak in English from New York during the broadcast. President Montero will speak in Spanish for four minutes. The rest of the half-hour program will be devoted to Chilean music. Leopoldo Guitierrez, barytone, will be soloist.

Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, will discuss the constantly growing problem of what his party should do about the tariff in an address over WMAL tonight. Senator Connally is a member of the Senate finance committee, which handles tariff legislation.

Teams of Oxford and Harvard clash over 3,000 miles of space tonight in the first trans-Atlantic radio debate ever staged.

The American team will speak from NBC studios in New York, and the English team from London. Their arguments will flash back and forth across the ocean, the speeches of each team being heard by the other, and rebroadcast in this country over an extensive WEAF network. WRC will not be a part of the hookup, but other likely stations over which the debate may be heard are WTIC, Hartford, 1060 kc, and WTAM, Cleveland, 1070 kc.

The subject of debate is: "Resolved, That in the interests of world prosperity war debts should be cancelled." James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, will act as chairman.

DEVELOPMENT of the suite as a musical form, from the time of Bach to the present day, will be traced by Ernest Schelling when he conducts the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in the young people's concert (WMAL, 11 a. m. to 12:00 p. m.).

The program will include the Suite in D Major, Bach; "Peer Gynt" Suite No. 1, Greig; Dirge and Indian War Dance from second Indian Suite, MacDowell; Cradle Song, Mozart; and selections from "The Fire Bird," Stravinsky.

The Foreign Policy Association Luncheon proceedings, "Can France and Germany Get Together?" under discussion, will be heard through WRC this afternoon, 1:45 to 3:30 o'clock. Speakers will be Miss Valentine Thompson, writer; Ernest Jackh, political economist, and James G. MacDonald.

A four part serial play entitled "Hunted" will be given by WRC, 6:45 p. m., and the three Saturdays thereafter at the same time. The play was written and will be produced by Angela Keir, actress, who made her debut with E. H. Sothern and was later connected with Charles Frohman and David Belasco companies for years.

MUSIC from the Argentine will be heard over the country when the Carabelli Orchestra is picked up from Buenos Aires tonight (WRC, 10 o'clock). • • • Shepard Barclay, bridge authority, will smooth out the difficulties of the quarreling players in the episode of Contract Bridge (WRC, 5:30 p. m.).

ALL records for mail were broken at the National Broadcasting Company when 382,000 letters were received in the week ended November 21.

It was thought that the letter-writing days of radio passed when the novelty of tuning in long distance ended. Gradually the mail of all stations diminished, and the sponsors of programs began to wonder if radio was reaching the ears of the public as in the days of yore.

"So to convince them that the unseen audience had not turned off their sets, the broadcasting organizations that had frowned upon sampling and free offers on the air lifted the barrier," Orrin Dunlap, Jr., writes in the New York Times. "Then the mail poured in as never before. Now many stations have resorted to contests to encourage listeners to write, and that is one of the chief reasons why the Autumn harvest in letters is plentiful. The broadcasters are said to be on a contest rampage.

"'Because of the time limitations of radio, it is impossible to tune in on a network for an anticipated evening's entertainment without having the eardrums pounded to exasperation with contest chatter,' observes Printers' Ink. 'Eighteen sponsors on three networks are whooping the air with contests. It would be interesting to know just how many of the radio audience which stays through each hullaballoo are professional contestants. Maybe these professionals constitute a satisfactory market, but we doubt it.

"'Meantime the great army of non-contestants is being imposed upon. Such good-will as comes from the compratively few who win prizes could never counterbalance the ill-will of the unsuccessful amateurs. Let advertisers and advertising agencies bear this in mind. It is one thing deliberately to stimulate listener mail, and another to win lasting customers on the merit of a product that is bought through suggestion and not by artificial stimulus.

• • • •

"BECAUSE radio is new, present legislation permits practices which, through the mails, would be illegal. The broadcasting industry realizes that these unlegislated practices are unsound. It should be of significance to advertisers that the industry favors enactment of legislation to bring broadcast contests under the same legal restrictions that govern printed announcements of contests.'"

Jane Enterprets the Mode

Panama, December 4.

NOW, one and all, here's an idea! Let's all take a New Year's resolution right now, where and when it will do lots more good than if we wait until New Year's—and solemnly resolve to make this Christmas the happiest one for every one that we possibly can.

Let's resolve right here and now not to let hard times or depressions or anything keep us from being happy, from giving parties and gifts, from entering into the Christmas spirit. Even let's be a little more generous and kind than we were before, remembering persons we would otherwise not remember this year.

Now, I don't mean to spend lots of money on Christmas. I do mean, though, to spend lots of energy and a lot of our selfishness, on it. I mean the extra thought, the little gift that has some meaning and love in it, the little things we can begin right now to make with our clever fingers, the gadget we can remember having seen here or there, or one we heard about that so and so would just adore!

Tell you what I am doing—just for an idea of what I mean. You know I am taking a trip around south from New York to Panama—well, I'm spending a lot of my pesos that I would ordinarily spend on something for my own sweet, selfish self on brilliantly colored and useful hand-made Mexican sandals for a lot of kids I know—kids I never thought of last Christmas, kids whose families haven't had the breaks this year, and whose mummies will be thankful for these "sapatos" even as the youngsters will be crazy about them themselves, because they are something all the other kids won't have. 'Course, they are only a couple of pesos apiece—but when you multiply this by two dozen kids——!

That's what I mean—resolved: That we Dah-rayites will absolutely make this a happier and gayer Christmas than any the world has known in years, rather than the saddened and anxiety haunted one it might be without this effort!

• • • •

And we'll start right in by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells us how to make a darling undergarment which is all one combined—brassiere, panties and chemise, like the various "single this or that" you see advertised. For this is the most flattering and dainty and practical undergarment you can imagine, and not difficult to make from these directions, and you can make four or six as easily as you can make one—for Christmas gifts, you see, as well as for your own lingerie box. And, oh, yes, the back is so arranged that, what with its adjustable straps and draw string, it can be lowered for the most backless of backless evening gowns—and that's something I don't think the ready-made garments have!

• • • •

Yes, there's the front and back of it illustrated today, and I'll just bet that you will be delighted with it once you make it from the leaflet. Can you imagine a girl or woman friend, either, who wouldn't love it for a gift?

• • • •

Tipping the scales at 142 today, which isn't overweight as far as the well-known statistics go, but 10 pounds so to my fashion-wise eye—and am on the second massage given me by the hefty "Belgique" masseuse aboard this steamer. Well, I'll tell you the rest of the story when I arrive in San Francisco 20 days hence!

• • • •

Yes, and I am eating almost anything I want—in fact, I am eating anything I want—just making myself "want" with a little discretion. Watch reports!

• • • •

The Christmas Box.

There's nothing the average man likes better than hand-monogrammed handkerchiefs for Christmas—so if you can't monogram them yourself you'd better go to the nearest department store and order some right away. The monograms are hand embroidered to order either in France or in a French convent in Quebec, you know, so it takes quite a little time to get the handkerchiefs, but they are all well worth it, and don't forget the extremely reasonable prices the stores charge this year!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me of two plants which might grow in a bracket for use in a schoolroom. I must have plans which will stand some neglect. MISS CAROL F. T.

The anthericum is a hardy little basket plant which has the interesting habit of forming pendant shoots which again produce little well-formed baby plants at intervals. Anthericum, or spider plant, and the wandering Jew, or tradescanthia, are both attractive for school use. The trouble with the last-named variety is that it soon becomes shabby. The only way to overcome this fault is to root new shoots and discard the old plants when they become a bit brown and decayed looking.

Do you have to feed calla lilies while they are opening their buds? I have three plants which are potted in very rich soil. Last year these plants bloomed, but the flowers were small. MRS. CLIDE G. J.

Calla lilies should be given a top dressing of bonemeal once in two weeks, as they are heavy feeders. Or if you prefer you may give them liquid manure when they begin to flower. They must have plenty of direct sun in order to produce large, well-formed flowers.

Please tell me if there is any way of preventing scale diseases from attacking shrubbery and shade trees. Last year many of my finest specimens were ruined by scale, which is hard to remedy in midsummer. ANNE F. H.

Spraying with lime-sulphur or with miscible oils during warm winter weather is the most effective method of eradicating scale pests from fruit trees, shrubbery or shade trees. There are usually warm days in January or February when a spray may be applied.

As a rule, my house in winter has a temperature of from 68 to 72 degrees during the day and about 64 to 68 degrees at night. Is this the proper temperature for plants, provided they have good ventilation? MRS. ROBERT W.

This temperature should suit most plants. Try to keep the air as moist as possible. One way to accomplish this is to keep the pots on galvanized iron trays on which a layer of pebbles may be placed. Plants so placed may be watered without fear of overdoing it. The surplus water runs over the pebbles and quickly evaporates. This constant evaporation is of great benefit to the plants, as it provides a moist atmosphere.

Please tell me if geraniums grown from seed purchased from a reputable seed company always develop double flowers. THOMAS F. E.

No, flowers grown from seed are apt to be double, single or semi-double.

My palm requires repotting, at least the plant appears to be standing on stilts, the roots pushing up out of the soil. Must I wait until spring to move the plant or can it be transplanted while it is in the house? JESSIE F. P.

You may transplant a palm at this time. Use a soil composed of good loam, sand and manure in equal parts and shift the plant into a pot only one size larger than the one in which it is now growing. Keep it shaded for a few days after transplanting it.

Please give me a list of five ferns which are hardy enough for house use. NANCY F. L.

Holly, polypodium, Boston, Teddy, jr., and Scotti are all varieties with strong, vigorous constitutions and are therefore well suited for house use. The polypodium demands more sun than do the other ferns in this list.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

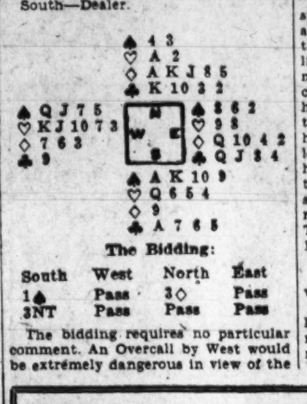
CONSERVATIVES AND RADICALS.

THE world owes much to the conservative, the person who believes in maintaining old things because they have proved their worth and also because of a fear of the new and untried. However, even the staunchest tory must admit that great changes have come in the world through the activities of the radicals, those who refuse to accept anything on authority, but whose minds reach out into the unknown seeking something to add to the sum of human knowledge.

Many of the principles of play in Contract are a bequest from the game of Whist. The heritage left us by the grandfather of Contract is a goodly one, but it does not mean that we should do nothing to increase it. Thus, one of the traditions handed down from the days of Whist is the deeply rooted objection to short suit leads and so strong was this objection in the days of Whist that the lead of a Singleton was described as a "sneak" lead. Even today when you enter a card club you will hear a person proudly announce to a new partner, "I never lead a Doubleton or a Singleton," somewhat in the nature of a person calling attention to the fact that they gave alms to all they possessed and fulfilled every duty to church and state. I am afraid I can not qualify in this class. I do like to try new things; and I do lead Singletons and Doubletons. Yes—and the worst might as well be known at once—I even lead them when the final declaration is notrump. Such leads against a notrump declaration have a dual purpose. The first is to gracefully surrender an undesirable right; that is, the right to play first. The second purpose of the lead is to notify partner he is put upon his own resources in determining the defense and to warn him against the attempt to establish the suit opened by partner. Hands containing tenace situations—that is, honor combinations not in sequence—usually present a difficult problem in the choice of the lead. Quite frequently the solution is the selection of another suit, as can be seen by a study of the hand below.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	3◇	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment. An Overcall by West would be extremely dangerous in view of the fact that he is vulnerable and must undertake the contract to take 8 tricks.

West had no desirable lead. The spade had been bid by the Declarer and the heart suit was of a nature that made its lead undesirable. This limited his choice to the club or diamond suit, and the selection of the clubs was dictated by the fact that it had not been bid, as well as the further fact that its shortness in his hand might be complemented by length and some slight strength in his partner's hand. The lead proved the undoing of the contract. Either a spade or a heart Opening would have made the Declarer's task a simple one. The spade insures him 3 spade tricks, 1 heart, 3 diamonds and 2 clubs.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: When do you take out with three notrump?

Answer: Holding 3 honor-tricks, lacking adequate support and having no biddable suit, take out with three notrump.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:35 a. m. to 10:40 a. m., from 2:15 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 4:50 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Fate will look after the interests of those who are established in life on December 5, and they may rest on their oars. Those who have been at grips with the world will find themselves on the right tack. Much argument and discussion in the family circle may cause a strained atmosphere.

The child born on this December 5 will have a proud, imperious nature and very high ambitions. It will resent any form of discipline, but will listen to reason. It will not be even-tempered, and will fly off the handle over trifles. It never harbors resentment, however.

Born on December 5, you are a soldier of fortune and a seeker of adventure. You are carried away by your enthusiasms, whilst they are fresh, but they are soon deserted when some new interest appears on the horizon. You can not concentrate your attention on one thing for long at a time. You sow many seeds, but you reap few full-blown harvests; you start things for others to finish.

You are very openhanded, and with you, to have is to spend. Many of your troubles have been due to a foolish desire to fight other people's battles. Generally your championship has been ill-based, and the people you have championed have left you in the air when you have wanted their support. You never go out of your way to do a man a bad turn, but you quickly go out of your way to do somebody a good turn. You seldom regret your impetuosities, though some of them have had appalling consequences. You do not cry over spilt milk. You are not a good judge of character, and if you like a person, you automatically trust him.

You have an active imagination, and get a great deal of enjoyment, if not any lasting benefit, out of your day dreams. Your transient optimisms keep up your courage, and you always look forward to the sun shining on your "tomorrows."

Successful people born on December 5:

1—Martin Van Buren—Eighth President of U. S.

2—George Custer—Cavalry officer.

3—William Walker Atkinson—Editor, New Thought.

4—Harry W. Pillsbury—Chess player.

6—Sir Frederick Bridge—Organist Westminster Abbey.

FRANCES M'DONALD

They Know What They Want.

DEAR Frances McDonald—It would do my heart and soul so much good (saying nothing about my general attitude toward men) if I could meet but one man, who doesn't tell you within 10 minutes after he has met you that he wants to kiss you, or what kissable lips you have, or other trash along that line. Within fifteen minutes after they have met you they have their arms around you and of course you must rudely tell them to keep in their place.

Miss McDonald, what am I to do. I am not cold blooded; I like male companionship—in fact I need it, but I will not go with these "ninompoops" I meet. I am attractive, built nicely, fairly intelligent, have a good sense of humor (but do not like coarse jokes), but still I can not meet even one man who has a more serious thought in his mind than petting or talking sex. I love the theater, good books, and everything cultural and it is certainly appalling to have to either accept invitations from the kind I meet or not have any social life at all. I do occupy my evenings advantageously, but I don't want to feel that I am letting the years slip by without any more real fun. But what can I do?

JUNE

And "Fleur" has a few words to say concerning what passes as "courtship" in the modern manner! We have all met the types Fleur describes. They are too numerous to miss even in so crowded a world. As one reads these letters from perfectly normal girls, one can realize the temptation to turn man-hater that must assail at times even the most equable among them. How can an intelligent, up-standing, self-supporting young woman be expected to look upon one of these prospects for her hand and heart, with even a trace of enthusiasm? Read Fleur's experience. Recognize any of the heroes?

Dear Frances McDonald—I am 23, not a prize beauty, but not so hard to look at, I have met many fellows in my life, but not one yet has been my ideal. I'm not fussy and yet, I can't understand myself. Let us start with my first friend. He was very nice, but all he could talk was about his popularity with the girls and the nice clothes he had in his room, &c. No. 2's weaknesses were liquor and wild parties and wild ideas about love making. No. 3, graduated from a college, seemed to have a good education, but if he would take you to a show, or a cafe, expected you to repay him by hugs and kisses. Do they learn that system at college? No. 4, the most conceited liar that ever lived.

Now, Miss McDonald, why can't I meet a fellow that will enjoy my company, talk about so many interesting things, go to shows, &c., and have a grand time in an old good-fashioned way.

Please don't think that I'm an old crab. There is nothing in the world that I enjoy more than friendship. If I can't meet a decent fellow with good morals, I'd rather die an "old crab" as some would say. Accept my best wishes and congratulations, Miss McDonald and my sincere friendship. Sincerely, FLEUR.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE HEALTH OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS.

DR. J. H. BEARD, the physician in charge of student health at the University of Illinois, thinks our public school system is either not interested in health education or else they do not know how to do their job.

He tells us that a teacher of biology in a high school conducted an investigation of high school pupils in four States as to what they knew of some health subjects. Forty-nine per cent did not know that the mosquito was the only transmitter of malaria; 18 per cent of them thought the use of a madstone would prevent hydrophobia; 22 per cent thought that a horsehair put into water could turn into a snake; 75 per cent of them had never studied personal hygiene or physiology, to say nothing of public health.

This creates a situation which makes it very difficult to get good health laws or to have good enforcement of those we have. It makes it pretty hard on the health officers.

Dr. Beard has been examining more than 10,000 university students yearly over a period of ten years and is in a position to know. When he talks of the state of student health and also of their knowledge of health he bases his statements on over 100,000 observations. He says smallpox is far too frequent. Of the students that come to the university about one-thirteenth have already had smallpox. Somewhere between one-fourth and one-half have never been vaccinated. "Since the World War smallpox has cost the taxpayers of Illinois enough money to build an 18-foot highway across the State from east to west."

About one-twelfth of the students have had diphtheria when they enter the university. About one-twenty-fifth have had typhoid fever. Both diphtheria and typhoid are preventable diseases. To have had either should be a badge of disgrace.

Tuberculosis is on the increase among girls of college age in Illinois, according to Dr. Beard. In all other groups of the population it is on the decline. Dr. Beard attributes the bad showing of college girls to the "starving style and speed." It is the style to be slender an in consequence the college girl does not eat enough good solid food to maintain her resistance. One of his aphorisms used in this connection is: "Disease is the bonus received when vigor and strength are exchanged for fads, fashion and frolic."

Heart disease is one of the most prevalent diseases of college boys and girls. Among the prominent causes of this trouble, as it appears in adolescents, are rheumatic fever, chorea, tonsillitis, scarlet fever and diphtheria. Athletics ranks low in the list of causes. Growing pains and decay of teeth outrank football, basket ball and baseball as causes.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Darling Christmas Suggestions.

It's just gorgeous in rose taffeta in quaint pattern with rose chiffon velvet jacket and hat. The muff and sleeve trim are white fur fabric.

Style No. 487 is designed for a doll 28 inches tall. It requires ⅝ yard of 39-inch material with ⅛ yard of 27-inch lining for jacket and bonnet with 1½ yards of 39-inch material for dress and ½ yard of 4½-inch fur for muff and cuffs.

Another interesting scheme is black crepe silk for the sleeveless dress with its quaint gathered skirt. Make the jacket of vivid red crepe; the sleeve trim and muff of black fur fabric.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

CHRISTMAS MENUS WILL BRING PRIZES

The Post Will Award Five Books for Best Presented Before December 12.

What will you serve for the Christmas feast?

The Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post is desirous of presenting the best possible Christmas menus for its readers. Therefore, five book prizes will be given for the five best Christmas menus received by the Food Page Editor before December 12. Sign your menus with your name and address. The condition is that all the articles presented in the menus must be the supplies which can be furnished by the advertisers of the Saturday Food Page.

In turning in your recipes for the weekly cash prize and for the book prizes and honorable mention awards be sure to include the items published in some advertisement on this page, else they can not be considered for the prizes. Many excellent recipes are received which can not be entered in the contest because they lack this requirement.

FIG SURPRISE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 pint milk
1-3 cup Cream of Wheat (Sanitary).
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup fig syrup
½ teaspoon lemon extract (Sanitary)
6 stewed figs (Spear brand)
¼ cup nuts (M. B. Frazier's)
¼ coconut

Scald the milk and stir in the Cream of Wheat, sugar and salt. Cook 20 minutes. Add fig syrup and extract. Figs should be small, and cooked until skins are tender. Stuff figs with nuts and coconut. Put a spoonful of hot pudding in each mold, lay in a stuffed fig and cover with pudding. Serve cold with fig syrup or custard sauce.

Custard Sauce.

¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 egg yolk
1 whole egg (slightly beaten)
2 cups milk
Salt to taste
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix sugar, cornstarch and egg and pour on this the hot milk. Cook in double boiler until thick. Cool and add salt and vanilla.

If custard sauce should curdle, beat it with a rotary egg beater. To prevent a film forming over the top before the custard is served cover it with a cloth or a perforated tin.

For variety in flavor instead of plain milk you might substitute condensed milk or your favorite brand of evaporated milk. All are equally nourishing for children.

BLACK WALNUT LOAF CAFE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup shortening
2 cups granulated sugar
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup Frazier's black walnut meats (chopped and dredged with flour)
6 egg whites

Cream thoroughly shortening and sugar. Sift together three times the flour and baking powder. Add to shortening and sugar mixture alternately with milk. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Add nut meats and vanilla. Last, fold in whites of eggs, beaten stiff. Bake in loaf cake pan in slow oven for about one hour.

MRS. BYRDE COUNARD.

CRANBERRY UPSIDE DOWN CAKE.
(Honorable Mention.)
Cake Batter.

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup Washington flour
1 teaspoon Rumford baking powder

Cream butter with sugar, add the egg, milk and vanilla then the sifted flour and baking powder.

2 cups Eatmore cranberries
1 large tart apple
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons Brer Rabbit molasses
3 tablespoons water
½ cup Diamond walnuts, finely chopped

Butter a deep dish, line with the cranberries, over this put the finely sliced apple, cover with the sugar and flour which have been mixed together, then add a sprinkle of salt, the molasses, water and lastly the chopped nuts. Pour the cake batter over this and bake about 35 minutes, or until golden brown.

MRS. SAMUEL GINSBURG.
438 Tenth street northeast.

SUET PUDDING.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 cup molasses
1 cup light brown sugar
¾ cup of raisins, cut fine
½ cup currants (Piggly-Wiggly)

Mix above ingredients and add one cup of sour milk with one teaspoon of soda, one-third teaspoon of cinnamon, one-third teaspoon of cloves, one-quarter teaspoon of salt, one cup of chopped suet, one-half cup bread crumbs, enough flour to make quite stiff. Put into greased cake tins and steam two hours; serve with hot sauce. This pudding can be resteamed a number of times and will keep well.

MRS. WELSH.
3211 Bunker Hill road, Mount Rainier, Md.

APPLE SAUCE AND MARSHMALLOW.
(Honorable Mention.)

Put 30 Asco marshmallows in double boiler with one-third cup water. Allow marshmallows to melt, stirring occasionally. Add 1½ tablespoons lemon and orange juice, 1½ cups Smithfield apple sauce. Mix thoroughly and allow to cool. When slightly thickened add three-fourths pint whipping cream (whipped stiff). Blend well and place in refrigerator pans. Freeze like mousse for three hours. Needs no stirring. This amply serves eight.

MRS. DAVID M. McPHERSON.
104 West Thornapple street, Chevy Chase, Md.

CHICKEN PILAU.
(Honorable Mention)

Go to the Sanitary store near you and lay in the ingredients for a single dish that will make a satisfying dinner. With this serve iced coffee, made from Swing's Java and Mocha.

1½ cups rice
3 cups stock
1 small can tomatoes
1 large onion
1 large pepper
1 cup blanched and halved almonds

A generous seasoning of thyme either fresh or powdered.

Boil chicken in salt water and use this water as stock. Soak the cleaned-out pepper in boiling water for a few minutes, then chop it up with the onion and fry both together in butter. Into this put 2 cups of stock, add the tomatoes and thyme and season well while cooking. Be sure you use sufficient thyme to give an unmistakable flavor, as this is the special distinction of the pilau.

Boil the rice about 25 minutes and have it dry. When the tomato sauce is well cooked add the chopped chicken and heat through. If too thick add the balance of the stock and last of all add the almonds, so that they will not be cooked.

Take a large flat, circular dish; on it make a mound of rice with deep cavity in center. Into this pour the chicken and serve immediately.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.
934 I street northwest.

SPECIAL SANDWICHES.
(Honorable Mention)

3 oz. cream cheese (Asco.)
2 tablespoons evaporated milk (Asco.)
2 tablespoons chopped nuts (Frazier's)
3 tablespoons strawberry or pineapple preserves

Mash cheese, add milk and blend thoroughly. Add nuts and preserves, which have been well drained of syrup. Spread thin slices of Schneider's bread with mayonnaise, cover half the slices with the mixture and the remaining half with lettuce leaves. Put together in pairs. This quantity of filling makes six sandwiches and can be increased as desired, using the same proporations.

MRS. LEWIS EISELE, of 4801 Langdrum lane, Chevy Chase, Md., who wins this week's $5 award for the outstanding contribution in the food page editor's weekly recipe contest.

Economical Cake Is Made From Confection of Mrs. Eisele.

Eggless, milkless, butterless cake, which, minus these ingredients, is just as wholesome and appetizing as its more costly counterpart, wins this week's Post award of $5 for the best recipe submitted in the food page editor's weekly recipe contest.

To Mrs. Lewis Eisele, of 4801 Langdrum Lane, Chevy Chase, Md., who submitted the prize winning formula goes the $5 award.

Economical housewives who like good things to eat and know how to make them, will revel in this opportunity to try out a new delicacy at low cost. Follow closely Mrs. Eisele's directions, and success is inevitable. The recipe follows:

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
¾ cup lard
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon soda
3½ cups flour
1 cup walnuts (M. B. Frazier)
1 cup currants
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Put sugar, water, lard, fruit, and spices together in a saucepan and cook for 5 minutes. Let cool a little and then add 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in a little hot water. Add the baking powder and salt to the flour and sift the flour into the cooled mixture. Add the walnuts. Beat well. Put in loaf cake pan and bake in slow oven 45 to 50 minutes. This is a large cake and keeps a long time. Nuts may be omitted, thus making a delicious cake at a low cost.

Pork Prices Tumble In Capital Markets

Still another drop in the price of pork was welcome news to food shoppers this week. Pork loin cuts dropped from 15 cents per pound to 12½ cents in some retail shops. Bacon saw a 20 per cent drop, going from 25 cents to 20 cents for a pound. In these certain shops boiled ham of good quality sold for 35 cents a pound.

"I would say that the pork decrease is the most important development of the week on the food market," stated one meat dealer of 21 years' experience.

Stop and Go Canapes.

(Note resemblance to traffic lights.)

¼ cup butter
½ cup commercial cheese spread
1 canned pimiento
½ bunch watercress
1 loaf bread

Cut bread into slices, then into rounds. Remove centers from one-half the rounds with a small cutter. Spread remaining rounds with softened butter and cheese. In center of half these slices place small pieces of canned pimiento; in other half watercress leaves. Cover with ring-shaped slices from which centers have been removed, exposing red and green centers. Eighteen to 24 sandwiches.

Pinwheel Appetizers.

1 3½-ounce can pimientoes
½ cup butter
Fresh bread

Drain pimientoes on absorbent paper; chop finely and stir gradually into ½ cup softened butter. Remove crusts from loaf of fresh bread. Cut into thin lengthwise slices; spread with pimiento butter before or after slicing. Roll up like a jelly roll, fastening with toothpicks if necessary. Wrap in damp cloth and place in refrigerator until butter is firm. Cut in thin rounds and serve as an appetizer.

Crown Roast of Lamb.

Have a crown of lamb prepared at the market. Wrap rib ends with slices of salt pork to prevent charring. Season with salt and pepper. Place in a hot oven (480 degrees Fahrenheit) and sear until nicely browned. Reduce the temperature to 300 degrees Fahrenheit and roast for 1½ hours, or until the meat is tender. Remove to a hot platter. Replace pork on the rib ends with paper chop frills or stick on each a potato or carrot ball or cube. Fill the center with dressing.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Meat Market Artist Has Many Famous Women, Millionaires and Members of Congress for His Customers.

EXACT spots where great ladies have stood could be marked and the gracious things the great ladies have said could be told by one who has served the great ladies when they shopped in a certain downtown market. But the spots and the tales of graciousness go pretty well unmarked and untold, respectively. That is because the great ladies wouldn't care to be so spotlighted and also because the marketer who has served so many of them has the good taste not to talk much about such matters.

Many questions from the market meanderer were necessary to learn about the many important and interesting women among the 280 customers from high places comprising the list served by this certain marketer. He is a meat dealer, has been in business for 38 years, 31 of which he has spent in the same market.

Niceties in the preparation of meat that are painstaking, that are a proof that artistry may have such materials as spring lamb, filet mignon or Southern ham baked in molasses • • • these niceties are all in a day's work for this meat marketer. Loin saddles from the choicest of stall-fed spring lamb from Canada, meticulously larded, plumed with paper curls, are just an order from a high place for his meat shop.

For the breakfast table of a President of a number of years ago this very special meat marketer used to supply daily a porterhouse steak two and a half inches thick! For breakfast, note carefully. The marketer didn't know but thought it probable that the breakfast was in the late forenoon and that the subsequent nourishment for the day didn't come for that Chief Executive until dinner time.

Thirty-two members of Congress are customers of the meat dealer being mentioned. And the meat dealer didn't tell the meanderer, but some one else who knows did, that seventeen millionaires order from this meat shop!

Caviarettes is the name of a crisp, toasted base for canapes that one dealer in fancy food at a market centrally located is featuring at 75 cents for three dozen.

Dried pears from California have joined the group of more common dried fruits in the same downtown market. The pears become most delectable when stewed or steamed slowly and carefully.

Extra fancy mushrooms are costing 50 cents per pound in some quarters though tags of 40 cents for them were noticed here and there. Choice asparagus is 75 cents for a two-pound bunch. High hat hothouse tomatoes bring dealers 50 cents for a pound.

New potatoes, the small, pink ones that appear about this time, are sold in strawberry boxes, and won't be heavy to carry home. They cost 10 cents for a pound or three pounds for a quarter.

Radishes, the rich hothouse cousins of the big garden family of them last summer, sell about six for a dime in some fancy vegetable stands.

Only now and then in particular places can one obtain sauce Bercy from Sauterne wine for fish, oysters and chicken, or sauce Bordelaise claret for soups, beefs, pot roasts, venison steaks and rabbit. There is a certain corner in a high class open food market where these sauces are found.

Giant pomegranates weighing a pound and a quarter have arrived in Washington and sell for 25 cents each.

Toothsome indeed are dates stuffed with nuts offered by a fancy goods dealer at one of the big markets. He sells them reasonably for 60 cents per pound. Five kinds of nuts go into the stuffing of the dates, English walnuts, black walnuts, pecans, almonds and brazil nuts. The method of their stuffing is not ordinary. The dates are mashed, flattened, thickly sprinkled with the chopped nuts, rolled tightly, chilled and then cut into strips. Each strip is wax paper wrapped. This dealer in stuffed dates and many of the most tempting things there are in foods is promising still another date confection for holiday trade . . . the always-wanted dates stuffed with crystallized ginger.

Cranberries were sighted in a market out Seventh street way for the new low price of two pounds for 25 cents. Tangerines sell at the same stand for 20 cents a dozen.

With winter coming on it was interesting to see the unusually plentiful supply of greens. They sell at the market just mentioned about for 5 cents per pound and the variety includes mustard greens, turnip greens, kale and rapeseed. Crisp chicory, or domestic endive, is offered there for three pounds for 25 cents.

'Down South Hams' Make Delightful Holiday Dish

"Down South hams," from Richmond, Va., cooked in cider and molasses until they are just right, according to the standards of one of the best judges of meat in Washington, are selling rapidly at a downtown market. Done to the proper turn, the hams are wrapped in bright cellophane, sprigged with festive paper curls, and are a holiday suggestion quite irresistible.

The price of $1.25 per pound for the hams is none too much for their excellence. But if the purse doesn't yield quite that much for a "down South" ham, there is a way around. For the accommodating ham expert was willing to give the readers of the women's home economics page of The Washington Post his recipe. Here it is, in his explicit manner:

"Soak the ham for 24 hours in fresh water. Wash the ham in the same water after soaking. Soak again for 24 hours in sweet cider, then boil until tender in the same cider in which it is soaked. Chill thoroughly. Remove from cider and cut skin away carefully. Push whole cloves plentifully into the ham's surface. Cover with black molasses, replace skin, bake a half hour, then remove the skin."

The carving of ham should never begin at the ends, the expert pointed out. Always slice through the center. If wrapped in cloth to preserve moisture, the ham should keep for six months.

Cocoanut Crispies.

3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ pound shredded cocoanut

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter; stir in sugar gradually, then beaten eggs and vanilla. Mix thoroughly; stir in cocoanut and sifted dry ingredients. Press dough into butter carton open at one end or shape it into rolls about 2 inches in diameter. Chill for at least three hours. Cut into ¼-inch slices with a sharp knife. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 to 400 degrees F.) for ten to twelve minutes.

"Surprise" Dressing.

3 cups stale bread crumbs
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon onion juice
½ teaspoon dried parsley
Water, stock, or cream to moisten.

Cut the bread into half-inch cubes and toast in the oven until a light brown. This toasting prevents the heavy sogginess which so often is evident in ordinary dressing. Mix the melted butter, seasonings, and stock very lightly. Sometimes other poultry seasonings, thyme, marjoram or savory may be added, but never in greater quantities than a housewifely pinch.

Rail Race Saves Carolina Infant

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Railroad speed and medical skill today saved the life of Joe Edd Baker, 20-months-old Asheville, N. C., baby. Rushed here by train, an emergency bronchoscopic operation was performed on the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baker, to remove a pecan nut kernel from his lung. The operation required but a single minute, and was performed by Dr. Waltman F. Zinn.

Mrs. Baker, with the child, arrived shortly before daylight, accompanied by Dr. John A. Winstead, of Asheville, whose ministrations saved the baby's life en route, as the kernel entered the lung from the esophagus where it lodged yesterday.

At Richmond, on the northbound trip, the child could hardly breathe as the nut worked into the lung entrance, and from Richmond to Fredericksburg he was in convulsions. At Washington the child's condition improved, but he remained in danger until the operation was performed.

Woman Riding in Cab Is Injured in Accident

A woman passenger in a taxicab was painfully injured yesterday when the machine figured in a collision with another car at Third and H streets northwest. Her condition is undetermined at Sibley Hospital.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Hasselen, 46, of 814 North Capitol street, was a passenger in the cab of Joseph P. Byrne, 45, of 2310 Ashmead place northwest. William J. Abdo, 25, of 1119 Abbey street northeast, was driver of the other car. Mrs. Hasselen suffered a fractured rib and cuts on her head.

U. S. Relief Wheat Reaches China.

Nankow, China, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A second consignment of American wheat for relief of Chinese flood sufferers arrived here today. The consignment totaled 4,000 tons. It is part of the 135,000 tons which is expected to have arrived by April.

Six Irak Bandits Executed.

Mahommeran, Irak, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Six bandits charged with killing two women and their chauffeur in a hold-up on the Ahwaz road were executed today and their bodies left hanging outside government house.

Leadbeater, treasurer, seventeenth consecutive term; Clarence Smith, secretary; Lester Myers, assistant secretary; Leo Moore, captain, fourth term; Henry Metzgar, first lieutenant; Lester McMenamin, second lieutenant; Luther Latham, commander of hose; Charles Robey, assistant commander of hose.

Weather Unseasonable in London.

London, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—This city is experiencing the warmest weather for December since 1848 and today the temperature was 60.5 degrees at noon, twenty degrees warmer than normal.

Houston Post-Dispatch Sold.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—J. E. Josey, insurance man and capitalist, obtained a controlling interest in the Houston Post-Dispatch today. Gov. Ross S. Sterling, who retires as publisher, approved the agreement of a trust estate to sell to Josey 6,800 shares of the total of 9,000 shares in the newspaper company.

Envoy Will Speak On Founders' Day

German Ambassador Will Talk at Washington and Lee Event.

Lexington, Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Herr Frederick Wilhelm von Prittwitz und Gaffron, German ambassador to the United States, has accepted an invitation to make the annual Founders' Day address at Washington and Lee Tuesday, January 19, it was announced here.

The ambassador was named as his country's representative to the United States in 1927. Prior to that time he served as ambassador in Rome. He is of noble Silesian birth, but accepted the republic immediately upon its formation, and has been a recognized leader on contemporary liberal thought in Germany.

The ambassador and Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee, first became acquainted when they received honorary degrees together from Columbia University. The ambassador at that time expressed interest in Washington and Lee, and promised to visit here whenever he found it possible.

CATHOLICS ARRANGE YORKTOWN SERVICE

Hoovers Invited; Diplomats to Attend Ceremonies at Georgetown U.

Representatives of four countries will participate in the ceremonies commemorative of the sesquicentenary of the victory of Yorktown, to be held in Dahlgren Chapel of Georgetown University, next Sunday, on which, 150 years ago, the people of the United States and France, by proclamation of their governments, offered universal thanks in the churches for the winning of American independence.

The guests of honor on the occasion will be the Ambassadors of France, Germany and Poland, as the official representatives of those three countries which contributed toward the final success of the American struggle.

The Rev. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, president of the university, also has extended an invitation to President and Mrs. Hoover, prominent government officials, clergy and members of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington.

The Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, will intone a Te Deum at the chapel exercises in the evening. A Te Deum was sung on the occasion in 1781 in all the Catholic Churches in France and this country.

Following the exercises in the chapel, the president and directors of Georgetown will receive the guests at a formal reception in honor of the French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel, the German Ambassador and Frau von Pittwitz and Ambassador Filiopowicz of Poland. The reception will be held in the president's suite at the college and in the adjoining "Hall of the Jesuit Cardinals."

1,500th Anniversary.

To commemorate the 1,500th anniversary of the Council of Ephesus a triduum in honor of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary will begin at Holy Rosary Church, Third and F streets northwest, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, and close Tuesday evening. The Very Rev. F. Cuthbert Dittmeier, will deliver the sermons.

Students' Mission Crusade.

Members of the Students' Mission Crusade units will hold their annual indoor religious celebration at St. Gabriel's Church at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Bishop McNamara will preside. The sermon will be by the Rev. William McClimont, who was a missionary in China for a number of years.

Closed Retreat.

The closed retreat arranged by the Franciscan Sisters of the Atonement for young girls, will be given at the Washington Retreat House from Friday evening, December 11, to Monday morning, December 14. It will be conducted by the Rev. Hezekias C. Greenwell, vice president of Woodstock College.

Dr. Fraser to Address Missionary Meeting

On Wednesday the Evening Missionary Society, of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will hold its December meeting. Mrs. William Rhoades, president of the Presbyterial society, will lead the devotions which will be in observance of the Christmas season. The society will have as its guest speaker, Dr. Melvin Fraser, a missionary who has recently returned from Cameroun, West Africa.

The Marjorie Webster Glee Club under the direction of Miss Webster will give a program and Miss Webster will also give several readings. At the close of this program a social hour will be observed.

Church of Ascension Society Plans Supper

The Rev. Frank A. Parsons, rector of the Church of the Ascension, will speak at a supper to be given by the Young People's Society of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Episcopal Church, tomorrow evening at 6:45.

His subject will be "What Part Should Prayer Play in the Life of a Christian?" The supper will be in the parish, Sixteenth and Newton streets.

Church to Honor Pioneer Members

Chevy Chase Baptists to Hold Eighth Anniversary Service.

The Chevy Chase Baptist Church will observe the eighth anniversary of its organization at the service at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Two groups of its members will be accorded special honor, namely, the charter members and those who united with the church previous to the erection of the present building, who will be known as "pioneer" members. One member from each group will have a part in the service. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed, and new members welcomed into the church fellowship. The pastor, the Rev. Edward O. Clark, will speak briefly on the theme, "A Charter for the Church."

The church was started by the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches and was formally organized December 6, 1923. A steady growth in organization and membership has characterized the church during the past eight years. Begun as a mission church, it is now self-sustaining, and has a growing Sunday school, a well-organized woman's work and young people's societies.

Dr. Sizoo Will Speak On John Huss, Martyr

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will begin a new series of lecture-sermons tomorrow night on Europe, when he will speak on "John Huss, the Martyr of the Reformation."

Christian Science Churches

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Deuteronomy vi:4, 5: "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord, and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Look unto Me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else" (Isaiah, xli:22).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "All that really exists is the divine Mind and its idea, and in this Mind the entire being is found harmonious and eternal. The straight and narrow way is to see and acknowledge this fact, yield to this power and follow the leadings of truth (page 151).

Dr. W. L. Darby to Preach.

Dr. William L. Darby, secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will preach at Kenilworth Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning.

CHURCH IS SEEKING OLDEST BIBLE HERE

Petworth Methodists Plan Celebration Tomorrow to Honor The Book.

Tomorrow is Bible Sunday in the Protestant churches of the land, so designated as to give emphasis to the work that is being done by the American Bible Society, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in this country. In a number of Washington churches the entire service will be devoted to this cause, and the members of the congregations will hear the old, old story of how we got our Bible.

Preparatory to this particular festival or anniversary service, a number of the ministers have been giving a series of midweek lectures on the Bible, its history, its authenticity, and its authority; and maybe on some other phases of the old book.

The Federal Council of Churches has issued a statement relative to the general observance of Universal Bible Sunday. The Federal Council's statement, which is entitled "The Bible and the World's Need," regards the present state of the world as "a summons calling us back to the Bible to learn its message and forward with the Bible to make its message regnant in human life." Attention is called to the vital bearing of the teaching of the Bible upon not only the personal, but also the economic and international, problems which are being faced today.

Honored at Petworth.

So far as the church editor knows, only one Washington church, the Petworth Methodist, is attempting to do anything out of the ordinary in its celebration. The pastor, the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, wants to secure the oldest Bible in Washington as a feature of the service. As this Bible is now the proud possession of the Library of Congress, cost some million dollars more or less, and is guarded every minute of the day and night by a uniformed and heavily armed cop, Dr. Herbert Putnam, the librarian, might say to the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, "Try and get it."

Of course, Mr. Wood is not after the Vollbehr Bible, but he does want to see a Bible that is 300 or 400 years old or older. I understand that Georgetown University has an old Vulgate Bible printed in black letter and hand illuminated by some pious monk of the Middle Ages. There may be other Bibles here that are nearly as old as this one, and it is probable that one of these Bibles will find its way to the pulpit of Petworth Church.

I once knew a minister—in fact, I lived with him from the moment of my birth until the moment he was translated to heaven—who made it a habit to give each one of his children a Bible and every bride that he married also a copy of Holy Scripture. Once I paid him a visit after I was grown and had flown the family nest with all my brothers, and there on his library table in a neat stack reposed the four Bibles he had given his four unregenerate sons. Of course, they later got those Bibles, which is another story.

Becomes Religious Worker.

One of the bride Bibles changed a young woman from the life of a social butterfly to that of a very pious religious worker, and out of that experience grew two of the largest Bible classes in America, one taught by herself and one by her brother, and both meeting in a building the two classes erected at a cost of $250,000 to house their activities alone.

Of course, the dear old Book of our mothers is the most powerful force in the world.

Mr. Wood has called on his people to bring the oldest Bible, the Bible that has the most historical associations, the Bible with the most intimate personal story, and the mother's Bible. He would also like to get one of the ancient "chained Bibles," but he says nothing about the old English Bible, of which I have seen several, that had locks on them.

Old family Bibles and old tombstones are the sources of most of our genealogical information, and many a D. A. R. has gotten into that heaven through an old colonial Bible.

There are many other things to be said of the Bible, but I leave them to the preachers.—D. R. B.

Rev. Niles Will Preach Sermon for Children

Communion will be celebrated at the Georgetown Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning, at which time new members will also be received. As usual there will be a story sermon for children, and a communion meditation by the pastor, the Rev. Frank S. Niles.

On Thursday evening Mr. Niles will give an address on the Epistle of St. John.

Young People's Forum To Hear Dr. Richmond

Talking about "Medicine as a Profession," Dr. Paul Richmond will be the speaker at the second of a series of round table discussions on vocational guidance at the meeting of the Young People's Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow evening.

Members of the Mount Pleasant Young People's Discussion Group will hear the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy and Mrs. E. Irving Fulton present different phases of "Christian Education and Christian Ritual" tomorrow evening.

Dr. Taylor Will Preach At Central Presbyterian

Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church has returned to the city, and will preach at the morning service on Sunday, at which time the Communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Owing to the fact that the interior of the church is being redecorated, the services on Sunday will be held in the lecture room, underneath the church auditorium.

The Rev. G. Wilbur Shipley, of Herndon, Va., will preach at the evening service.

Review at Healing Mission.

At the services of the Christian Healing Mission held in St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, Tuesday morning at 10:30, the librarian will review "The Varieties of Religious Experience," by William James.

Four Attend Church Conference.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, Dr. William L. Darby, Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin and Mrs. William L. Darby attended the meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches in Philadelphia this week.

LEADERS WILL GIVE ADULT FORUM TALKS

Program of Wide Variety Is Announced for Next Two Months.

Ranging in scope from "The Evolution of the Hymn" to "National Land Utilization Policies," the December and January program of the Adult Forum, of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, has been announced. It includes discussions of the people and economic conditions in foreign countries, the meaning of the inscriptions on the Egyptian pyramids, the relation of social science to moral progress, and other varied subjects.

The forum was organized last year for informal discussion of subjects of vital, current interest, meeting each Sunday at 10 a. m., and has gradually developed its program, opening its sessions to the public. So much interest has been created in the addresses and discussions that nearly 200 people attend every Sunday, many of whom are not members of the congregation of the Mount Pleasant church.

Norton M. Little, chorister of the church, will open the December program tomorrow morning with an address on "The Evolution of the Hymn," and next Sunday Dr. Arthur Deerin Call, secretary of the American Peace Society and the Interparliamentary Union, will speak on "Roumania."

There will be no session December 20, but on the last Sunday of the year "Machinery and Unemployment" will be discussed by E. V. Wilcox, a staff writer for the Country Gentleman. L. A. Halbert, head of the State labor department of Rhode Island, and connected with the management of corrective institutions of the State, will address the forum on "The Effect of the Social Sciences on Moral Progress" on January 3, to be followed on the succeeding Sunday by Capt. Guy M. Kinman, of the United States Army, who will describe "Unusual American Places of Worship."

Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economist with the Federal Farm Board, who spoke last month on "An Economist's Impressions of Russia," but was not able to complete his address, will continue his remarks on the same subject January 17, and one week later, Dr. George S. Duncan, professor of Egyptology and Assyriology at American University, will describe "The Egyptian Pyramids and Their Inscriptions."

The January program will be concluded on the 31st with an address by Dr. L. C. Gray, of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, an expert for many years on the practical use of Federal land, on "National Land Utilization Policies."

Jeffords to Talk At Asbury Church

"When, Where and How Did St. Paul Die" will be the subject of an address by Tracy L. Jeffords before the Men's Bible Class of Francis Asbury Methodist Church South, Sixteenth street near Lamont street, at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Jeffords will bring considerable research to bear upon this question, which has perplexed scholars through the centuries.

The Munsey Male Chorus will sing. The annual social meeting of the adult bible classes will be held Friday at 8:30 o'clock, in the church social hall. The classes will have as honor guests Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rives and the presiding elder, Dr. H. G. Wells and Mrs. Wells.

Cathedral Choir Plans Special Carol Service

The music at the 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. services in Bethlehem Chapel tomorrow will be furnished by the Cathedral Choir of men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster.

The choir is busily rehearsing for the special carol service on December 27, the Sunday after Christmas, when a program of carols will be sung in the place of the regular evensong service. Every year the Christmas carol service at the Cathedral attracts widespread interest not only resulting in a large congregation at the chapel itself but thousands listening in over the radio.

The spirit of revival continues at the Full Gospel Tabernacle under the preaching of the pastor, the Rev. Harry L. Collier. The altar services, it is stated, continue to overflow and new recruits are being added at almost every service. The evangelistic services, being held in the evening, are proving popular with the public.

A children's church is conducted in the morning in the Sunday school auditorium, while the main service is being held in the church.

Special Music Arranged At St. Stephen Church

The vested choir of the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, under the direction of H. Norman Taylor, organist, will give a special program tomorrow morning, to include the anthem, "Far From My Heavenly Home" by Berthold Tours.

At the evening service the choir will sing, "Magnificat Nunc Dimittis" by Baptiste Calkin, and the anthem, "Saviour, Thy Children Keep."

Rev. George E. Schnabel To Continue Talk Series

The Rev. George E. Schnabel will give the fifth lecture in the series of travel discourses at Albright Evangelical Church tomorrow evening.

The subject will be: "Jerusalem, the Holy City of Three Religions." It will be illustrated.

Elected by Concordia Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Concordia Church elected the following new officers in the annual meeting of the society: Mrs. Adolph Volkmann, president; Mrs. Fred Schneider, vice president; Mrs. Chas. Rohland, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Sebastian, financial secretary; Mrs. George Becker, treasurer.

Girls to Hold Vesper Service.

The Columbian Girls of the District of Columbia will hold vesper service at Grace Baptist Church, Ninth street and South Carolina avenue southeast, tomorrow at 4 p. m. The speaker will be Mrs. F. W. Johnson.

Radio Talk Slated By Visiting Priest

Cleric Preaching Novena at Immaculate Conception Church to Go on Air.

The Rev. Matthew Helmig, of the Fathers of the Precious Blood, and pastor of St. Joseph Church, Egypt, Ohio, who is preaching the Mission Novena at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, will be guest preacher on the Washington Catholic radio hour tomorrow. Father Helmig's subject is "Mother of Mercy." This 5 o'clock broadcast service from the church will be the only service Sunday evening.

The mission will close Tuesday, Feast of the Immaculate Conception, with special ceremonies at the 7:45 p. m. service. At the 5 o'clock service Sunday Father Hurney will preside and will be assisted at the blessing of the sick and the solemn Lourdes procession by the Rev. J. Kelly Reese and the Rev. Stanley Czyz.

Miss Florence Yocum will be vocal soloist, assisted by the Immaculate Conception Choir under direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard. The Boys Sanctuary Choir will render hymns.

Brahmanism Topic Of Phillips Lecture

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, will give the second lecture-sermon on Sunday evening on "Brahmanism." The special theme will be "The Theology of the Vedas and The Laws of Manu." The consideration of this phase of the subject will deal directly with the idea of God as contained in the sacred literature of India, and will be followed next week by a comparison of Brahmanism with Christianity, especially in regard to the conception of God.

These Sunday evening services are designed especially for those desiring to have an historical background of the great religions of the world.

Women's Groups Elect At Mt. Pleasant Church

Two of the women's organizations of Mt. Pleasant Congregational Church have elected officers for 1932. The League of Service has chosen Miss Jessie LaSalle, assistant superintendent of schools, president; Miss Jessie Eltinge, vice president; Miss Arlene Weeks, recording secretary; Miss Alice Woodward, corresponding secretary, and Miss Mary Cartner, treasurer.

The Women's Guild has elected Mrs. George R. Mansfield, president; Mrs. E. E. Carter, first vice president; Mrs. Charles S. Wilson, second vice president; Mrs. Charles S. Howard, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gerald Brooks, recording secretary, and Mrs. William P. Ellenberger, treasurer.

Dr. Snyder to Preach On "What Is Christ?"

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will answer before his congregation tomorrow the question: "What Is Christ?" This is the first of a series of three sermons on Christ's well-known saying: "I am the way, the truth and the life." The other two sermons will follow on succeeding Sundays.

Preceding the regular sermon, Dr. Snyder holds a children's church, at which he preaches a sort sermon to the children. The little folk are asked to write papers on the junior sermons and many of them do so. Tomorrow the first awards will be made for excellence in these papers.

Fifth Baptist Church Visitation Tomorrow

Tomorrow is Visitation Day at the Fifth Baptist Church. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock 100 visitors will meet at the church, and going out in pairs will visit every member of the large congregation of 1,200 members.

They will return to the church at 6:45 for refreshments and a social hour at which time the Rev. Frank A. Clarke, of Kentucky, will speak to them.

Memory of Christmas Topic of Rev. Dr. Bird

Dr. Andrew Reid Bird, minister of the Church of the Pilgrims, is fitting his December program of evening sermons into the yuletide spirit, beginning tomorrow evening, at 7:45 o'clock, he will preach four sermons on the general theme of "The Meaning of Christmas to Matthew, Mark, Luke and John." The special theme for tomorrow night is: "The Christmas Message That Went to Matthew's Heart."

Dr. Shelton to Preach To Youths of Church

In accordance with a custom recently established at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, the evening service of the first Sunday in each month is dedicated especially to the young people. Dr. William A. Shelton, the pastor, has prepared a sermon for his young folks, and the service will be made attractive otherwise.

CHURCHES TO GIVE RELIGIOUS DRAMA

National City Christian to Be Scene of Yuletide Play Tomorrow.

The committee on religious drama and pageantry of the Washington Federation of Churches, will present an innovation in "church drama and music" tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock when, at the National City Christian Church, Laurence Housman's Yuletide play, "Bethlehem," will be offered as a vesper service, the roles in the play to be read by players representing the various denominations.

"Bethlehem," although entirely modern in treatment, is based by its author upon the mystery plays of the Middle Ages, and will be read in a definitely "stylized" ecclesiastical form. The characters are Mary, the Mother of Christ, and Joseph; the Three Wise Men of the East, the shepherds, and the Angel Gabriel. A narrator explains the action of the story, and the chorus, apostrophizing the theme, reads the prologue and epilogue of the play.

A minstrel harper plays the interlude music, and an unaccompanied song the "Kings and Shepherds," is a feature of the presentation.

The readers are Mrs. Elizabeth G. Pritchard, Mrs. Aileen Sanford, Miss Caroline McKinley, Maurice Jarvis, Thomas Cahill, the Rev. H. A. Kester, the Rev. Elmore Turner, Howard Weirum, jr., Harry Schonrank, Tench T. Marye, Ernest Ropes, Herman Riess, Stanley Mattern and Richard Rush. Miss Katherine Riggs will appear as the minstrel harper in the presentation.

Members of the cast of readers represent a number of churches, including Epiphany Episcopal, St. Paul's Lutheran, Church of the Covenant, All Souls' Episcopal, Luther Place Memorial, Chevy Chase Presbyterian, National City Christian, Takoma Park Christian, Georgetown Methodist Protestant, and Christ Church, as well as the Washington Readers Club, the Shakespeare Society, and George Washington University.

JOBLESS FRUIT SALE PROFITS ARE SCORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4. — A petition signed by fifteen wholesale fruit merchants has been sent to Mayor Mackey asking for an accounting of the mayor's apple sales committee for unemployment, of which Col. Charles M. Keegan is chairman.

The fruit dealers say that the margin between the cost of the apples ($1.30 to $1.75 a box) and the price ($2.30 to $2.60 a box) which the street venders pay for them is excessive.

The petitioners assert that "based on last year's turnover of apples of 128,000 boxes, an average charge of 80 cents above cost price would mean $102,400."

Col. Keegan replied, "The assertion of a profit of 80 cents a box is a damn lie."

He said the committee selected by the mayor to cooperate with him has never aided him in any way and that they forced the price up on him by bidding against him at the apple auctions.

"I will send for the petitioners and hold a public hearing next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at which time they will have full opportunity to lay their facts before me," said Mayor Mackey this afternoon after receiving the petition.

"I know nothing about it" he continued. "Col. Keegan will have to explain. So far as I am aware, Col. Keegan and the committee have cooperated with marked success.

"Of course, my administration has only four more weeks to run, and recently I have been careful to refrain from taking a position of any importance that would in any way trespass on the prerogatives of Mayor Moore."

Dr. Stockdale to Preach About Prince Charming

The increasing crowds on Sunday evening at the First Congregational Church speaks of the public interest which is being taken in the human subjects which the minister, Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, is discussing. Tomorrow evening Dr. Stockdale presents another of these subjects, one that will be of interest to both young men and young women. His subject will be "Does Prince Charming Degenerate?"

Are young men as romantically attractive to young women as they were in the past, or are they interested only as financial supporters? Is courting companionship a romance leading to happiness or a foolishness leading to trouble and divorce? What do young women think of the young men of this age? Can sentiment and idealistic romance go out of life and humans still be happy?

Lincoln Congregational Will Hear Dr. Wesley

At the services of Lincoln Congregational Temple tomorrow morning, Dr. Charles H. Wesley, head of the history department at Howard University, master's degree from Yale University, and Ph. D. degree from Harvard, will speak.

His subject will be: "Religion in a Machine Age." Dr. Wesley is a writer of note, and a speaker of unusual ability. There will be special music by the choral choir.

SANTA CLAUS LANE OFFICIALLY OPENED

Upper Fourteenth Street, Gaily Lighted, Scene of Parade.

Santa Claus reigned supreme last night on Fourteenth street as the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association officially opened Santa Claus Lane with a burst of multicolored lights and a parade several blocks long, which wended its way from Shepard to Fairmont street.

The opening was to have been held last week, but on the appointed day a cold rain and wet streets brought a postponement until last night.

The Christmas shopping season along the lane was officially opened as Maj. Donald A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissoner, pressed the button which made upper Fourteenth street blaze with light. The association was aided in its celebration by District officials, fraternal organizations, Boy and Girl Scouts and officials of the Police Department.

Approximately 10,000 persons lined the streets to watch the parade, with Santa Claus himself, perched on a float of the association as one of the most prominent features.

The "Sky Voice of Santa Claus Lane," amplifiers on top of the Riggs-Tompkins Building, with S. K. McDonald and H. G. Phillips as announcers, was master of ceremonies for the parade.

New Divorce Law Is Read in Madrid

Proposed Act Gives State Control Over Marriage Instead of Church.

Madrid, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The proposed divorce law, making effective the constitutional provision which gives the state, instead of the church, control over marriages, was read to the National Assembly tonight by Dr. Fernando De Los Rios, minister of justice.

The measure, which sets forth in detail the legal grounds on which divorce action may be instituted, would apply in both civil and religious marriages. Under its terms men and women would be equal before the divorce courts.

Misconduct and bigamy are among the causes recognized. Men would be liable to divorce action for culpable desertion lasting a year and for nonsupport.

MINING CONGRESS SUPPORTS SILVER

Employment of Metal as Money Wherever Needed Is Urged.

Support for "accessible and practical methods" for stabilization of silver "so as to permit its employment wherever needed as money and as a monetary base" was pledged by the American Mining Congress in convention at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday.

The organization further urged that silver-using nations be enabled to participate under equitable conditions to "trade with people that employ gold for such purposes."

S. L. Mather, of Cleveland, was elected president of the congress at a session following the annual dinner of the board of directors last night. Other officers elected were A. E. Bendelari, of Cincinnati, first vice president; J. E. Warriner, of Lansford, Pa., second vice president; E. D. Moffatt, of Salt Lake City, Utah, third vice president, and A. F. Callbreath, of Washington, secretary.

Opposition to bimetallism or fixed ratios of gold and silver in solution of the silver situation was expressed by Senator Tasker L. Oddie, of Nevada, chairman of the Senate mines and mining committee. He favored restoration of silver to its prewar basis of "a sound and safe policy" and invited suggestions of the industry for solution of the problem. Senator Oddie urged a substantial increase in prices for silver, copper, lead and zinc as possible solution of the problem of reviving industry and trade.

Urge Expense Cut.

Modification of existing antitrust laws was urged by various members of the organization, speaking from the floor.

Curtailment of governmental expenses as a means of relieving the tax burden was urged at a meeting of the tax division of the congress, at which the question of increasing local, Federal and State expenses received considerable attention. Dr. T. T. Read, professor of mining at Columbia University, New York, recommended that an impartial study of the mine tax question be carried on through college fellowships.

Director Scott Turner of the Bureau of Mines gave a review of recent activities of the bureau in behalf of the industry. David Burnet, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, spoke on the revenue situation.

J. F. Callbreath, secretary of the congress, reviewed the history, purposes and accomplishments of the organization since its establishment in 1898.

Program Outlined.

S. Livingston Mather, of Cleveland, president of the congress, outlined a program of activities for the coming year, in which he mentioned stabilization of mineral products, taxation, tariff and development of new markets; modern mining methods, industrial relations, educational research, government, world affairs in silver, cooperation between Government and industry, and coordination of association activities.

Discussing litigation involving questions of revenue, Commissioner Burnet declared that "there has been less of it, if anything, attributable to the mining industry than to other industries."

Congress Heights Body Has Big Family Dinner

The Esther Memorial Episcopal Church of Congress Heights has concluded a preholiday week of busy activity during which the pastor, the Rev. H. Waldo Manley, presented a class of 20 to the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, for confirmation. Following the ceremony, which took place last Friday, the bishop preached the sermon. Last Sunday the class began their church year by making their first corporate communion.

Thursday evening 150 people attended a family dinner held in the parish hall for the parishioners and Episcopalians residing in the vicinity. The main address was delivered by Busey H. Howard, ex-president of the Layman's Association, who spoke on the motives of the every-member canvass campaign.

Ninth Street Christian To Hear New Pastor

Ninth Street Christian Church has a new pastor. Some weeks ago the Rev. Clifford H. Jope, of Richmond, Ind., accepted a call to this pastorate, and tomorrow morning he will assume his duties.

On Friday evening Pastor Jope and his wife will be formally welcomed by the congregation, at which reception the pastor ad interim, Dr. Lowell C. McPherson, will also be a guest.

Rev. Wooding to Preach On His Favorite Text

Every year for 21 years of his ministry, the Rev. Henry B. Wooding, minister of Eckington Presbyterian Church, has preached one sermon on his favorite text: "The Potter and the Clay." Year by year he has fashioned this discourse with all the love and enthusiasm that a sincere and devoted man will give to such a subject.

His congregation will have the pleasure of hearing this sermon in its latest version tomorrow morning.

Mother Goose Entertainment.

A Mother Goose entertainment will be given by the children of the primary department of the church school in Union Methodist Episcopal Church, Twentieth street, near Pennsylvania avenue, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Mae Smith, deaconess of the church, is directing the performance.

Galilean Accent to Be Studied.

The St. Stephen's Prayer Circle, meeting Monday at 8 p. m. in the Chapel of the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, will begin the study of "The Galilean Accent" by Prof. Gossip.

Vaughn Class to Hear Pollock.

Channing Pollock, nationally known playwright, will address the Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church tomorrow on the subject of "Happiness."

Epiphany Pageant Planned.

Plans are being made for an Epiphany pageant to be presented at St. Margaret's Parish House under the auspices of the St. Cecelia Club. Percy Van Ness is directing the pageant.

WORLD PROTESTANT CONCLAVE PLANNED

Federal Council Committee Hears of Great Project Set for 1935.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Sounding again its keynote of international peace and cooperation, the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches in its closing session today outlined plans for a world Protestant conference in 1935.

Plans for the proposed world conference were announced by Prof. William Adams Brown, of Union Theological Seminary, of New York, who said the gathering would probably be held in London. It is intended, he said, as a sequel to the Stockholm conference of 1925 and will be designed to form a permanent international protestant organization for cooperation in the field of social and world problems.

During the three-day sessions, attended by 200 leading clergymen from 26 Protestant communions, the committee put itself on record on a number of highly controversial subjects.

Entry of the United States to the World Court prior to the forthcoming disarmament conference, for the possible favorable effect on that event, was urged in a statement which also called for abolition of chemical warfare, actual reduction of armaments and military budgets and all-round reduction or cancellation of war debts.

An important report compiled jointly by representatives of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions in the United States was the subject of a private debate at the closing session. The text of the document was not made public, pending concerted issuance by the three groups involved.

Commenting on the birth-control report of a subcommittee of the council, publication of which precipitated a heated debate in yesterday's sessions, Bishop James M. Cannon, said today, there was much room for criticism of such publication. He was a member of the subcommittee which prepared the report but did not sign either the majority or minority opinion expressed.

"I agree with Bishop Francis J. McConnell that the Church has need of 'prophetic utterances,'" Bishop Cannon said, "but I do not think we have the right to prophesy for other people."

Booker T. Washington's Secretary Will Speak

Dr. Emmett J. Scott, who was private secretary to the late Booker T. Washington, will address the Presbyterian Ministers Association of this city, and all other ministers who may wish to attend, at the association's regular meeting Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

His subject will be: "Booker T. Washington."

Legislator to Address Methodists.

Jed Johnson, member of Congress from Oklahoma, will address the Harrison Bible Class of Congress Street Methodist Church tomorrow morning. His subject will be "Unto the Ends of the Earth." C. C. Brown will teach the class.

Jones' Colleague Hits "5-10" Law

Seattle Representative Will Seek Repeal of Dry Enforcement Act.

(Associated Press.)

A Republican representative from Seattle—home town of Senator Wesley Jones, Washington Republican, who sponsored the 5 and 10 prohibition law—yesterday proposed its repeal.

Ralph Horr, a new member from the West Coast, announced he had filed a repeal bill with the House clerk.

"In moving to repeal the Jones 5 and 10 law," Horr said, "I have two main purposes in mind. The first is against the law itself * * * My second motive is to dissociate our State of Washington from fanatical legislation.

"I can not feel that the author of the Jones 5 and 10 law conceived and fostered this law of his own accord. I rather believe he is a sacrifice offered by the Antisaloon League to their god of bigotry."

Warships' Weights Cut To Allow More Vessels

(Associated Press.)

With Navy tonnage circumscribed by treaties, effort to reduce the weight of war vessels for more ships are given a prominent place in the annual report of Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the Navy's bureau of engineering.

Items which are expected to take off thousands of pounds include a submarine engine now being designed; a new type boiler and welded boiler drums for light cruisers, improved pumps for vessels under construction and lighter heat insulating materials.

President Johnson To Preach at Howard

Kentucky Honors Capital Attorney

William B. Douglass Made Colonel on Staff of Gov. Sampson.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—W. Jule Day, of New York, joined Gov. Sampson's navy today with the rank of admiral of Pamlico Sound. The commission signed by Gov. Sampson did not state the reason for honoring Day.

The governor's navy now has sixteen admirals, one rear admiral, three commodores and one colonel of marines. His most prominent admiral is Richard E. Byrd, of South Pole fame, who rules over the Mississippi River.

Additions to Gov. Sampson's Army today, with rank of colonel, included William Boone Douglas, Washington; Max Martz, Bluefield, W. Va., and Sol Lesser, Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Douglass is a lawyer and lives at 4500 Lowell street northwest.

RELIEF GIVEN BANKS BY NATIONAL CREDIT

Hoover's $500,000,000 Pool Reports Prompt Action in Restoring Confidence.

New York, Dec. 4 (U.P.).—Substantial progress in the National Credit Corporation's plan for helping banks having illiquid or "frozen" assets was reported today by directors of the organization at their second monthly meeting.

The National Credit Corporation was formed early in October, at the suggestion of President Hoover, and was designed to make available a revolving pool of approximately $500,000,000 to assist banks and in turn to restore public confidence, badly shaken by the long epidemic of bank suspensions over the early part of the year.

No "worthy bank" has been refused support by the corporation since the big bank pool was organized, Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the corporation, said tonight.

First Formal Statement.

In an interview, amplifying his first formal statement on the work of the credit corporation, Mr. Buckner said that when the pool was first formed "there were many sore spots throughout the country."

"But the moment the news was received that National Credits had been organized," Mr. Buckner said, "bankers who had been howling for support said they could handle their situations locally.

"That has been the psychological effect of National Credits." Following, in part, is the statement issued at the conclusion of the directors' meeting:

"The organization is operating so effectively that loans are being accepted and funds remitted to the loan applications as received.

Loans in Few Lines.

"In some instances loans have been arranged and funds placed at the disposal of borrowing banks within four or five hours, transfer of funds being made by wire through the Federal Reserve system. This is partly due to the fact that the documents and papers relating to loans have been standardized and the entire transaction has been handled by the loan committee of the local associations in such an efficient way that prompt action by the home office has been greatly facilitated. The whole machinery has been so organized that any situation requiring the credit facilities of the corporation can be promptly and effectively met.

"Through the cooperation of large banks n New York City, the National Credit Corporation has been able to borrow locally sufficient funds to cover all loans applied for thus far without the necessity of issuing a call for payment by member banks of any part of their subscription to the corporation's gold notes

"The directors desire to emphasize, however, that although the necessity has not yet arisen for issuing a call on account of subscriptions, ample funds are and have been available to meet the requirements of the credit plan.

"The board decided unanimously to restate its already adopted policy of not giving any publicity to the amount of loans made to associations of subscribing banks, the districts concerned or the names of the borrowing banks themselves, this being the opinion of the board that the relationship between the National Credit Corporation and the local associations and individual banks is essentially a confidential one."

HOOVER TO PROPOSE HUGE FINANCE UNIT

after its revival in 1921, over President Wilson's veto. Upon its inception in 1918, primarily as an aid to war-time industry, the corporation was advanced $500,000,000 by the Government, with authority to issue bonds up to $3,000,000,000.

Although directed to keep its loans principally to banks and trust companies, it was given permission to lend up to 12½ per cent of its capital stock and bonds outstanding directly to individual corporations.

In such instances, however, a collateral of 125 per cent was required. Throughout the war and immediate postwar period it loaned hundreds of millions to banks and industry.

The corporation's 1921 revival was put through primarily as an aid to agriculture and to exporters. President Wilson objected strongly. He contended it could not lend directly to producers and that its effect would be to direct the financing of exporters away from regular commercial channels and into the Government.

The beginning of another period of inflation early next year was predicted yesterday by Virgil Jordan, New York economist.

Before the Senate manufactures subcommittee, Mr. Jordan said the next boom era would be difficult to control and would swing under way quickly.

"At this moment," he said, "materials are at hand for large scale, almost unprecedented inflationary expansion, with nothing to stop it." He cited:

1. The position of the banking system, with an enormous supply of gold.

2. Large volume of hoarded currency, which he estimated at $1,500,000,000.

3. Low borrowings of banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System.

"We'll have more booms on the grand scale of the last one," he said.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE play—at a cost which will insure a profit—is the thing.

Such, in effect, was the conclusion of the quarterly meeting of the directors of the Association of Motion Picture Producers as they disbanded in Hollywood on Wednesday, ending a series of informal conferences which have held the attention of the film capital the past week.

The upshot of the discussions, according to the official statement at the close was that "The welfare of the motion picture industry lies in creating the highest possible quality of product at a cost which will insure a profit."

Good pictures economically produced, it was stated, succeed even in the face of depressed business conditions—and to make more of that type, produced with similar economy, will be the aim of the studios.

Salary slashes and other procedures for economy were not discussed, it was stated, these being "matters for the various studios to determine individually, in accordance with their respective production plans and business policies."

At least one producing company already has taken the matter of economical film production seriously, although it may seem to have taken the long way 'round to its ultimate purpose—and now we are getting back to that visit from Roger Ferri, of the Fox organization, a few nights ago.

The Fox company has adopted a seemingly tedious, but conspicuously efficient plan in determining what shall be filmed and in what manner.

When new plays open in New York and new books are published—and this is a well-nigh continuous process—the Fox people delegate a regularly appointed committee to determine which shall be converted into screen entertainment.

The membership of this committee is not made up of office employes or "yes" men. It is composed of a cross-section of American life, as nearly as such a thing can be approximated by a producing company—maybe a clerk from Macy's, a college student, a mother from the Bronx and a teacher from grammar school. These representatives of an "average audience" are paid $25 each for expressing their views as to the adaptability to the screen of the works of the stage producers and the book publishers. On their consensus of opinion is the purchase made, or not made, as the case may be.

The subjects selected as likely screen material then are turned over to five continuity writers for as many treatments. From the results of this diversity of view an acceptable story treatment is chosen—it may be a composite of the work of all five.

This continuity, then, is turned over to an equal number of dialogue writers. Five dialogue treatments are turned in. The best, or another composite, is selected and the scenes are shot in sound, but not in action. When the wordage has been thoroughly gone over, with authors, adapters and director sitting in, to make corrections and revisions as they may see fit, the business of filming the action scenes is approached.

With the play thoroughly rehearsed, the sound projected and checked, the director has little left to do but synchronize the action with the spoken scenes. An average of from 21 to 28 days is allowed for this final process.

The result has been that Fox pictures, when they reach the point of action photography, are fool proof and revision proof, as well. Shooting time has been greatly reduced and proportionate savings have been effected all along the line. The result is that Fox shows a minimum of wastage in production costs.

Still more important is the fact that the studios have thus been enabled to run far ahead of production schedules, with the result that, to all intents and purposes, this year's schedule is completed. To be explicit, 37 of the 48 productions scheduled for production on the Fox lot are finished and ready to be released. The remaining 11 are ready to go into work.

All Winfield Sheehan, in charge of production for Fox, has to worry about now is what his company will do in 1932-3.

Pretty soft! That is, unless you take into consideration all the hard work that was necessary to bring this system to a point where its practical operation was possible.

The Skinner clan will comprehensively dominate the National Theater the week of December 13. On Sunday and Monday evenings, December 13 and 14, Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner will star in a diversion of her own authorship, bearing the title of "The Wives of Henry VIII."

On Tuesday night, December 15, as every one knows and is breathlessly awaiting, Otis Skinner will share stellar honors on the same stage with Maude Adams in Shakespeare's comedy of "The Merchant of Venice." Miss Adams, returning to the stage after an absence of thirteen years, appears as Portia for the first time, whereas Mr. Skinner appears again as Shylock, a role he first played, I believe, to Modjeska's Portia.

It must be quite a convenience to have a talented daughter who can be sent ahead to hold the theater until you can get there!

Just as an example of why dramatic editors play no part in compiling the longevity lists, the phone rang last evening and an unknown voice inquired as to this department's opinion of who might be the foremost star playing currently on Broadway. In our innocent and guileless way we hazarded the questionable guess that Katharine Cornell—or does she spell it with a "C"—was entitled to the honor, not, however, forgetting to mention that Lynn Fontanne, Francine Larrimore and others of note are contemporaneously diverting the Times Squarites.

Come to find out, the convivial spirits who called up were merely endeavoring to determine, by means of a small wager, whether Ruth Etting or Kate Smith was the greatest artiste in the world!

Now I ask you!

While engaged in the major duty of reporting the new week's attraction at the RKO-Keith Theater yesterday—the results of which may possibly be found in other columns of today's issue of The Post—signs and portents relating to the resumption of vaudeville on Fifteenth street were not backward in coming forward—if you know what I mean.

Managing Director Hardie Meakin has applied a pretty nifty paint job to his orchestra pit and as I was coming away a load of spotlights were being untrucked out in the alley. This all has a direct bearing on the inauguration of the vaudeville policy with which the name of "Keith's" is indelibly linked, on Christmas Day.

The booking of the acts to appear at RKO-Keith's is to be no hit-and-miss job, mark you well. The RKO executives have checked back over a full two years to determine precisely what acts have played Washington, and none of them will be repeated. Furthermore, the budget allowed Mr. Meakin for the embellishment of his stage is said to exceed that of any theater operating in the Capital.

The bills positively will not be "unit shows," but the results of the most expert booking intelligence that can be obtained—the same, as a matter of fact, that books the RKO-Palace in New York.

So what?

LONG FALL BLAMED FOR LAGGING TRADE

Report of Reserve Board Describes November Business Trends.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A prolonged fall was blamed in part for the failure of October and the first half of November to show a considerable increase in nearly all lines of trade and industry—which is expected of these months—the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond said today.

After reporting that business for October and the first part of November "lagged" behind what is usually expected of this period, the review said:

"Three principal causes for the lag of business are widespread unemployment, low financial returns from agricultural operations and continued mild weather, the first and second conditions definitely lowering the purchasing power of the district and the third postponing the necessity for the purchase of fall clothing."

The report on business by the Richmond Bank was for the Fifth Federal Reserve District, comprising the States of North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and South Carolina and the District of Columbia.

In banking, the period witnessed an increase of rediscounts at the Richmond bank of larger than normal proportions, and the circulation of Federal Reserve notes also increased more than is customary, the report said.

Savings bank deposits in mutual savings banks increased moderately, but time deposits in regularly reporting banks declined materially, it continued. Debits to individual accounts figures for four weeks ended November 11 not only showed a seasonal decrease in comparison with figures for four weeks ended October 14, but were 19 per cent less than aggregate debits in the four weeks ended November 12, 1930. The seasonal decline in debits last month was larger than occurs in most years, the report declared.

"In comparison with the United States as a whole, the Fifth Reserve District made a good record in business failues in October, experiencing fewer failures and lower libabilities than in either September, 1931, or October, 1930, while the Nation reported 11.2 more insolvencies and 25.5 per cent larger liabilities last month than in October, 1930," the report said.

"There was no improvement in employment conditions in October and early November.

"The textile industry in the Fifth District increased consumption in cotton in October by 13.2 per cent in comparison with consumption in October, 1930, while the United States as a whole increased only 4.2 per cent."

Washington Seal Sale Is Under Investigation

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The proposed Nation-wide sale of stamp-seals to commemorate the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth was under investigation today by the National Better Business Bureau, Inc.

An organization which calls itself the George Washington Bicentennial Seal Stamp Association has opened headquarters on Fifth avenue in New York. The stamp sale plan, say Better Business Bureau officials, has no official connection with the body formed by Congress to direct the bicentennial celebration under the leadership of Representative Sol Bloom, of New York.

GANDHI, DOWNCAST, STARTS HOME TODAY

Remains Undecided as to Whether He Will Renew Civil Disobedience.

London, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi packed his shawls, loincloths and spinning wheels tonight and prepared to take the homeward trail to India with disappointment in his heart.

Convinced the second round-table conference failed to grant India her demands and undecided as to whether to renew his civil disobedience campaign against Great Britain, he leaves tomorrow to take counsel with the leaders of the Indian Nationalist Congress.

He will depart for Folkestone about 9 a. m. and there take a channel boat for France, intending to spend a short while in Paris. He will go on to Geneva for three or four days and will address an assembly of pacifists. He will sail from Brindisi, Italy, at the end of next week and will arrive in Bombay about December 28.

He planted a tree today in front of East Side Kingsley Hall, where he has stayed in a tiny cubicle for several months. As he shoveled the earth over the seeds and the crowd sang "Auld Lang Syne," he remarked:

"I hope the friendships I have made in England will grow as this tree."

Asked how he had survived the blustering English climate in his scant wearing apparel, he revealed that bicarbonate of soda was his remedy for preventing colds.

"God gave me a strong constitution and I rarely have any ills," the frail apostle said. "Besides I don't believe in doctors. Whenever I am troubled with a cold I take a pinch of bicarbonate of soda and a spoonful of common salt, mixed with lemon juice and water.

"This is the only medicine I ever take and I urge everybody to try it."

Tree's Seasons Mixed.

Bend, Oreg. (U.P.).—An apple tree here is mixed on its seasons. While other growths shiver in the dark of winter, the lone apple tree is in bloom for the second time.

Fliers Do Alphonse-Gaston Act 100 Feet Up and Live

Detroit, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Two Detroit airplane pilots, one a brother of Mayor Frank Murphy, today revealed a fantastic and nearly fatal experience in which they flew for fifteen minutes in an airplane hardly 100 feet above the ground, each believing the other was handling the controls.

The pilots George Murphy and Ralph Snoke, transport pilot, said they both felt "sort of sheepish" about the flight, which occurred two days ago, and did not reveal it until today.

The plane, a two-seater, with dual controls, took off from a small field near Harbor Beach, with Murphy piloting.

"It was a small field," Snoke said, "and George just missed a tree top in getting away. I guess I'm just a born back seat driver, for when I saw the tree ahead I reached over and gave my control stick a joggle. I couldn't help it. I suppose George thought I was signaling that I wanted to handle the ship.

"Anyway, the plane shot up in a steep climb, almost stalled, and fell off on one wing, just missing a tree top. Then it climbed, and went into another dive. This kept up for 15 minutes, and we kept getting less and less altitude in the climb. We were just nicking the tree tops. I thought George was showing off for his friends below.

"Finally I had plenty, so I wrote a note and handed it to George, saying 'quit showing off and land before you kill us both.'

"When George saw the note he realized for the first time that I wasn't flying the ship, and he gave me the signal to take over the controls. We were both so scared and disgusted that we flew right back to the hangar."

(Associated Press.)

William Tyler Page, House clerk, yesterday advised Representative J. Will Taylor, Republican, ill at his home in Tennessee, that his presence will be needed by the party when the House is organized Monday.

Page added, however, that the question of Taylor's attendance should be settled by his physician. Taylor had asked Page in a telegram whether his vote would be needed to assure Republican organization of the House and said he would leave his sick bed and be present if necessary regardless of the consequences.

Alarm Routs Bank Bandits.

Compton, Ill., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Six men who had worked for two hours to isolate this town were thwarted in their attempt to rob the First National Bank today. They set off a burglar alarm. They had cut off all telephone and telegraph communication with Rochelle and Dixon. After the alarm sounded they fled.

Hungry Tarpon Make Texas Fishermen Happy

Brownsville, Tex. (U.P.).—King Tarpon, game fish of the Gulf of Mexico, has been extremely hungry in these waters the past few weeks and fishermen have been happy.

Large catches are being made daily. The peak was reached when sixteen large tarpon were hooked in a single day near Port Isabel.

The record for landing the largest tarpon is held by Charles Polhemus, who hooked one measuring 7 feet 2½ inches. A feature of this catch was that the hook lodged in the fish's belly instead of in its mouth.

Government Wins Ten Seats in Irish Senate

Dublin, Irish Free State, Dec. 4.—Cuman-Na-Gaedheal, the government party, won 10 out of the 23 senatorial vacancies filled in Irish Free State elections today.

Fianna Fail, Republican party, won eight seats and Labor two. The others were scattered.

DECEMBER 5, 1906.

Close students of the President's message to Congress, delivered yesterday, feel that the Chief Executive is about to declare war on Japan "and will fire a solid shot."

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw was condemned last night at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce for "his unnecessary, undignified and discourteous treatment of the chamber's president, H. D. W. English." The vote was far from unanimous, as several of the chamber's members felt that Mr. Shaw had every right to act as he did toward the officer in regard to the Pittsburgh postoffice site question.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A SONG TO RENT RECEIPTS.

I.

SOME folks sing of rural dwellings,
Some folks sing of building schemes;
Many sing about the cottage
They have visioned in their dreams;
Some folks sing about the farmhouse
And the birdies' gay tweet-tweets
But I love to sit and warble
O'er my pile of rent receipts.

II.

Mainy people chant of homesteads.
That they soon will call their own
(After ninety-eight more payments
And another ten-year loan);
Others carol of their castle
Far from noise of city streets—
As for me, I'm vocalizing
O'er my pile of rent receipts.

III.

Homes I've owned far in the country,
Urban houses I've had too,
I've had places at the seaside—
Boy, oh boy! what I've been through!
Leaks in the roof and door and window,
Porous porch in rain and sleet
Oh, how restful now and cheering
Just to clutch a rent receipt!

IV.

Once I lived out in the suburbs
In a vine-thatched bungalow,
Mowing lawns all through the summer,
In the winter shov'ling snow;
Most imposing was my furnace,
But it wouldn't give me heat;
Now I let the landlord worry,
And I love my rent receipt!

V.

It was sold me on time-payments—
It had flowers, birds and trees;
Though it looked quite smart and stable
How it wobbled in a breeze!
All its walls were made of paper,
All its windows rattled much;
Ho! A song for my apartment,
With its rent receipts and such!

VI.

Though I bought it for the freedom
Of the fields so green and blue,
Soon the district was developed,
Till they shut off all my view;
Little room they left to breath in
As they drove their nails and cleats,
And I knew life would be sweeter
Back among the rent receipts.

VII.

I had trouble with the plumbing,
I had trouble with the drains;
In the sunroom we went swimming,
Thanks to lovely April rains;
I was buried in repair bills—
Neighbors thirsty drank my gin,
Which is why I now sit counting
Rent receipts with such a grin!

VIII.

Don't be silly, Mr. Hoover—
Homes are often very nice,
But until they build 'em better
My apartment will suffice;
Little cottages are lovely—
So sang Shelley, Payne and Keats;
I for one insist on singing
Of a pile of rent receipts!

INTERSERVICE football with its attendant frills and thrills will be Washington's once again today when the teams representing the United States Coast Guard and the Quantico Marines come to grips in their annual battle for possession of the highly prized President's Cup, now held by the Marines. The kick-off that will send two of the finest elevens of the East into action is scheduled at 2 p. m.

The game, which merits the attendance of the plain football-loving fan, has attracted a host of notables from official and military circles, led by the First Lady of the Land, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who will officiate at the presentation of the trophy to the winning team immediately at the game's close. Unless adverse weather conditions of the past 24 hours continue, it is expected that one of the largest crowds in the history of the cup series will be in the gayly bedecked stands at game time.

In addition to Mrs. Hoover, other public figures slated to attend are Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon and Secretary of the Navy Francis Adams, each with a party of friends and fellow dignitaries of political and military life.

2,500 Service Men To Be in Uniform.

The stadium will be decorated in the colors of the competing teams—the Blue and White of the Coast Guard and the Scarlet and Gold of the Marines, and lending more color to the occasion will be more than 2,500 service men in uniform. Three battalions of Guardsmen from cutters, destroyers and life-saving stations of the Atlantic Seaboard section will be on hand to root for the unbeaten and untied Bears, while 1,500 lusty Leathernecks from Quantico will be there to cheer on their embattled cohorts.

The Marine delegation led by an 110-piece band will march to the stadium from the Seventh Street (Southwest) Station shortly after their arrival by train from Quantico. They will parade up Sixth street to T, thence to Fifth and up Fifth to the stadium entrance, where they will await the conclusion of the field maneuvers of the Guardsmen, who will occupy the field from 1:10 to 1:30. The Gyrenes will have some stunts of their own to perform before the teams swing into action.

Bears Boast Eight Successive Wins.

With a record of eight successive victories and no defeats, the Coast Guard Bears are regarded the favorites by a slender margin. Only two touchdowns have been scored against them this fall. Against this record the Marines show nine victories and two defeats, but the Leathernecks rather relish the idea of being the underdogs. It is nothing new for the Sea Soldiers to face battle with the odds against them and they are mindful of previous conquests under such circumstances.

Primarily, the reason for establishing the Bears the favorites is the presence in their line-up of one Les Maynard, hailed everywhere in the East as one of the outstanding backs of the year. From past accounts of Coast Guard games, Maynard has done everything humanly possible for a back to do and has starred consistently.

3 Sets of Backs Held Ready.

Naturally, Maynard will be a marked man this afternoon, but Coach Irving Baker promises the Marines plenty of trouble, even should the latter stop his scintillating ace. Baker has three distinct sets of backs, each with a brilliant performer of triple-threat classification. In the second group there is Lieut. Eddie Roland, voted by officials last year as the outstanding player of the game that resulted in a Marine triumph, 7 to 0. This bunch of ball-toters is Coach Baker's "pony" quartet, while the third group,

FOR the first time in three years the University of Maryland enters the game for the intercollegiate football championship of the Free State this afternoon in Baltimore Stadium with the odds in its favor, but no one, not excepting the Terrapins themselves, expects the Western Maryland Terrors, who will be defending the title, to bow without putting up a terrific battle. Action is slated to commence at 2 p. m.

Chances for a Maryland victory would be brighter than they are had not rain of the past 24 hours made the field heavy and slow. Maryland's attack is based on speed and deception, an attack that is hindered no little by a soggy field. The weather conditions also militate against the success of Maryland's famed forward passes, which have carried the Terrapins to many touchdowns this year against the strongest as well as the weakest of their foes.

Less Handicap for Terrors.

Western Maryland, stronger than reports emanating from the Terror lair at Westminster would indicate, will not be so handicapped by the soft footing. The Terrors are prepared to play a line-battering style of attack and have the backs to fit in with just such a style. Harold Koppe, the big Terror full back, is the greatest line-plunger in either squad.

However, Western Maryland will suffer as much as its rival from prevailing conditions in respect to its passing offense. Aerials have played no little part in Terror contests of the past with Floyd Doughty and Koppe hurling the ball to able receivers.

The Terrapins went through their final tuning-up drill yesterday at College Park on a field that was wet and slippery. For this reason Coach Curly Byrd did not keep his players out very long, and, as he had to give considerable time to arranging his defense for today, the team had little opportunity to polish up its attack.

Maryland will start the same eleven against the Terrors today which began the game last year, and it will be the final crack at Western Maryland for all of them except Ray Poppelman and Al Woods, backs, and Ted Keenan, tackle.

W. Maryland Won Last Year.

Western Maryland was victorious last year by a score of 7 to 0, when a scoreless tie appeared imminent with only a minute or two left to play. With the ball on the 15-yard line and 11 yards to go on fourth down, Quarter Back George Ekaitis called for a pass to himself and made the distance through the surprised Maryland secondary that led to the lone touchdown. He appeared to have been driven out of bounds after traveling 2 yards, but the officials ruled otherwise, and he kept plowing ahead to the 3-yard line, from where Koppe plunged across for the score.

While Koppe and Doughty will be closely watched from a Western Maryland viewpoint, Shorty Chalmers and Ray Poppelman will fill the roles of the featured Terrapin performers. Chalmers is the best passer in the Southern Conference and one of the best kickers, and as he is also capable at running the ball he is rated among this section's most proficient triple-threat backs. Poppelman, who calls signals and plays in the safety position on defense, specializes in line smashes and open field runs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Tulane and Tennessee, Dixie's two undefeated gridiron leaders, hold the national spotlight tomorrow as they go against Washington State and New York University, respectively, at New Orleans and New York.

There are several other sectional and intersectional contests down for decision, some of them scheduled in the interests of charity, but the games in which the Dixie leaders figure probably carry most of the national interests.

Tulane Stakes Bid To Rose Bowl.

Tulane, with an invitation to the Rose Bowl and a claim on the mythical national title at stake, meets a doughty foe in Washington State, which last year won the Pacific Coast title and represented the West in the Tournament of Roses game against Alabama. The Cougars have not been too impressive this year, but the underdog has bitten the hand of the form picker so often this year it would take a brave one to pick Tulane a sure winner, as the Green Wave appears on the record.

Tennessee will have its hands full protecting an unbeaten record from a New York university team which will have its full strength on the field for the first time since the meeting with Colgate in midseason. A muddy field is in prospect, a favorable omen for the Violets' heavy but slow line.

Tennessee tonight was the outstanding favorite. The Southern team has a record of no defeats for the season, the 6-6 tie with Kentucky being the nearest thing to a blot on its record. New York lost close decisions to Oregon and Georgia, but otherwise has a good year.

Charity Circus At Yale Bowl.

The two charity circuses will be presented in the Yale Bowl at New Haven and at Durham, N. C. Yale, Dartmouth, Brown and Holy Cross will have at each other in abbreviated games in the bowl, with the winners of the first two contests meeting in the final. All-Star teams from Duke and North Carolina University will play a team of the leading players from Davidson, North Carolina State and Wake Forest at Durham.

Notre Dame and Navy To Meet at Cleveland

Cleveland, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Notre Dame University Football Team will play the United States Naval Academy in the Cleveland Municipal Stadium next November 19, George H. Bender, stadium manager, was notified by Notre Dame officials tonight. Terms under which the Navy-Notre Dame game will be played have been agreed upon by city officials and the athletic directors of the university and the academy.

Dempsey Beats Four Men; Retzlaff Included

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 4 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, defeated Charley Retzlaff of Duluth and three other fighters in four 1-round fights tonight.

Dempsey knocked out Johnny Koranda of Chicago in 16 seconds, flattened Swede Gransberg of Fargo in 57 seconds, beat Retzlaff on points, and won decisively over Tommy Davenport of Little Rock, Ark.

Retzlaff, who generally is ranked among the 10 best heavyweights in the country, appeared overawed by the honor of getting into the same ring with the "Manassa Mauler." As a result, the Duluth puncher was on the defense throughout and took several jolting blows from the ex-champion without landing a one of his own. Retzlaff probably is the best fighter Dempsey has met during his present "comeback campaign."

St. Mary's Choice Over S. Methodists

San Francisco, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Famed for their sensational aerial attacks, Southern Methodist's Mustangs and St. Mary's Gaels will match passing strategy here tomorrow in a football classic to be played in the name of charity.

One of the few undefeated teams in the country, and Southwest Conference champion, Southern Methodist will display its gridiron prowess on the Pacific Coast for the first time. Only a scoreless tie, played last Saturday with Texas Christian, mars the 1931 record.

Kirilenko Loses Boston Match; Leg Is Injured

Boston, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Pat O'Shocker, 218, Salt Lake City, defeated Matros Kirilenko, 215, Russia, in 45 minutes 40 seconds in the feature bout of a wrestling show tonight. Kirilenko had the better of the going until he hurt his leg in a dive through the ropes. He was carried from the ring after O'Shocker pinned him with a crotch hold and body slam.

Tulane Informed Of Rose Bowl Bid

Invitation to Play Trojans Believed to Hinge on Today's Game.

New Orleans, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The first definite intimation that Tulane might receive the invitation to play in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game New Year's Day was received here today by Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, Tulane's athletic director, in a telegram from Willis O. Hunter, athletic director of Southern California.

The telegram inquired regarding the telephone number at which Dr. Smith could be reached between 7 and 9 p. m. Saturday.

The message was interpreted to mean that if Tulane defeated Washington State here tomorrow the Green Wave would be invited.

For several days it has been reported the Green Wave would be asked to play in the Rose Bowl if it defeated the Washington State Cougars here tomorrow, but the telegram was the first direct word Tulane had received from Southern California.

RAIN DELAYS GOLF.

RUTH FACING REDUCTION IN WAGE

Ruppert Says He Will Pay No Ball Player $80,000 Salary.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 4.—(U.P.).—Babe Ruth, the highest paid baseball player of all time, will have his salary slashed for the 1932 season, Col. Jacob Ruppert said today before leaving for Chicago to attend the major league meetings Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Never again will a ball player receive $80,000 for one season," said Col. Ruppert.

Ruth's two-year contract at $80,000 a year expired at the close of last season. Col. Ruppert does not expect difficulty on the signing of Ruth to a new contract, but definitely said that he would never pay another player as much as Ruth received the last two years.

Other Stars Help Draw Crowds.

When told that Ruth previously had said he expected to get as much money next season as he had last, Col. Ruppert replied:

"Who does Ruth think he is, the whole Yankee ball club? Doesn't he think Joe McCarthy, Gehrig and other players have had something to do with drawing the big crowds that come to see the Yankees play at home and on the road?"

Ruth had one of the greatest seasons of his career last year and this is expected to be one of his big talking points when he confers with Col. Ruppert some time this winter regarding a new contract.

Ruth was second to Al Simmons in batting, with an average of .374, the highest ever made by him. He tied with Gehrig for the most home runs, with 46 each. He was second in runs scored, with 149. He was second to Gehrig in runs batted in, with 163. He received 128 bases on balls and struck out only 51 times, a new low mark for him.

Col. Ruppert hinted that he expects the Yankees to win the American League pennant in 1932 when he speculated enthusiastically on his team's line-up.

Has High Praise For Rookies.

"With Gehrig at first, Sultzgaver at second, Crosseti at short stop and Lary at third base, we will have one of the best infields in baseball. Every one tells me that Saltzgaver, from St. Paul, and Crosseti, from San Francisco, are two of the greatest prospects that have been sent up by the minors in many years.

"Our outfield of Chapman, Combs and Ruth, with Hoag and Cooke in reserve, will be strong. We have added pitching strength and Dickey is a great catcher. If we don't make a fight for the pennant with a team like that, something must be wrong.

"We had the best club in the league last season at the close of the race and will be much stronger the coming season."

Ruth Silent on Salary Talk.

New Bern, N. C., Dec. 4 (U.P.).—Babe Ruth emerged from the backwoods hunting camp where he hunts deer for ten days every fall tonight, but declined to discuss Col. Jacob Ruppert's statement today that there will be no more $80,000 a year salaries in organized baseball.

"I don't want to discuss that until Mr. Ruppert and I have a conference sometime this winter," the Yankee outfielder said. "I do not know when I will meet Mr. Ruppert and until we meet there will be nothing for me to say on the subject."

State Asked to Probe Wisconsin U. Athletics

Madison, Wis., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A resolution calling for a legislative investigation of the University of Wisconsin athletic department was adopted by the State Assembly today and sent to the Senate.

The measure stated that although a large deficit existed in the athletic department, no action had been taken to reduce expenditures.

The resolution asked for a special committee to assist the athletic council and the board of regents in "formulating a policy for the administration of athletics at the university."

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 4.—Rain that had been falling since early morning abated late this afternoon and caused Head Coach Rip Miller to change his plans and take his Navy football proteges out of doors for a final workout for the fracas with Pennsylvania on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, tomorrow. The mentor was also moved to the action by the prospect that conditions under foot in the Quakers' Stadium would be soft as they were here and he wanted his pupils to reap the benefit of the miry going.

The final prep was held under the flood lights of Thompson Field and in a light blanket of fog that settled when the rain ceased. The practice was brief and limited to signals and formations, with a rehearsal of certain offensive tactics and individual instruction to the players in the first line defense.

The naval contingent is pulling strong for a victory over Penn and feels confident that the Middies, with the steady improvement in recent games, are capable of delivering the goods. Coach Miller is hoping for reasonably firm conditions of turf, even though clear weather may not prevail, for it is realized that a soft field will be advantageous to the Red and Blue gridders, who will outweigh the Tars by an average of about 12 pounds.

Navy Linemen Outweighed.

Figures compiled by attaches of the athletic department at the Naval Academy show that Penn has a team average of around 185 pounds, compared with Navy's 173. The Quakers have a tremendous set of forwards, most of whom are men of one or more year's experience. The fact that Notre Dame rolled up a big score on Penn is not taken here as an augury that the latter are a weak crew. On the contrary, Miller and other Navy mentors have seen Penn in action and they know where the potential strength lies.

3 Notre Dame Players Are Selected

Schwartz, Hoffman, Yarr Win Places on Team.

Wood, Pinckert and Rentner Also Gain Back Field Posts.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—For the second successive year Notre Dame and Northwestern, the chief banner-bearers of Mid-Western college football, grab the lion's share of All-American laurels for the 1931 season, in the seventh annual Associated Press consensus.

Not even the stunning setbacks at the hands of Southern California and Army deflected the landslide of votes for the outstanding individual stars of Notre Dame's line and back field. As a result the great Marchmont Schwartz, acclaimed the hardest running back in America, gains all-star distinction for the second straight year, along with two teammates, Capt. Tom Yarr at center and Frank (Nordy) Hoffman at guard.

Northwestern places its ace ball carrier, Ernest (Pug) Rentner, and Dallas Marvil, 233-pound tackle, in the All-American line-up, thereby duplicating the achievement of the Wildcats in taking two positions a year ago with Frank Baker and Red Woodworth.

Munn, of Nebraska, Chosen at Guard.

The Midwest collects six positions altogether on the first team, as Capt. Clarence Munn, of Minnesota, proved far and away the outstanding choice for guard.

Two of the remaining positions go to the South, two to the Far West and one to the East, the latter accounted for by the almost unanimous selection of Capt. William Barry Wood, jr., of Harvard, for the key position of quarter back.

All told, on the All-America squad of 33 players, including second and third teams, 14 places go to the big Midwestern area, 8 to the East, 5 to the South, 5 to the Far West and 1 to the Southwest.

The South's two crack ends, Capt. Gerald Dalrymple, of Tulane, and Vernon ("Catfish") Smith, of Georgia, ran away from all rivals in the Nation-wide balloting by sports editors and writers.

Far West's Pair Close Choices.

On the other hand, the Far West's brace of honor men, Erny Pinckert, of Southern California, back, and Paul Schwegler, of the University of Washington, tackle, won their positions only after the keenest competition everywhere along the voting sectors.

Pinckert, who duplicated Schwartz's achievement in gaining All-America honors for the second year in a row, won a close contest from Gene McEver, Tennessee's powerhouse, for the fourth backfield position by a margin of only four votes.

Don Zimmerman, Tulane's triple threat, finished only eight votes behind McEver in this hot three-cornered contest.

Schwegler, likewise, barely rallied enough support to win his post as Marvil's running mate. The wealth of conspicuous tackles this year proved one of the outstanding developments of the Associated Press consensus. The contest was so close that less than 20 votes separated Schwegler from such great performers as Joe Kurth, of Notre Dame; Jim MacMurdo, of Pittsburgh; Hugh Rhea, of Nebraska, and Capt. John Price, of the Army.

Schwartz Runs Wild Through Ballots.

Schwartz ran wild through the broken field of ballots much after the manner the famous Notre Dame climax runner has performed against his opposition on the field. Out of a possible maximum of 270, Schwartz polled 255 votes. In popularity, Dalrymple ran second among the All-Americans with 225. Rentner, Wood and Munn were the only others to pass the 200 mark.

Two captains, Johnny Orsi, of Colgate, and Henry Cronkite, of the Kansas Aggies, ran strong enough to win second team positions on the ends, but they were far behind Dalrymple and Smith, the Dixie Terrors. The latter pair combined to carry on a tradition that the South always furnishes a fine collection of wingmen.

Munn and Hoffman were not hard-pressed to capture the guard positions, although Southern California's hero of the Notre Dame game,

Husing Names Wood All-American Back

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Ted Husing, Columbia Broadcasting System sports announcer, today named Barry Wood, of Harvard, as quarter back in his all-America football selections. It was for criticizing the play of Wood as "putrid" in the Harvard-Dartmouth game that Husing was barred from any further radio appearances at Harvard.

Husing, in reference to his selections, said: "Barry Wood, Harvard's great general, demonstrated in the Army game that he was a Napoleonic figure among our signal barkers. His kicking, running and passing, coupled with his brainy team running and coolness under fire, made him the easy choice for the quarter back assignment."

Shaver, of Southern California, was Husing's second choice as quarter back.

HAL RILEY TRIUMPHS IN JEEFERSON FEATURE, LEWIS UP

Star Jockey Wins Rough Contest

High Pockets and Sis Esther Romp Away From Rivals.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Apprentice Jockey Melvin Lewis, the youngster who created such a sensation on Western tracks during the summer and who recently arrived here, today piloted J. Marsch's Hal Riley to a hard-earned victory in the Chef Menteur Purse, featured event at a mile and 70 yards. It took all the boy could do to get his mount home a head in advance of Rocky Way, a long shot, which beat Stop Gap by five lengths for the place.

It was a rough trip for Master Lewis, with the veteran, Killum, on Rocky Way, repeatedly bearing over on his younger rival through the stretch after impending him at the half-mile pole. Lewis, although he did not give Hal Riley as strong a ride as the gelding might have received, managed to earn the purse, but his mount was much the best.

The weather was warm and sunny for a change, but the going still was very heavy, as the time of 1:59 1-5 will attest.

Rocky Way Goes To Front.

Rocky Way went right to the front at the break and Hal Riley forced the pace. It was not until the final sixteenth that Lewis was able to get the favorite to the front and then by a small margin which the Marsch color bearer gamely maintained. Stop Gap closed fast the final quarter mile to take the show by a wide margin. The winner paid $4.60.

Favorite players got off on the right foot when they selected Downpour to win the opening dash of 6 furlongs. The Valley Lake Stable's representative came home two lengths before Petabit, while the latter took the place by six lengths from Brimsey. The favorite rushed to the front right after the start and opened up a safe lead, merely coasting home under Willie Garner's snug ride. Petabit was much the best of the others. The winner paid $3.40.

Knebelkamp and Morris Score Double.

Knebelkamp & Morris put over a good thing when Jack Murphy, paying $9.60 for $2, scored by two lengths over Lanier, the favorite, in the second event, another 6-furlong dash. Raffler Con was third, beaten a nose for the place. Jack Murphy forged to the front at the far turn and easily held Lanier safe when the latter finished with a rush. Raffler Con tired just enough at the end to lose the place.

Knebelkamp & Morris completed a double in the third race, Mildred Watkins leading eleven other 2-year-olds to the wire and returning $14.60 for a $2 ticket. Tiedemann was second and paid $40 for place, while Crescent City took the show. Tiedemann and Mildred Watkins put on a duel for leadership to the final furlong, where the filly drew away in a drive to win by a length and a half. Tiedemann saved the place by a length.

High Pockets Canters To Victory.

The finish of the fourth race, a mile test for 3 and 4 year old maidens, found the field strung out nearly the length of the stretch. High Pockets, the choice, just cantered to victory by eight lengths under Jockey Lewis. Distress Signal beat Bonnie L. another ten lengths for the place. High Pockets had the running all to himself, the 3-year-old gelding opening up a wide early lead and increasing it throughout. He paid $3.40 for $2. Sis Esther made a show of her company in the mile and a sixteenth contest, sixth on the card, reaching the judges with fifteen lengths to spare over Interior, with Peace Lady third. Sis Esther followed the pace to the bend, where Hernandez called on the filly. She bounded forth willingly and spurted into a long lead, saving ground on the inside, and was just galloping at the end.

Interior reached a contending position early, but was no match for the winner. Peace Lady tired from setting the pace. The winner returned $16.80.

Jefferson Cuts Purses To $600 After Dec. 8

Jefferson Park Race Track, New Orleans, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A cut in purses for races in which the cheaper brand of platers are scheduled to perform is shown with the second condition book issued for December 8 to 18 here today. Purses of $800, which prevailed in all but feature offerings, will be cut to $600, the winner to receive $425, the second horse $100, the third $50 and fourth $25. Purses of $700 and $800 will be offered for better grades of horses.

It was noted that the many cheaper horses, including maiden performers, had performed for smaller prices at other tracks and it was felt there was no reason why owners should object to similar conditions here. Stakes and handicaps will not be affected by the new ruling.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGH POCKETS, $3.40, $2.80, $2.60; DISTRESS SIGNAL, $3.80, $3.00; BONNIE L., $2.60.

HIGH POCKETS took the lead at once and increased his advantage throughout. DISTRESS SIGNAL was best of the others. BONNIE L. was distanced.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. Chef Menteur Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:44½. Off at 3:46. Winner, J. Marsch's ch. g. (4), by Jim Gaffney—Irish Queen. Trained by P. Reuter. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:59 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAL RILEY, $4.60, $3.20, $2.60; ROCKY WAY, $20.20, $6.60; STOP GAP, $2.60.

HAL RILEY, probably much the best, but weakly ridden and repeatedly fouled, was knocked back at the half-mile post and blocked in the stretch, but got up in the closing strides. ROCKY WAY showed a good effort and tired only in the last few strides. STOP GAP finished well. PEBBLES LAST ran an even race.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:08½. Off at 4:11½. Winner, A. P. Canale's ch. f. (3), by Ambassador IV or Campfire—First Witch. Trained by A. Thomas. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:57 3-5.

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

Special to The Washington Post.

THE Baton Rouge Purse, an allowance affair, for 3-year-olds and upward, which received a list of seven sterling sprinters, will feature the week-end program at Jefferson Park today. This six-furlong dash will be supported by a card of claiming events. Large fields will be the order of the day, but several contests appear evenly matched and some closely contested battles are expected over the heavy course.

In the headliner, fifth event on the program, J. C. Ellis' clever sprinter, LEROS, should improve enough to capture the honors in this number. Chief opposition should be offered by RIP VAN WINKLE. HIGH FOOT is favored to finish in the money.

FIRST RACE—ALMAE scored impressively in her last at this track and under the same conditions should duplicate that effort. JUGGLER, a superior mudder, which has raced consistently in this class, is given the place call. TACK would favor a longer route, but nevertheless should account for the show.

SECOND RACE—The second event which is fashioned for 3-year-olds and upward, a test at the three-quarter mile distance, also received a list of eighteen. In this scramble ESTIN, a seasoned campaigner, should romp to an easy victory. CORBEAU has shown speed in the mud and should furnish stern opposition. KING HALMA is on the improve and may prove dangerous.

THIRD RACE—ADALOR T. earned an easy six-length victory in his last outing and should outfoot this field. ALL COLUMBIA has been freshened up by a brief rest and should go well in this class. OH YEAH, a surprise winner of her last, is favored for the show.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth event has attracted a well balanced field. GAY PRINCE displayed rare courage in gaining his last victory and off that effort will be hard to beat. MAKANDA has worked well and should aid his chances. SUFFER from the C. V. Whitney string appears best of the others.

SIXTH RACE—SIGN OFF has raced consistently on a off track and lightly weighted with 109 pounds holds an edge here. OLD BILL and TYPHOON, two clever mudders, should extend the top one for the honors.

SEVENTH RACE—In the closing race, thirteen game rooters have been entered to contest the purse at the mile and a quarter distance. SPORTING BLUES is given the call. AROGAL finished second in his last and should go well here. RED TAM and CHATSON should battle it out for the minor award.

THREE IRISH GRIDMEN ON A. P. TEAM

Schwartz, Yarr and Hoffman Are Rated All-American.

Likewise Yarr outdistanced all rivals for center, gaining this place for Notre Dame for the first time since Bud Boeringer was an All-American choice. Ralph Daugherty, pivot of Pittsburgh's powerful line, and Michigan's Maynard Morrison were the second and third selections.

Outside of the position of quarter back, which went to Barry Wood by an overwhelming margin, the backfield selections presented a problem. Modern football has all but discarded the old-fashioned back-field designations for a numbered system in which the carriers and blockers are interchangeable.

This was reflected by the variety of balloting. Rentner, for example, was freely chosen for full back as well as half back. So were such power runners as Bart Viviano, of Cornell, and Gene McEver, of Tennessee.

With Bill Morton, of Dartmouth, at quarter back, the second team combination of Zimmerman, Viviano and McEver presents a degree of talent easily rivaling the No. 1 quartet.

Booth Again Fails To Win Berth.

The back-field balloting, as usual, covered the widest possible range and sectional favorites all made strong showings. Yale's brilliant little captain, Albie Booth, failed for the third straight year to crash the main entrance, but he skipped into the third team line-up, along with Carl Cramer, Ohio State's brilliant sophomore quarter back; Weldon (Speedy) Mason, star of Southern Methodist's back field, and Orville Mohler, of Southern California.

Among the so-called "power backs," Olson, of Northwestern; Manders, of Minnesota; Christensen, of Utah; Roberts, of Georgia; Felts, of Tulane; Hinkle, of Bucknell, and Gill, of California, won widespread recognition.

The same thing was true of the shiftier type of ball carriers, including Clifford Battles, of West Virginia Wesleyan; Warren Heller, of Pittsburgh; Ray Stecker, of the Army; Buster Mott, of Georgia; Jack Crickard, of Harvard, and Monnett, of Michigan State.

Miami Would Wink At Fight for Title

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The Miami Boxing Commission wants the proposed Schmeling-Mickey Walker bout held here this winter whether or not the affair is billed as a championship go.

Louis K. MacReynolds, chairman of the commission, said today that although the Florida boxing law forbids holding any national or international title match, the commission has nothing to do with the bout except to license it and to see that it is conducted under proper sponsorship of the American Legion, National Guard or other body as provided by law.

"We want the fight to be held here," said MacReynolds, "instead of in California. If it is billed as a championship affair that is not the commission's business."

Benny Bass Suspended For Fouling Pilkington

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Benny Bass, former junior lightweight champion, today was suspended for 30 days and his purse ordered forfeited by the State Athletic Commission for fouling Jackie Pilkington in their bout here last Monday night. Pilkington was suspended for 60 days under the commission's rule which bars any fighter who has been fouled for this period.

PLAYER DEALS BREWING AS MAJOR LEAGUE PARLEY NEARS

Yanks, Cubs In Trading Moods

Lazzeri May Be Sent to White Sox for Pitcher Frasier.

Convene on Tuesday; Minors Complete Reorganization.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Baseball's spotlight tonight lifted from this Hoosier spa to Chicago, where the next big act of the national pastime, the annual conference of the major leagues, will be staged.

Loaded with proposals for salary cuts, rule changes and several important player deals among themselves, all of which were discussed during this week's revolutionary convention of the minor league brothers, the "big shots" of baseball were ready for a rushing business during their three-day conclave next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Every major league club admitted it was dickering for deals and that it hoped to complete them in Chicago. The Chicago Cubs were known to be ready to complete probably the largest trade or sale of them all, while the New York Yankees still talked about a trade with Chicago's White Sox involving Pitcher Vic Frasier, young White Sox star, and the veteran Tony Lazzeri.

The minors completed their drastic reorganization today by naming Judge W. Branham, president of the Piedmont League as head of the "Big Five" Commission which has taken over Mike Sexton's duties as president of their national body, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Judge Branham will appear before the joint session of the majors next week to explain the organization and gain contacts.

Other members of the committee are Warren Giles, president of the Rochester Club of the International League, who was named secretary; J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League; Joe Carr, of Columbus, Ohio, assistant secretary of the St. Paul American Association Club, and present head of the National Professional Football League, and Ross Harriott, president of the Terre Haute Club of the Three Eye League.

High-Salaried Post For Carr Likely.

The committee, which will make a report to next year's convention on its work to give minor league baseball a new thrill, will appoint a field manager at a fancy salary, and Carr was believed to be the man because of his organizing ability.

Their first meeting will be held at Louisville, Ky., January 10.

Gill Released by Nats To Chattanooga Farm

Johnny Gill, outfielder purchased by the Nats from Baltimore late last season, has been released to the Chattanooga Club of the Southern Association on option of recall, it was announced yesterday by Clark Griffith, Washington owner, who is attending the annual meeting of the minor leagues at West Baden, Ind.

Gill came to Washington from the Orioles with Ralph Boyle, another outfielder, in exchange for Catcher Red Hargraves, Infielder Baxter Jordan and a cash payment. He is a left-handed hitter. The Washington club fortified itself with outfield strength two days ago by acquiring Carl Reynolds from the White Sox in a five-player deal.

Inasmuch as the Chattanooga club is a Washington "farm," Gill may be recalled on 24-hour notice. After batting .347 with the Orioles last year he hit .267 in eight games with the Nats.

Huskies' Invasion Awaited by Trojans

50,000 to See Southern California and Washington Clash at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Another standard bearer of football from the North country—Washington's Huskies—trekked to within the shadows of the walls of Troy today, bent on putting the University of Southern California gridiron gallants to a most rigid test at the Olympic Stadium tomorrow.

Four times this season have grid elevens come out of the great northwest only to be turned back by Coach Howard Jones' eleven. Oregon State, Washington State, Oregon and Montana were decisively defeated.

Coach Jones has been drilling as much on the mental attitude of his players as on offense and defense against the final invasion of the North. While the game promises to be something of an anticlimax for U. S. C., the fact that to win will give the Trojans their first undisputed Pacific Coast Conference championship, may furnish the needed incentive to win.

The contest will be a homecoming game for Southern California, with some 50,000 persons expected.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THE final rounds of the Greater Washington Handicap and Meyer Davis Sweepstakes will be staged tonight, the former at Convention Hall and the latter at Lucky Strike. Fair-sized nuggets await the prize-winners at the end of the grinds.

Margaret Leaman, leader of the Meyer Davis event, which is reserved exclusively for women, and Oscar Reichard, head man in the Greater Washington, which is limited to men with averages of less than 110, are favored to hold their leads. Miss Leaman's biggest threat looms in the slim personage of Billie Butler, who came after her rival like a motorcycle cop in the second block. Pauline Ford, Peggy Babcock and Lorraine Gulli are also reckoned as strong contenders and possible winners, but it looks as though the prize plum will go to either of the two leaders. Three games, by the way, will constitute the block.

There is no contender in sight for Reichard's scalp, unless it be McFall, and even he is trailing by 30 pins. Kral, Ponorou, and "Doc" Morrisette are the only other entrants conceded a look-in for the purse.

The Lucky Strike All-Stars trek to Baltimore tonight where they will clash with George Lang's team in the first block of a special ten-game match. "Red" Megaw, Astor Clarke, Earl McPhilomy, Carroll Daly, Howard Campbell and Carl Weideman will roll under Bill Wood's colors. The fact that they will be bowling on the Baltimore Lucky Strike drives should make the local delegation feel more at home.

"Hokie" Smith will return the visit made by Henry Hiser to his King Pin drives when he meets the latter in the second and final block of their special ten-game match at Bethesda tonight. "Hokie" holds a slight edge over his opponent by virtue of a 616 total for the initial five games. Henry splintered the wood for 601. Both men are confident of winning tonight, a reliable indication of a close match.

John Blicks Midgets will play host to the Convention Hall Girls team in a special match tonight at 8 o'clock at Arcadia. Ray Sisler, Bob Chalfonte, Billie Sisler, Al Baer, "Ouncie" Harrison, and Jackie Simons will uphold the Blick honors. Elizabeth Minson, Grace Purdy, Annetta Mathew, Audrey Costello and Eva Gude will do what pinspilling there is to be done for Convention Hall. The weekly Arcadia sweepstakes, open to all, will also be rolled tonight at the same hour. The entrance fee, including the price of games, is $1.60.

Margaret Miltner's double-header strike with a seven pin count, in the final box of the third game, gave the Bill Wood's a 2-1 win over King Pin in the Ladies District League at Lucky Strike last night. Lorraine Gulli collected enough pins for a game of 126 and set of 352 to help King Pin along. Elaine Palmer's 123 game and Mary Cox's 322 set were the high spots in the Wood team's score.

Leo Rinaldi personaly supervised his Tailor team's odd game victory over Farnan's Bowling Shoes at Lucky Strike last night. Leo rolled a game of 161. Nick Nicro turned in a set of 379 for the winners. Jack Whalen's 145 game and 360 set topped the efforts of the Shoe dealers. The team scores were: Rinaldi, 639, 554, 575; Farnan's, 594, 573, 553.

Peace reigns in the Arcade-Sunshine League this morning, after a most turbulent night at Lucky Strike. Hat Department holds the lead, which is earned with a close, 2-1 victory over Laundrymen, and Rug Department is safely ensconced in third position following its odd game triumph over Service. Cold Storage used a bit of its ice to slide Dry Cleaners down the ways, and won two.

The Misses West and Wise, and the Cleveland No. 1 team held the spotlight in the C. and P. Telephone circuit at Lucky Strike. Miss West turned in a game of 123, and her contemporary a set of 327. The Cleveland dial regulators snared team honors with a game of 500 and set of 1,486.

Miss Betty Dugan, of the ladies' team in the Washington Gas Light League, did herself proud at Convention Hall last night. Miss Dugan romped in with a three-game total of 302, and her team scored a 2-1 win over the Accountants. Columbia Heights managed to lose a couple of games to Georgetown, Meter Shop and Collections scored clean sweeps over Industrial and Officers, and Fitting Department proved itself to be one game better than West Station in the other matches. Corcoran, one of the Fitters, cashed in on his 345 set, and Smith, of West Station, knocked down the high-game prize with his 136.

The Phoenix Team took the best part of the honors in the Odd Fellows League at Convention Hall with a game of 538 and set of 1,568. Mason, of Steuart, was credited with high game of the night, 126.

Claims tied the league set record for the General Accounting at Convention Hall when it rang the bell for a total of 1,648.

Mexican jumping beans would turn green with envy if they could see how the teams in the Building Contractors' League hop around. At Arcadia last night, a new leader, Minte Paint, popped up to displace the Fuller Stone Plant quint by winning all three from Moyer while the Fuller men (no relation to the brush people) were dropping the odd one to D. C. Butcher. Evans Plumbing, which was tied for the lead, dropped back a bit in the race by virtue of its triple loss to Todd. Other clean sweeps recorded were the Massaponax Sand's win over A. W. Lee and Roslyn Steel's whitewash of Fuller Co. Smoot Sand bagged the final tilt with Heffron. George Honey's 146 game topped the Butcher boys. Driver, of Evans, and Kiesler, of Roslyn Steel, each had a set of 354. With only two weeks to go to the end of the first half, only seven games separate the first and last place teams in this loop of fourteen clubs.

Individual high game honors in the Interstate Commerce Commission League, which rolled at Arcadia, went to Marble, of Directors, who shunted 129 bottles off the alleys. Haley, of Shorten Procedure, marked up a 346 set. The men of Shorten Procedure earned the team honors with a game of 855 and 1,509. The same team took Informal Cases into camp by one game. Valuation won the odd game from Accountants, Mail and File beat Engineers out of the final tilt, Examiners whitewashed Recapture and Traffic was just one better than Attorney in the team matches.

Personnel, Real Estate and Executive scored one-game victories in the Ladies Quartermaster loop at Columbia. Supply, Constructioneers and Engineering finished on the short end. Miss Ross, of Personnel, turned in the high individual game, 109, and the set, 293. Real Estate's 451 and 1,306 were good for team honors.

In the Men's Department of the same league, Power and Engineers won clean sweeps over Transportation, and Depot, Design and Mechanics took the odd games from Supply and Construction. Burke's 130 game and 343 set topped the individual scoring, and his Engineer cohorts trapped the team honors with a game of 568 and three-game score of 1,588.

The Highway team took most of the bacon home after the District Government League matches at Arcadia. Anderson of that team piled up 137 pins for high game, and Bernhardt, a teammate, scattered no less than 378 for set laurels. The team ripped off a set of 1,641, and Repair Shop No. 2 tucked away the game honors with 591. The latter quint took the Chief Clerks for a buggy ride and won 2-1, Repair Shop No. 1 won all the marbles from Water Register, Sewer Department No. 2 stopped Fire Department in the final game, and Highway took Health Department for the odd one.

Reiss Elected Captain Of 1932 Va. Eleven

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Lewis Gustav Reiss, of New York City, was elected captain of 1932 Virginia Football Team at the annual team dinner held tonight at the Farmington Country Club.

Reiss has been regular center on the team for two seasons, although he played full back in high school and during his freshman year here. He was selected by coaches of the State as all-Virginia center this year and has been mentioned for all-Southern and all-American honors. He also has won a letter as a heavyweight boxer.

William and Mary Five To Play 17 Contests

Williamsburg, Va., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A schedule of seventeen games for the William and Mary basket ball team this season has been announced by William S. Gooch, jr., director of athletics. The season will open on December 18 with North Carolina State there and the first home game, and first meeting with a Virginia team will be on January 11 when Roanoke College comes here.

The complete schedule follows:

December 18—North Carolina State, there; 29, Duke, there.

January 11—Roanoke, here.

February 1—Hampden-Sydney, there; 4, George Washington, here; 6, Richmond, here; 8, Hampden-Sydney, here; 10, Bridgewater, there; 11, Washington and Lee, there; 12, Roanoke College, there; 13, V. M. I., there; 16, Emory and Henry, here; 17, Randolph-Macon, there; 18, Lynchburg, here; 20, Richmond, there; 22, Bridgewater, here; 23, Randolph-Macon, here.

Battalino-Singer Bout Is Approved

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission today formally adopted plans for a ten-round bout between Christopher (Bat) Battalino, featherweight champion, and Al Singer, former lightweight titleholder, at Madison Square Garden December 11.

The bout was arranged as a substitute attraction for a bout originally scheduled bewteen Singer and Kid Chocolate on the same night. Chocolate is in the hands of Federal authorities, facing removal to Cuba.

While approving the match between Singer and Battalino, the commission insisted it was doing so only because the proceeds were to go to charity and that it was establishing no precedent in sanctioning a bout in which Battalino's title will not be at stake.

KALAMAZOO TRACK QUITS.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Twenty-four consecutve years of harness racing in Kalamazoo were at an end today as officials of the Recreation Realty Co., sponsor of the annual Grand Circuit meetings, prepared to either sell or dismantle the race track.

The withdrawal of Kalamazoo as a Grand Circuit city was blamed on business conditions for the waning interest in the annual event.

HAWKS AND APACHES READY

Little Indians Aim to Further Embarrass Old Rivals.

THE Mohawks will take the field Sunday against the Apaches at Griffith Stadium determined to chase the jinx that has followed them in their recent contests with the "Little Indians." In the last five meetings of the ancient rivals, the Apaches have won three games, tied one and dropped a lone decision.

This record has been compiled despite the fact that on each occasion the Mohawks have been the pregame favorites.

If there is any favorite Sunday, it is likely to be the Apaches although comparative scores of games in the South Atlantic League give the Hawks the edge. Just how the Little Indians can play on the short end of the odds remains to be seen.

There is more than mere rivalry involved in the game. Much talk has been traded between the players-plus a controversy between the managers due to the Hawks winning the Fouts protest. Fouts, incidently, has headed back to the high weeds and will not be an attraction, Manager Donovan reports.

TECH WANTS GAME.

The Takoma All-Stars, in whose ranks are such football players as Foley, Brinkman, Meikeljohn, Baxter and Gramlich, of Tech High's championship team, want a grid game for tomorrow with a good 150-pound team. Call Georgia 3065-J.

BLISS BEATS FRANKLIN FIVE, 18-17

Dean's Basket Near End Decides Conference Thriller.

THE Washington Collegiate Basket Ball Conference opened with a resounding upset last night when Bliss Electric School's five, one of the also rans of last year's conference, downed Ben Franklin, defending champions, 18 to 17, in a thrilling encounter. The game was played at Tech High Gym before a sizeable crowd.

Jim Dean, alert Bliss forward, sent the Bennies down to their first conference defeat with a neat pot-shot in the final minute of play. The Bennies had a 3-point lead with four minutes to go, after finding themselves on the short end of a 6-to-2 score at the half.

K. OF C. LEAGUE.

With Bob Brennan paving the way with eight field goals, the Washington Council Aces trimmed the Flashes in the Knights of Columbus Inter-Council League last night. The final score was 33-19. The Flashes put up a game stand for two periods, but the superior team play of the Aces, and Brennan's deadly eye overcame all opposition in the second half.

Mitchell Brothers Named Series Basket Ball Officials

ORREL MITCHELL. JOE MITCHELL.

ORREL AND JOE MITCHELL, two names closely associated with basket ball in the District, have been chosen to officiate in the high school basket ball series for the second straight year. The scholastic league will open January 8 at Tech High Gym, when Tech meets Business and Western plays Central.

The work of the Mitchell brothers in the last series was highly lauded yesterday at a meeting of the board of high school faculty advisers. A consensus of the five high school coaches showed a vote of 4-1 in favor of the Mitchells. The coaches, in whose hands the matter was placed, are Charles Guyon, of Eastern; Bert Coggins, Central; Cliff Moore, Western; Lynn Woodworth, Business, and Artie Boyd, Tech.

A. J. Caruso was named alternate to the Mitchell brothers.

Orrel Mitchell's tenure as official will not interfere with his coaching of Gonzaga's court team. Joe Mitchell, who is unique among basket ball experts in that he never played the game to any great degree, was coach of George Washington University's varsity squad in 1929-30.

PENNANTS DRILL.

The Petworth Pennants will drill tonight at 7 o'clock on the Iowa Avenue Playground. All players are requested to report promptly. The grudge game with the Northern Preps tomorrow will start at 1 p. m. at Silver Spring.

CAPITAL CITY CROWNS AT STAKE

Fraters, Mercury and Palace, Cents Will Play Tomorrow.

TWO Capital City League championships, the unlimited and 150-pound, will be decided tomorrow when the Mercury and Frater elevens clash at Alexandria for the former title, and Palace and Centennials try conclusions at Silver Spring for the last named. Both contests are rated as blue ribbon classics of sandlot football.

* The Frater-Mercury tilt will be for blood. Mercury must win to remain in the running for the title which it won last year. The Fraters possess the better record and on paper are favored to win, but the game will be decided largely on the fighting qualities of the teams, and in this respect they are about even. The Fraters have yet to taste defeat in the league, and the Wingfeet have dropped one game. Eligibility lists have been carefully scrutinized by both managers and every ounce of powder available will be ignited during the scrap.

Palace, unbeaten this season, faces the champion Centennials in its final league game. The Southwest club is a top-heavy favorite to emerge on the long end of the score, but as in the case of the unlimited teams, the will to win will have an important role in the fray. The Centennials must win, as a tie will give the title to Palace.

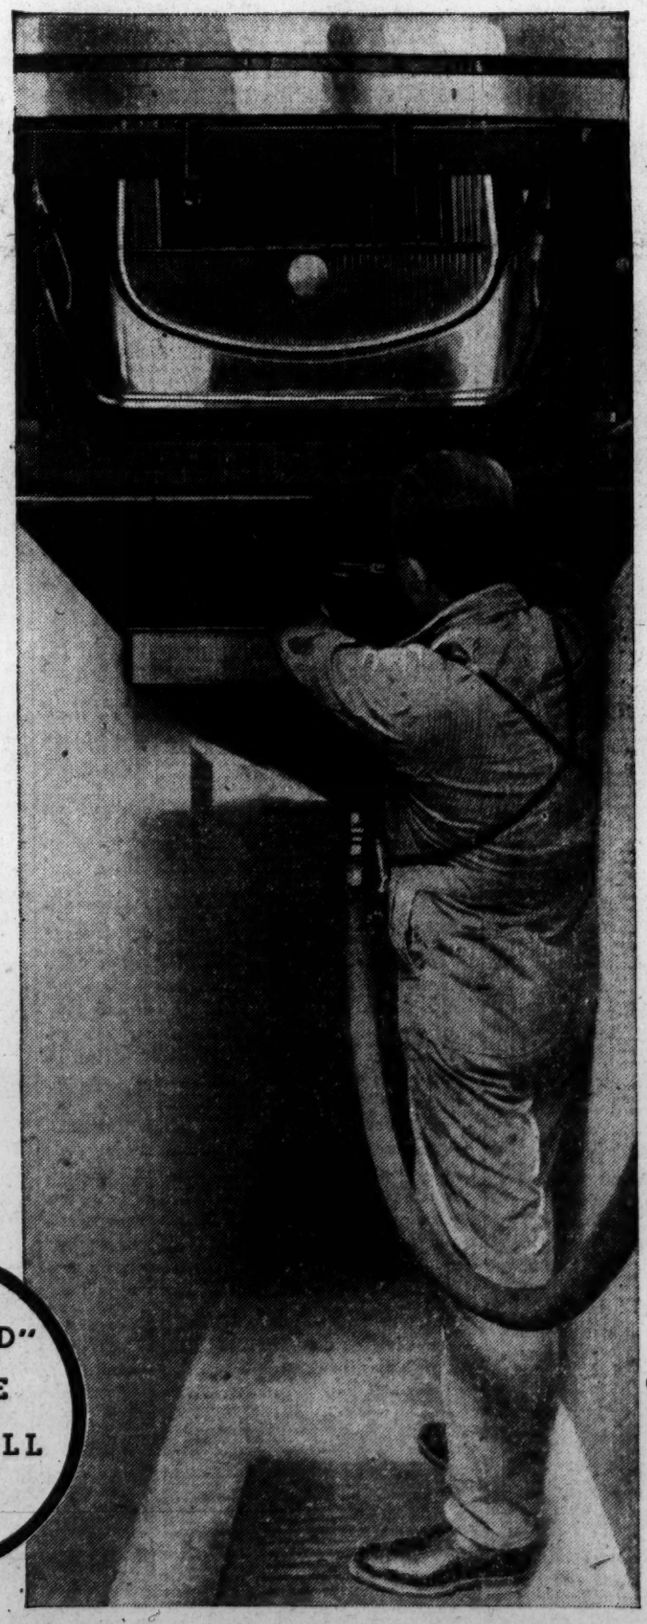
get your Car ready for Winter now



WINTER is hard on automobiles. It means extra wear on your battery. Extra crankcase dilution from too much "choke." Extra wear on gears and every other moving part. Occasionally real repair bills—and a real reconditioning job when spring comes around.

"Standard" Winter Lubrication Service is designed to save you this expense.

Drive into any "Standard" Station or dealer's. Ask to have him put your car in shape for winter driving. Your crankcase will be thoroughly drained, flushed and refilled with the proper winter consistency of motor oil. Every part of your car will be systematically gone over and supplied with the right oils and greases.

It doesn't take long. It costs very little. But it will repay you many times over—in easier driving, in fewer repair bills, in the better condition of your car.

"STANDARD" SERVICE CHECKS ALL POINTS

Every "Standard" lubrication job is checked and rechecked by means of a special chart for your own make and model of car. Nothing is overlooked. Extra care is taken to keep your car thoroughly clean.

BONDS AGAIN SLUMP TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Rails and Utilities Lead Drop to Bottom; Day's Turnover Is $12,034,000.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—A thin bond market, with many investors standing on the sidelines waiting for bigger and better bargains, today witnessed prices duplicate their dance of the past several sessions. The sales totalled $12,034,000, or over $2,000,000 under yesterday.

The song of new low records was again sung by the averages of the principal railways and utilities. The average for 60 corporate issues also sank to new bottom figures. Weakness of German securities unsettled the foreign category.

Of the entire list the obligations of the carriers gave the best account of themselves, although heavy drops in some of the roads caused this classification to chalk up a fresh bottom mark. Recoveries of from one to seven points were made by some of the more hard-pressed transportation loans.

Trading in Wabash loans showed the unevenness of the market. The first 5s, 1939, of this road, gained 7⅞ points and the second 5s, 1939, of the same company, dropped 21. Baltimore & Ohio issues were off from one to three points. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul general 4½s lost five points and Great Northern 4½s, 1961, fell 17. Missouri Pacific bonds were down from one to four and St. Louis & San Francisco lost ground. Many other carriers, however, exhibited indications of resistance by losing only fractionally.

There was moderately good buying at an advance in some of the rail loans. Among these were Denver & Rio Grande convertible 4s, Erie convertible 4s of 1996, Kansas City Southern 5s, New York Central convertible 4s of 1998 Pennsylvania 4½s, series D, Southern Railway general 4s and Union Pacific first 4s.

German obligations, sinking to new depths on various unconfirmed rumors, which were afterward officially denied, that the gold standard was to be completely abandoned, dragged down most of the other members of the foreign bond family. Losses in the Germans ran all the way from 1¼ to 7 points and most of these issues found new bottom levels. Argentines also slumped and French, Italian and Japanese loans were off.

American Telephone was firm but Western Union 5s of 1960 lost three points and the 4½s of 1950 gained one. American & Foreign Power was steady and International Telephone gave up some of its recent recovery. Oil and rubber securities tended to firmness. United States Government obligations were off fractionally at the close.

STOCK PRICES REACT ON MARKET RUMORS

American Can Drops 4 Points at Close; Some Losses Reduced by Gains.

New York, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—The stock market paid more attention to rumor than to fact today—a not unusual occurence—and prices reacted swiftly in the last hour, only to reduce their losses as shorts utilized the final minutes for repurchasing.

The early trading built up net gains of 1 to 3 points, presumably because speculators felt a more favorable view of railroad financial problems was justified, but circulation of reports that some unfavorable announcement was due to come out of Berlin quickly reversed the movement. The rumor most frequently mentioned was that Germany was to suspend the gold standard; it was denied abroad and here, yet selling gained momentum and numerous sharp breaks occurred before the decline was checked.

American Can was the outstanding air pocket, breaking half a dozen points and closing 4 lower. United States Steel touched 51, a new minimum, before moving back to 51⅝, where the net loss was 1⅞.

Losses in Industrials.

Westinghouse, American Telephone, Loew's, General Foods, Western Union, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe, Paramount, New Haven, New York Central, National Biscuit and Bethlehem ranged from 1 to 3 down, although final prices averaged considerably above the bottom in most instances. Union Pacific fluctuated 5 points, finishing with a small loss. The Radio preferred issues were weak and numerous other preferreds found the market very thin. Sales amounted to 1,931,104 shares.

The German reports failed to cause much stir in well-informed banking quarters, where it was pointed out that a free gold standard has been practically under suspension for some time through the numerous control measures effected by the government. Nevertheless the reichsmark, which has been comparatively steady, slumped almost half a cent, and many German bonds made new lows. The government 5½s went to 24½, closing at 25½, off 2¾ points. The 7s were a little steadier.

An interesting event of the financial day was the withdrawal of $250,000 in gold for shipment to France coincident with strength of the franc against dollars. It is, of course, among the possibilities that the gold export movement to France will be renewed, for the French may decide to decrease their balances here.

Position of Bankers.

In this connection it was recalled American banking officials were said to have informed Paris some time ago that the reduction of those accounts would cause no embarrassment to our gold position.

Weekly Mercantile mentioned cooler weather and the approaching holidays as the chief impetus to retail business, which has picked up in many parts of the country. Depositors in some closed banks have received settlements, and a large amount of money is being distributed in Christmas Club checks, although releases through the latter channel have not reached their peak.

Wheat sagged after early firmness, the latter dealings being influenced in part by rains in Central West and a poor export demand. Final quotations were one-half to 1 per cent off. Corn's losses were much the same. Cotton lost 6 to 8 points net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 4 (A.P.).—Too much selling on price advances led to late setbacks in the wheat market today, despite enlarged demand from overseas for North American bread material. It was estimated that 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, mostly Canadian, had been bought to be shipped abroad. With late weakness in the stock market, however, working against the bulls, advances were hard to hold, and wheat values broke sharply in the final 30 minutes of trading.

Wheat closed nervous, ½ to 1 cent under yesterday's finish, corn ¼ to ½ down, oats unchanged to ⅛ to 1 off, and provisions at 5 cents decline.

Most of the day wheat showed gains, influenced by reports of storms and of harvest delays both in Argentina and Australia, and by advices that the Russian government grain collection campaign was a complete disappointment. It was asserted that the total of Russian grain uncollected was far greater than acknowledged, and that Russian exports in the new year would dwindle owing to acute shortage of foodstuffs and other essentials. There were denials, though, of yesterday's reports that Russia had made import purchases of Australian wheat.

Contributing more or less force to transient upturns in wheat was word that unofficial estimates of the Argentine probable wheat export surplus for the coming year were revised today to 126,000,000 bushels, compared to the official final estimate of 150,000,000 this year. Another bullish influence was the fact that domestic milling demand for wheat continued active, and that interior mills were paying better than terminal prices for their supplies at country points. Mills in Eastern States appeared to be buying much more Western wheat than usual owing to local supplies having been used largely for feed earlier in the season.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, despite unfavorable weather over the corn belt and notwithstanding increased shipping demand here for corn.

2 CAPITAL MEN GIVEN TERMS IN MARYLAND

Montgomery Circuit Court to Occupy New Room on Monday.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

In sentencing two Washington young men to the Maryland House of Correction for tire thefts yesterday in Montgomery County circuit court at Rockville, Judge Robert B. Peter reiterated his announced stand on theft of automobile accessories.

The judge declared that he still feels it incumbent on him to warn the youth of the county against such acts by imposing jail sentences whether or not the defendant is a first offender. Judge Peter said he believed he had saved many youths of the county from getting in trouble by his determined adherence to this plan and further declared that in the future he will continue to impose jail sentences regardless of whether the youths are first offenders.

The judge imposed a sentence of six months on William J. Deckert and four months on Willie E. Griffin. They are alleged to have rolled a car down a hill from in front of its owner's home in Takoma Park and to have stripped it of three wheels and four tires. They were arrested by Washington police and turned over to Sergt. Earl H. Burdine, then in command of the Takoma substation, Montgomery county police.

Charles Washington, colored, was sentenced to serve three years on a charge of assault. He is alleged to have shot Preston Brown, colored, at a party near Beallsville last September. Washington was arrested by Sergt. Roy Bodmer of police headquarters at Rockville.

Judge Peter announced yesterday that he plans to move court to the new courthouse Monday. He directed members of the jury to report at the new courtroom Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The judge said he hopes all three members of the circuit court bench will be present for formal opening of the new courtroom.

Underpass Storm Sewer Authorized in County

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday authorized County Engineer Harry B. Shaw to take necessary steps to construct a 48-inch storm sewer to drain the water from Eastern avenue caused by the Piney Branch underpass at Takoma Park. The storm sewer will drain water from the District of Columbia side but it is necessary to pipe it a distance of 284 feet to protect residents of the neighborhood from the surface water resultant from heavy rains.

The underpass is being constructed by the District at a cost of about $250,000 to provide an outlet from the northwest section to Montgomery County and the Baltimore road by way of Takoma Park, Md. The storm sewer will cost about $2,000.

Ladies' Utilities Group Elects Officers for '32

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Bon Air Utilities Association meeting at the home of Mrs. Lester Howser elected as their president for the coming year, Mrs. E. C. Bockhaus. Other officers elected are Mrs. Lester Howser, vice president; Mrs. E. T. Norris, treasurer, and Mrs. L. T. Reeves, secretary.

Plans for the annual community Christmas tree celebration to be held the evening of December 26 in the community house were discussed. Mrs. W. D. Mabry has been chosen as chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Church to Canvass All of Its Members

Condition of St. Paul's, Alexandria, Will Be Made Known.

The "every-member canvass" of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Alexandria, one of the most important events in the life of that congregation, will take place tomorrow afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock. Preparations for the canvass have been under way for several weeks.

The object of this canvass is to see that every member of the congregation, numbering about 400, is acquainted with the condition of the church, both spiritual and financial, and to arouse their interest to greater activity. The budget of the church, which amounts to approximately $18,000 a year, will be presented for the approval of the congregation.

The canvass will be made by 22 teams, each composed of 2 persons. A meeting of these teams was held last night in the Norton Memorial, at which full instructions were given. Albert A. Smoot is general chairman of the committee having charge of the canvass, and he is being assisted by the vestry, of which Arthur Herbert is senior warden and Urban S. Lambert junior warden. The Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's, will address the canvassers at a short meeting tomorrow afternoon, when the work will be actually started.

Penalty Limit Reached Today on Arlington Tax

Today will be the last opportunity taxpayers of Arlington County will have to pay their real estate and personal property taxes without adding 5 per cent penalty, according to County Treasurer E. Wade Ball.

Mr. Ball announced that his office at the courthouse will remain open until 4 o'clock to accommodate those unable to reach the office before its usual closing time. He reports that many taxpayers are paying their taxes to avoid the penalty.

Virginia Highlands Gets $30,000 Tourist Camp

Ground has been broken at the intersection of the Washington-Richmond highway and Frazier avenue, Virginia Highlands, for a modern gasoline station and tourist camp. The project represents an expenditure of approximately $30,000.

The permit was granted by the county board of supervisors to Herbert M. Campbell and Fred H. Malkie.

U. S. Court Will Open In Alexandria Monday

December term of the United States court for the Eastern district of Virginia, Judge Luther B. Way, presiding, will be convened in Alexandria Monday. Both grand and petty juries will be summoned for duty.

A number of civil cases are pending and are scheduled to be heard at this term, which probably will continue throughout the week. It is considered probable that Judge Way will hand down a decision in the case of Robert F. Downham, who seeks to enjoin the City of Alexandria from interfering with him in erection of a gasoline filling station at King street and Russell road.

Vienna Woman's Husband Dies.

Word has been received in Vienna, Va., of the death of Judge Lucien Eastin, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was injured in an automobile accident in St. Joseph this week. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Janet Stone, of Vienna.

ALEXANDRIA SEEKING FIREMEN'S SESSIONS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

The executive committee of the Alexandria Fire Department is perfecting plans for the largest gathering of firemen ever held in this section. At a meeting held in the engine house of No. 1 Company, Fire Chief James M. Duncan reported on a conference held recently with Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the Washington Fire Department, in which plans were discussed for holding the Virginia State, Cumberland Valley and Maryland State Firemen's conventions in conjunction with the annual celebration of the Washington Fire Department.

The Virginia association has already accepted an invitation to meet in Alexandria, the Cumberland Valley association has been invited here, though the invitation has not yet been formally accepted, and efforts are to be made to have the place of the Maryland convention changed from Frostburg to some of the communities nearer Washington. A meeting of the fire chiefs in this section is to be held in the near future to consider this proposal.

The fire department officials believe that if the several meets are held in this section, manufacturers can be induced to arrange elaborate exhibits in Washington, and thousands of firemen and their friends would be attracted to this section.

Dates for the local convention, as well as for the Washington celebration, are undecided, it is understood, because the Washington Bicentennial Commission has not definitely assigned Labor Day and the two days preceding to the Washington firemen's celebration committee. Under the present plans, the other conventions would be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday before Labor Day.

High Attendance Scored By Montgomery Schools

Exceptionally excellent attendance records were achieved by pratically every Montgomery County school in October, Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, reported yesterday. The general county average for elementary schools was 93.1 per cent and for high schools, 95.6 per cent.

Brookeville and Mount Lebanon one-teacher schools tied for the attendance banner in their class, with an average of 98.1 per cent; Darnestown two-teacher school won the banner in its class with an average of 97.7 per cent. Other banner winners were: Damascus graded school, 98.2 per cent; Rockville Senior High School, 96.8 per cent; Rockville seventh and eighth grades junior high school, 93.1 per cent, and Fairland and Gaithersburg tied for the ninth grade junior high school banner, with an average of 97.6 per cent.

$10,000 Balm Sought By Man in Clarksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 4—Suit for $10,000 damages for the alleged theft of a wife's affections was filed today in circuit court here by Benjamin Miller against Oltis J. Criss, both of West Milford.

The plaintiff's declaration states that he married Mrs. Miller in 1895; that they lived happily together for 34 years; that Criss then began paying unlawful attentions to her and persuaded her to leave the Miller home and live with him.

TAX OFFICE KEEPS LATE HOURS TODAY

Alexandria Citizens to Be Given Extra Chance to Pay Levies.

Office of the Alexandria city collector will be open this afternoon until 5 o'clock, and tonight from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, instead of closing at 1 o'clock as is usual on Saturdays, for collection of city taxes on real and personal property. This is for convenience of taxpayers unable to call in regular office hours.

City Collector Purvus Taylor was recently instructed by the city council to levy on personal property if necessary for collection.

City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan has announced that today is the last day on which capitation taxes may be paid to enable taxpayers to take part in the Democratic primary next spring when two members of the city council will be nominated and in the election in June when two members will be chosen. The city treasurer's office will be open tonight from 7:30 to 9 o'clock for the collection of this tax.

James Stone Dies At Home in Bristol

Funeral of Prominent Citizen Will Be Tomorrow Afternoon.

Bristol, Va.-Tenn., Dec. 4 (A.P.).—James A. Stone, one of Bristol's most prominent citizens, was found dead in bed at his home here this morning.

Death was attributed to heart disease. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at State Street Methodist Church.

Mr. Stone had not been in the best of health for 30 years but he had much improved in recent weeks and was giving more attention to business affairs than for many months. Thursday afternoon he complained that his heart was not functioning properly but he was apparently in good condition in the evening when he retired.

Mr. Stone was prominent in church affairs, business, education and politics. Besides being joint owner of the Stone Lumber Co., he was interested in real estate, banks, lumber yards and various enterprises. In association with his brother, W. R. Stone, he built the General Shelby Hotel in 1927.

Aid Agency Named For Falls Church

Body Selected to Receive 3-Days'-Pay Pledges of U. S. Clerks.

The Falls Church, Va., community relief committee has been designated as the agency to receive three-days'-pay relief allotments of Government workers residing in that town, it was announced last night by Mayor L. P. Daniels, after receiving a letter from George W. Campbell, chairman of the President's unemployment committee.

Cards are being printed and will be distributed by Boy Scouts so that Government employes will be facilitated in making their pledges for relief of unemployment and destitution, the mayor said, urging all workers to send their pledges to the committee at once.

Dr. C. A. Ransome, reporting on sanitation in the Falls Church area for the bicentennial celebration next year, said that the State of Virginia has appropriated $2,000 to be used for maintaining a sanitation officer in the community throughout the celebration.

YOUTH DIES, 1 HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS ON MARYLAND ROAD

CENTRAL HIGH ALUMNUS IS KILLED IN TRAGEDY

Accidental Death Verdict in Death of 81-Year-Old Visitor to Capital.

When their automobile left the road and turned over a mile north of Clarksburg, Md., yesterday, William Hammond Sparks, 20, 1436 Fairmont street northwest, was killed, and his companion, Calvin Harry Waring, 19, 3717 Warren street northwest, was critically injured.

J. C. Shaver, of Smithburg, found the two young men lying beside their wrecked machine. Police headquarters at Rockville was notified and Officer John Butts was sent to the wreck.

The policeman called the ambulance of Ernest Gartner, Rockville undertaker, in which the men were removed to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring.

Sparks was dead when the hospital was reached, from internal injuries. Waring was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and shoulder. He had not regained consciousness last night.

Central High Graduate.

It was not known how long the two laid at the side of the road, Butts said. He added that the highway was always heavily traveled and believes they were found soon after the accident.

Sparks, a graduate in 1929 from Central High School, was employed in the central office of the Western Union Telegraph Co. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Luzetta Sparks, and four sisters.

Waring is fountain manager for a Peoples Drug Store on Georgia avenue. His parents are not living. Sparks and Waring left the Sparks' home about 1 o'clock in the morning and it was thought they had gone for a ride before retiring.

A verdict of accidental death was rendered by a coroner's jury yesterday in the fatal injuring of Charles S. Fendrich, 81-year-old Evansville, Ind., man, when the car he was riding in overturned at Belleview Terrace and Garfield street after colliding with another car.

Came for Family Reunion.

Fendrich was riding in a car operated by his daughter, Mrs. Louise F. Turner, 45 years old, of 2718 Thirty-eighth street northwest, which was in collision with a machine operated by Frank Rabak, 2826 Thirty-ninth street northwest.

Born in Baltimore in 1850, Mr. Fendrich had spent many years of his life in Evansville. He is survived by two sons, Joseph W. Fendrich, of Evansville, and C. Welles Fendrich, of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Turner, who is from South Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Theodore T. Hull, of Los Angeles, and five grandchildren. All of the children and three of the grandchildren were in the city at the time of Mr. Fendrich's death, attending a family reunion.

Services for Mr. Fendrich, who was member of the Elks and the Knights of Pythias, will be held at Lee's Chapel at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon after which body will be sent to Evansville for burial.

Suit Asks Access To Books of Club

Stockholders of Concord Want to Learn About $42,000 Reported Assets.

Chief Justice A. A. Wheat yesterday signed an order requiring Richard Brauner and Joseph A. Hoeft, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Concord Club, to appear before him and show why a writ of mandamus should not be issued compelling them to permit access to the club's books to accredited persons.

The rule was made returnable next Friday, at which time Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, representing six stockholders, George W. Kreis, Henry M. Weigand, Julius F. Wondrack, Peter M. Dorsch and George F. Plitt, hopes to secure the order that will permit his clients to inspect the books of the club.

The plaintiffs explained that they wished to examine the books to see where some $42,000 which the club secured from the District Government when its headquarters at 314 C street northwest was condemned in the Community Center building program had been deposited.

Risley Named Head Of Illinois Society

Immigration Chief Tells of Efforts Toward Scientific Basis.

Theodore J. Risley, solicitor of the Department of Justice, was elected president of the Society of Illinois at its final 1931 meeting at the Willard Hotel last night.

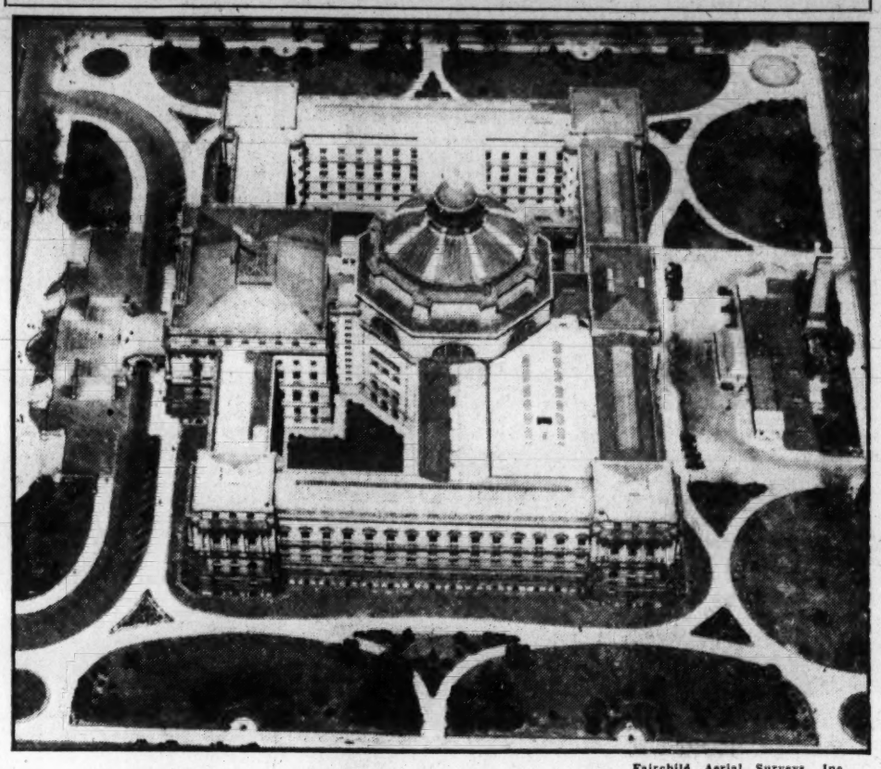
Officers reelected were J. W. Woodside, assistant to Comptroller General McCarl, secretary; Representative John Allen, first vice president; Representative Richard Yates, second vice president, and Algernon R. Bailey, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, third vice president.

Harry Edward Hull, commissioner general of immigration, addressed the meeting, which was attended by 200 members of the society. He analyzed immigration laws and reviewed progress toward scientific selection of immigrants.

Woman's Purse Snatched.

A purse containing $35 in cash and valuable personal papers was snatched from her hand as she was about to enter her automobile parked in the 1900 block of New Hampshire avenue northwest yesterday. Miss Mildred Hufferman, 4321 Georgia avenue northwest, reported to police. She said the thief escaped down P street. She was so startled, she could not give a clear description of him, she said.

Skyviews of Washington, No. 35



Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

THE Library of Congress, which began back in 1802 with some 3,000 volumes, and small quarters in the Capitol Building, in the $5,250,000 structure it has occupied since 1889.

Flying north over the House Office Building, at First and B streets southeast, the Skyviews photographer snapped this picture. If he makes the same flight a few months hence, there will be a Library addition to be photographed to the right of the present building, and north of the structure the new United States Supreme Court Building will be rising from its foundations.

The Library structure lies to the east of the Capitol plaza, which extends to the left of the territory embraced in the photograph.

Of modified Italian renaissance design, the edifice has long been considered one of the most artistically beautiful in the Capital. Its 1,800 windows render it one of the best lighted libraries in the world. The roof is of copper, and the central dome heavily gilded. The public reading room is located in the octagonal rotunda beneath the dome. The building construction is of Concord, N. H., granite.

DARROW ADDRESSES NEGRO CONFERENCE

Nonpartisan Organization in 25 States Planned, De Priest Says.

The nonpartisan conference, which has met here at the call of Representative Oscar De Priest, ended last night at the John Wesley Church when Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, and Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, addressed 1,500 persons.

A constitution and by-laws for permanent organization of the conference and branches in the 25 States represented. De Priest stated, is being formulated with the purpose of bringing organized pressure on local, State and national legislative bodies regardless of party or sectional lines. Judge Edward W. Henry, of Philadelphia, presided.

The Negro was advised by Clarence Darrow to add to his political power through such activities as will convince the major political parties that he will vote independently. In outlining the possibility of representation of the Negro in Congress from Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia and other sections, he advised the nonpartisan organization to go into State elections to defeat the political machines that will not redistrict so that the Negro may have a fair chance of securing representation.

"Violent Action Last Resort."

Dr. Johnson expressed the hope that the meeting represented only the beginning of a series of conferences aimed to develop "a leadership uncommitted and noncommittal." He expressed the belief that even in the matter of disfranchisement there is a quickening of the conscience toward the Negro's cause even in the States where he has no vote. Persistent and indefatigable petition, in such areas, through a long-drawn-out campaign of nonviolent public action, he believed would prove effective.

With reference to violent and revolutionary action, he said:

"The only people who know violence is necessary are those who have tried all known means and failed. Not until we have drawn on every human reserve that can bring forth results by peaceful persuasion do we reach the point of violence or revolution. The Negro has hardly begun, much less reached, the end of his political resources.

Religion and Politics Discussed.

An earlier session, presided over by Mrs. George S. Williams, Republican national committeewoman from Georgia, discussed "Religion and Politics," the principal speakers being Bishop George Clement, of Louisville; Dr. Vernon Johns, president of the Virginia Theological Seminary, at Lynchburg; Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, Mrs. Addie W. Dickerson, Mrs. Mary Church Terrell and Mrs. Ella G. Berry.

Responding to comment by Representative DePriest on the absence of "politicians" in the assembly last night, various colored men in national advisory positions in the Republican party stated that the agenda of the nonpartisan conference would be submitted to the major political parties for consideration and would come to their attention later.

Woman Tossed FromCar Is Only Slightly Injured

A woman was thrown from her automobile, which was demolished yesterday, in a collision with a heavy truck at New Jersey avenue and R street northwest. She was only slightly injured.

The automobile, driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Rahiem, 26 years old, of 827 Eighth street northwest, was proceeding east on R street when it was rammed by a truck of the Baltimore Spring Bed Co., driven by Thomas Willes, 45 years old, of Baltimore. The impact threw Mrs. Rahiem out of her machine. She was taken to Emergency Hospital where it was found she had suffered only cuts and bruises. She later returned to her home.

'Show Me' Yeggs Crack Safe Marked Valueless

Yeggmen who early yesterday entered the Hunter Bros. Hardware Store at 8126 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring, Md., were from Missouri. A printed sign on the front of the store safe declared that there there was nothing of value in the safe but the yeggmen disregarded the sign and blew open the door with nitroglycerin.

About $20 in change was all that was in the safe but the firm's books were strewn all over the store and some were found in a truck in the rear of the store. John H. Hunter, proprietor, said he would have gladly given $20 to the robbers to keep his firm's papers and books intact. Several rear doors were jimmied to gain entrance. A small quantity of nitroglycerin was left behind by the robbers.

CHAMPION CHOSEN AT CAT EXHIBITION

Eastbury Trigo, prize red tabby cat of Arche E. Horne, of Ridgefield, Conn., won the prize in the American Tabby Club show held yesterday at the Lee House, Fifteenth and L streets northwest, in conjunction with the annual exhibit and contest of the Columbia Cat Fanciers.

The winner was chosen from 37 entries. Results of the prize judging of other classes of cats will be announced late today at the close of the fanciers' competition. Miss Gertrude E. Taylor, of Detroit, Mich., was judge in the tabby contest.

District to Accept Free Work Offer

Arrangement to Be Made Formal by Approval of Commission.

With proposal of the District committee on employment directed through proper channels, the District Commissioners yesterday indicated their willingness to accept the plan of George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary, to provide 300 men for free work on school grounds, playgrounds and possibly streets near charitable institutions.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, yesterday said the matter had never been brought to his attention formally, but that as soon as it was he would give it his hearty support. Other Commissioners are expected to do likewise.

The plan was temporarily blocked. It was revealed Thursday at a meeting of the employment committee, because the proposal had been made to Engineer Department officials instead of directly to the Commissioners.

Pullman Worker Hurt As Cars Roll Together

Trapped between two Pullman cars in the Eckington Yards at Fourth and T streets northeast, Harry Hall, 27 years old, 513 Third street northeast, a Pullman electrician, was seriously injured yesterday morning.

The man was working between the two cars when in some manner an air brake was released and the cars closed in on his body. He was released and taken to Emergency Hospital in a Casualty Hospital ambulance. Physicians said he suffered internal injuries and possible fractures of several vertebrae.

DISTRICT EMPLOYES' PLEDGES AT $90,762

Governmental Units Report Total to Date of $321,478 From 20,000.

With only three-fourths of the District government employes contacted up to December 1, the total amount of salary pledges to the Community Chest has reached $90,762.74, Maj. D. J. Donovan, District auditor and divisional chairman, reported to the District Commissioners yesterday. This is almost five times the $18,730 contributed by all District employes last year.

As the total number of District employes is 10,172, with a monthly pay roll of $1,711,286, Maj. Donovan said, three days' pay from all employes would amount to $171,128 in subscriptions. Only 7,308 employes have been contacted, however, and of these 5,102 signed the three-day pledge, 21 signed for more than this amount, and 534 subscribed less than the three days' pay. Thus 1,745, or more than one-fifth, gave nothing.

A detailed statement showing the number of employes in each office who have pledged three days' pay, more or less, together with amount of the monthly pay roll, was included in the report.

Excellent progress reports continue to be submitted by the establishments in the governmental unit of the local request for subscriptions to aid in unemployment and welfare work. The reports submitted as of December 1, 1931, showed $164,480.06 subscribed. The establishments reporting for the first time as of December 3 are:

Department.	Number of employes contacted.	Total amount subscribed.
American Battle Monuments Commission	8	$137.50
Dept. of Commerce	166	1,834.81
Interstate Commerce Commission	512	9,351.81
Federal Trade Com.	96	2,115.68
Public Buildings and Public Parks of Nat'l Capital	917	11,761.94
General Acct'g Office	1,090	14,462.00
District Government	7,308	90,762.74
Employes Compensation Commission	118	1,051.67
	10,215	$131,478.15

The further announcement was made by Commissioner Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, that the total amount of subscriptions reported thus far is $321,489.58, with approximately 20,000 employes contacted.

Mayflower to Be Topic.

A talk on the Mayflower descendants will be presented before the National Genealogical Society tomorrow night at 8 o'clock by Mrs. Gaius M. Brumbaugh. The meeting will be held at the Y. W. C. A.

FEAST OF CHANUKAH OPENED BY CAPITAL JEWISH GATHERINGS

Eight-Day Festival Marked by Stirring Rites in City's Congregations.

CHALLENGE TO NATION'S YOUTH GIVEN BY RABBIS

Candles Lighted and Gifts Are Exchanged; Service Is Planned Tonight.

With the first light of the Chanukah burning on the altar, Rabbi Abram Simon, taking his inspiration from the story of Joseph and from Judas Maccabeus, threw the gage of battle for the world's future at the feet of youth in his sermon for students last night at the Eighth Street Temple.

The eight-day Chanukah festival began at sunset last night. All Jews joined in the festival, which commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over the Syrians and their dedication of the temple at Jerusalem.

In addressing the students Dr. Simon said that on the youth of the Nation and the world rests the responsibility of solving the present crisis. A reception in the vestry rooms followed.

Service at Adas Israel.

At Adas Israel the celebration opened with a service at which Rabbi Simon Metz talked on "The New Education." An address also was given by Paul M. Segal, former associate counsel for the Radio Commission.

Jews marked the occasion with the exchange of gifts and with the lighting of a candle in each home. At sundown each day an additional taper will be lighted until the eighth day ends the ritual.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the first community Chanukah festival will be held by the brotherhood of the Eighth street Temple at the Jewish Community Center.

A tableau depicting the victory of the Maccabees will be presented by the degree team of the Knights of the Maccabees. John Fletcher, degree master, will direct the pageant, to be given in full costume.

Special Features Planned.

After the congregation opens the celebration in the singing of "America," Dr. Simon will offer an invocation. The Rev. L. Novick, cantor of the Adas Israel Congregation, will sing, "Brocoth Le Chanukah."

Irving Deiner, president of the congregation, will offer greetings, after which Miss Dora Minovich will present a piano solo. Cantor Novick will sing "Haneroth Helolu" with the assemblage singing "En Kelohenu." Rabbi Metz will pronounce the benediction.

The Hevrah Kadisha of the Adas Israel Congregation will hold a Chanukah supper at 6 o'clock tomorrow night, and on December 11, the last night of the festival brotherhood night will be held by the same congregation.

Mother Is Burned; Baby in Crib Saved

Idyll Johnson, 22 years old, colored, was painfully burned last night when an oil burning stove in the kitchen of her home at 1454½ Q street northwest exploded as she was heating milk for her 2-month-old baby, Conrad Butler, who lay in a crib nearby.

Prompt action by Douglas Moss, 27 years old, colored, a roomer at the Q street address, saved the child from injury and the mother from worse burns. He dragged the burned woman from the room when he rushed in after hearing her screams and then lowered the child's crib from a rear window to the hands of waiting neighbors as the smoke and flames blocked other exits.

Slight damage was caused by the blaze which was extinguished by responding fire apparatus. Fire rescue squad rendered first-aid treatment to the burned woman and then conveyed her to Freedmen's Hospital.

John McCormick Ill; Doorman at National

John McCormick, more popularly known by Washington playgoers as "Mac the Doorman," was stricken yesterday in the advertising offices of a local newspaper, and last night was in a serious condition at George Washington University Hospital.

Manager Steve Cochran, of the National Theater, where "Mac" is employed, was summoned, and superintended his removal to the hospital. He was at first believed to have suffered a stroke of paralysis, but physicians last night discounted this report. His condition was somewhat improved.

Leaders of Bonus March Arrive Here From Oregon

3 Veterans in Vanguard of Group Making Pilgrimage to Seek Full Payment of War Script in Plea to Congress.

Three men showed up at the Salvation Army yesterday morning and requested a place to sleep and something to eat. The act itself is not unusual, but the men were most unusual for they were the advance guard of 30 Oregon World War veterans who have marched all the way to Washington to present a demand to Congress for full payment of the bonus.

Dirty, weary and unshaven, the 30 comrades had remained together in a group from the time they left Oregon until they reached Steubenville, Ohio. There, huddled together in a box car, they were discovered by the chief of police, who called out the riot squad and surrounded them. However, when their spokesman produced credentials from police chiefs of other cities to show that they were a peaceful body of men, the Steubenville police chief didn't do a thing but put them up at the town's best hotel for the night, furnish them with meals at the exclusive cafe in town and then send them on their way rejoicing.

John Pappas, Elson Munce and Fritz Mickleson composed the advance guard that showed up yesterday morning. They will remain in the city until their comrades join them and then they are going to make a call on Congress for payment of the bonus in full.

According to the men now in the city, their numbers are but a small amount of the veterans who are eventually expected to arrive here after Congress convenes to demand a full settlement of the bonus.

Biblical Regions Trek Is Narrated by Walsh

Vice President of Georgetown University Tells National Geographic Society of His Pilgrimage to Spots Famed in History.

Observing airplanes locating places for archeological investigations in areas not far from the Biblical Garden of Eden, living for weeks in the native quarter of Bagdad, visiting the devil worshipers of northern Irak, and walking 10 miles through a desert morasss to a Foreign Legion outpost after rains had mired their automobiles—these and a series of other remarkable experiences were related to National Geographic Society members last evening at the Washington Auditorium by the Rev. Edmund Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University.

Starting his Near East trek at Beirut, Syria, Dr. Walsh took his auditors through the Lebanon Mountains, famous for the cedars that Solomon transported for his temple, then into the desert at Damascus, where he showed the making and the playful use of the famous swords. From Damascus to Bagdad he took a bus, built by an American firm. The trip is 26 hours by bus, 8 hours by airplane and about 21 days with the heavily laden camels.

The speaker showed pictures of camel caravans, with camels tied tail to tail; of Arab tents with the inevitable coffee heaters, and of the Bedouin camel corps. Intensely hot by day, blankets are needed by nightfall, when the temperature falls 30 degress or more as the sun goes down.

Bagdad was described as a sprawling city with one main street and a river. He showed street scenes where cobblers were sawing wood for the oriental shoes which use leather only for decorative covering; fine views of the city's roof line where the intense heat drives all natives to sleep by night, and he obtained a photograph of King Feisal with his pet hunting cheetah.

The ancient method of irrigation, by means of bullocks and water buckets; the call to prayer; the historic boats on the Tigris, which resemble a magnified finger bowl, know nas goofas, and types of Arabian homes, from the marvelous interiors of Arabian Nights times, to what we would call slums, were shown.

NATIONAL WOMAN'S PARTY MEETS TODAY

Mrs. Wiley to Greet Delegates to Its Biennial Convention Here.

The National Woman's Party will open its biennial convention at noon today when delegates will register at the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel.

At 2:30 o'clock the gathering will be officially greeted by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, national chairman. At this session reports will be heard from the treasurer, the director of national activities, the research chairman and chairmen of standing committees.

This evening, at 8:30 o'clock Mrs. Wiley will act as hostess in receiving the delegates at Alva Belmont House. She will be assisted by members of the national council.

Tomorrow's activities will begin at 12:30 o'clock p. m., when a radio address from Viscountess Rhondda, members of the international advisory council on "Feminism as an International Force" will begin over Station WMAL.

Official session will be resumed at 2:30 o'clock in the Concord room of the Mayflower, when the equal rights amendment, the Welosky Case, the Inter-American Commission of Women and the League of Nations' consultative committee of women will receive the attention of the members.

Tomorrow night at 7 o'clock all delegates will gather at the Mayflower for the "Equal Rights Dinner." Addresses will be made by Dr. James Brown Scott, president of American Institute of International Law; John L. Cable, father of Cable act; Senora Dona Juanita Molina de Fromen, representative of Nicaragua on the Inter-American Commission of Women; Mrs. Wiley and Miss Maud Younger, chairman of congressional committee. Izetta Jewel Brown will be toastmistress.

The business sessions will be closed with election of officers and formulating of plans for various projects at 10 o'clock. At 12:30 o'clock a delegation will greet Mrs. T. H. Caraway on her becoming United States senator from Arkansas.

In the afternoon delegates will interview members of Congress on the equal rights amendment, and at 5 o'clock the convention will close with a tea at the Alva Belmont House.

Note by Dead Man Tells Insanity Fear

Revolver Victim Is Found in His Room With Weapon Near.

With a bullet wound in his head and a .38-caliber revolver lying beside him, Frederick Lewis White, 40 years old, was found dead in his room at 620 I street northwest, yesterday by a fellow roomer, Frank DeRoose. A note found by police in Lewis' clothes, indicated he contemplated taking his life.

Lewis had been living at the I street address for three weeks. The note read:

"Unemployment and the fear of loss of my mind is the cause of this."

Coroner Joseph D. Rogers was notified, but had not issued a certificate in the death late yesterday.

Grant Receives Bids On Moving U. S. Units

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, yesterday received bids on moving various governmental units into the new Department of Commerce Building. The low bids are as follows:

The Baltimore Transfer Co., $4,190, for moving the bureaus at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue; the Fidelity Storage Co., $2,725, for moving the offices in the Hurley Wright Building; the Kane Transfer Co., $5,425.75, to move the equipment from the Patent Office and the Old Land Office buildings; the same company, $4,375.25, for moving the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Smith Transfer & Storage Co., $2,913, for moving the Bureau of Fisheries.

Municipal Center Site Purchased for District

Two pieces of property in the Municipal Center area were purchased by the District Commissioners yesterday upon recommendation of Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

From L. W. Estes, 470 Indiana avenue northwest, they bought lot 812, square 490, for $57,866, while from Harrison Stewart they purchased lot 807, square 490, for $72,500. The latter property is improved with a garage which will house from 50 to 75 cars.

REZONING REFUSAL ATTACKED IN SUIT

Gruver and Cooleys Seek to Build Row Houses Off Calvert Street.

The refusal of the District zoning Commission to grant a building permit for the erection of row houses for the Fortieth street frontage and the Thirty-ninth place frontage at Calvert street northwest was attacked in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Benjamin H. Gruver, 927 Fifteenth street northwest, and Charles E. and William O. Cooley, owners of the tract, asked for a court order directing the issuance of such a permit.

The owners, through Attorneys Joseph T. Sherier and Ralph B. Fleharty, say that under the row-house plan they can erect 171 houses, while under another plan they can only build 123. The applicants advance the proposition that the other property in the vicinity is developed with row houses. They claim that the action of the zoning commission in refusing to change the zoning is violative of their rights as owners.

Plea for Padlock Charges Rum Sale

Capt. Orcutt Would Close Premises on H Street Southwest.

A padlock injunction, under the nuisance provisions of the prohibition law, was sought in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Capt. Harold W. Orcutt, assistant United States attorney, for the premises at 460 and 460A H street southwest.

The petition named Ralph Samuel Burino as the occupant of the place and Larino Lansdale Buckley as the owner.

Attached to the petition are three affidavits from police officers concerning purchases of liquor at the place. Lynwood J. Fay, Richard J. Felber and T. O. Montgomery were the officers. The place has been continuously violating the prohibition law since July 29 of this year, Capt. Orcutt said in the suit.

Sergt. Jasper Post Installs New Officers

The new officers are Edward L. Marthill, commander; Paul H. McMurray, first vice commander; W. P. Kershner, second vice commander; John J. McGinnis, third vice commander; Carl F. Tierney, chaplain; William M. Greene, adjutant; Joseph J. Malloy, financial officer; Thomas J. Frailey, publicity officer, and Lloyd B. Harrison, judge advocate.

Capt. Morgan Named To Police Trial Board

Because of recent promotion of James F. Beckett from the rank of captain to that of inspector, the District Commissioners yesterday removed him from the Police Trial Board and appointed Capt. James E. Morgan to fill the vacancy.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, who was recently transferred from the Detective Bureau to the Third Precinct, was made an alternate member of the board.

Odd Fellows Honor Grand Master Here

McConnell Feted by Own Lodge on Last Official Visitation.

William H. McConnell, grand master of District Odd Fellows, last night was honored by his own subordinate lodge, Federal City, No. 20, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at his last official visitation of the year at Odd Fellows Temple.

The lodge was addressed by Senator H. H. Logan, of Kentucky, past grand sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, introduced by Ernest W. Bradford, past grand sire of the District order. A banquet and entertainment followed.

JIMMY LA FONTAINE SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR 9-MONTH TERM

FINE OF $1,000 IS ADDED TO PUNISHMENT METED

Washington Man Had Pleaded Guilty to Evading Payment of Income Tax.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 4.—So he could spend Christmas with two little nieces he has raised, James A. (Jimmy) LaFontaine will be allowed to begin serving the nine-month jail sentence imposed on him today on January 2. He was released in $10,000 bond until that day.

LaFontaine was fined $1,000, in addition to the jail term, by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut in the United States District Court, as a result of a plea of guilty on an indictment charging him with evading income tax laws.

After sentence was imposed, William Curran, who with Morton P. Fisher and E. Barrett Prettyman, of Washington, represented the defendant, told the court that his client had raised "two nieces, little tots," and wanted, if possible, to spend Christmas with them at his home in Washington.

Pays Government $200,000.

Judge Chesnut said he was willing if the fine were paid at once, and the defendant posted $10,000 bail. The court also instructed Simon E. Sobeloff, United States attorney, to ascertain whether service of the sentence could be legally deferred. Mr. Sobeloff reported that it could. The bail was posted and the fine paid, and LaFontaine left for Washington.

LaFontaine, who is 63, pleaded guilty last month to an indictment charging evasion of income tax payment of $11,622.62 in 1926. At that time the court was told that LaFontaine had settled the Government's civil claims against him for the years 1924 to 1930 by the payment of more than $200,000.

Taking the witness stand at the request of Judge Chesnut, the little, white-haired man told the court he had been a gambler all his life and was under the impression that he need not report income derived from illegal sources.

Five Years Was Possible.

In imposing sentence Judge Chesnut filed an eight-page memorandum in which he said that "from the public aspects of the case I am not justified in acting favorably on the request of defendant's counsel to limit the punishment to a fine without imprisonment. It must not be forgotten that the main object of criminal punishment is, as far as possible, to prevent further crime."

The memorandum also pointed out that the offense was not accompanied with other aggravations and that the defendant was apparently modest in appearance and in his way of living, "apart from his admittedly illegal business activities," and "probably otherwise exemplary."

Under the law Judge Chesnut could have imposed a sentence of five years in prison or a fine of $10,000, or both.

Drunken-Driving Count Follows Truck Crash

John I. Starnes, 37 years old, of 524 Park Road northwest, was treated for cuts and bruises and then booked on a charge of driving while drunk after a collision last night at Sherman avenue and Fairmont street northwest.

Police accused him of colliding with the truck of John Benson, 29 years old, of 449 Tennessee avenue northwest, which was proceeding south on Sherman avenue.
